ELKS ENDORSE WILSON'S STAND

Old Glory Paraded as Members Sing "We'll Never Haul the Old Flag Down."

Anaconda, April 5.—The Anaconda lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks adopted resolutions at last night's meeting endorsing the stand taken by President Wilson on the war question and pledging unqualified support to the government of this country in the national crisis.

The resolutions adopted follow: "We, the members of Anaconda lodge No. 239, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, in regular meeting assembled, hereby resolve and declare ourselves as follows:

"We believe that in this time of vital necessity every citizen of this great country should actively declare himself in support of his government and the course outlined by our president in his address to congress on the 3d of April.

"We believe that every true American should be prepared to serve his country in actual war if necessary. We favor greater preparedness in every avenue of pursuit of our people, that there may be more efficient organization and concentration for the defense and protection of our national rights.

"To this end we heartily endorse the stand taken by our president, Woodrow Wilson, in the crisis now confronting us. We believe he has exhausted every honorable means to avoid war, in accordance with the wish of a great majority of our people, but in the stand now taken we believe he has followed the only course to be pursued. We therefore pledge ourselves, our means and our every endeavor in support of his policy as already outlined, or any policy he may find necessary to institute or adopt hereafter, in the words of our president: 'We here dedicate our lives and our fortunes, everything that we have, with the pride of those who know that the day has come when America is privileged to spend her blood and her might for the peace that gave her birth and happiness and the peace which she has treasured. God helping us, we can do no more.'

SUICIDE STILL CLOSE MYSTERY

Identity of Man Not Determined—Rigid Investigation Promised.

Anaconda, April 5.—No clue had been discovered up to a late hour this afternoon as to the identity of the man who was found dead in a lodging house over a Chinese restaurant last evening. The authorities will make a very rigid inquiry into the case. It has developed that portions of the clothing found in the room had been purchased at Thiberson's store and the shoes at Goodfriend's. No clerk at either store could identify the remains, however. It is apparent that the unfortunate man committed suicide by strangulation, while it is possible that he had contemplated suicide by cutting his throat with a penknife. The case is one of the most perplexing in the annals of crime in this county. The usual evidences in strangulation cases, contorted features or disarranged bedclothes, were missing in this instance.

The only scrap of paper found on the body that hinted at identification was a letterhead of the Crown saloon of 110 East Park street, Butte, on which was written in pencil, Ole Nelson, 19 East Gagnon street. Mr. Nelson is a miner at the original mine and could not explain how his name happened to be in possession of the stranger. He could not identify him from the telephoned description.

According to the Chinaman who conducts the rooming house, the stranger came to his place shortly after midnight Wednesday. He paid for a night's lodging but gave no name. Unable to arouse his guest last evening, the Chinaman called in Patrolman John McMillen, who broke open the door.

The body was found lying on the bed, dressed in underclothes. The upper half of the body was suspended by means of a cravat to the cross bar at the head of the bed. An open knife was found on the bed but there were no indications that the knife had been used. In the room were a pair of trousers, a mackinaw coat and a cap, the latter bearing the names of Anaconda clothing firms.

The dead man was apparently 30 years of age and about 5 feet 10 inches in height and weighed 150 pounds. He was smooth shaven and had dark brown curly, almost kinky hair.

THINK THEY SEE GHOST SUICIDE IS NOT WALKER

Anaconda, April 5.—Coroner M. P. Mahoney and Chief of Police O'Brien thought they saw a ghost this morning when they called at the home of Harry Walker, residing at 409 Chestnut street. Two men who looked at the body of the man found dead in the Chinese lodging house last night identified it as that of Walker. The officials immediately took an automobile to the family home for the purpose of breaking the news as gently as possible to the supposed widow.

A tap on the door brought a response from Mr. Walker himself, who gave every evidence of being very much alive and showed conclusively that the reports of his death, as the late Mark Twain declared on a similar occasion, "were greatly exaggerated."

A PATRIOTIC SPIRIT PERVADES MEETING

Impending Crisis Finds a Response at Home Products Luncheon.

The three-day Home Products exhibit at the Butte Woman's club was formally opened today with the luncheon-meeting of the Rotarians resolving itself into a patriotic demonstration that concluded with a silent toast of fealty to the president and the singing of "America." The impending national crisis, the necessity for preparedness, the duty which Butte and Montana owe to the nation in the present situation, sidetracked practically the discussion of home products. The meeting was very enthusiastic and each speaker after expressing appreciation of the work being done by the ladies of the club in attracting attention to the multiplicity and variety of Montana table products delved into a discussion of the part that each must play in the war drama.

The cue to the day's topic was given when President Malcolm Willard introduced Miss Moore of New York, who appealed for support in establishing in Butte an auxiliary of ladies to supply bandages for the wounded in France. She declared that 30 per cent of the soldiers were without bandages and that straw was used to cover wounds in many cases. On motion of Eugene Carroll the Rotary club pledged unanimous support.

Mr. Carroll then explained that a woman's auxiliary to the Navy League was being formed at the present time and that the organization would cooperate with Miss Moore and her organization. The following is the executive committee on the navy auxiliary: S. H. Greenwood and Jack Roach, named by Mayor Lane; J. L. Carroll and Dr. Donald Campbell, representing the Chamber of Commerce; John Gillie and Eugene Carroll, representing the Navy League, and Malcolm Gillis and Ray Ruhle, representing the Rotary club.

Talks were made by Mrs. J. W. Gunn, Mayor Lane, J. R. Wharton, J. J. Charles, Mr. Crawford of the Royal Milling company, Dr. Campbell, J. L. Carroll, S. R. White, Mr. Gillie and others. Mrs. H. N. Kennedy was in charge of the luncheon today. She was assisted by the following ladies: Mrs. Johanna Grigg, Mrs. George Menzie, Mrs. W. T. Lockwood, Mrs. Major Smith, Mrs. A. S. Christie, Mrs. D. Neal, Miss Tippett, Miss Gladys Neal, Miss Alice Neal, Mrs. Charles Austin, Mrs. Thomas Ellis, Mrs. Helen Hughes, Miss Fenner, Mrs. G. P. Porter, Mrs. P. H. Hopkins and the president, Mrs. Gunn.

A luncheon of hot cross buns and tea will be served tomorrow from 3 to 5 o'clock. This evening, tomorrow evening and Saturday evening dinners will be served at the woman's club from 5 to 7:30 o'clock. The exhibit will be in place this evening.

It was announced at the meeting that the Chamber of Commerce had donated $100 towards the formation of the bandage-making auxiliary suggested by Miss Moore of New York.

DEBATE PROCEEDS IN LOWER HOUSE

A Hearing is Given to Every Opponent on the War Program.

(Continued from Page One) came from the war and navy departments, which submitted estimates for appropriations of $3,400,000,000, to be spent within a year.

With Full Force.

It was the first official manifestation of the president's determination that the nation must enter the war whole-heartedly and with all its forces—that it must not be a "half war."

Gigantic Expenditure.

The sum asked of congress for a year's operations is three times as much as ever has been spent in any one year for all the operations of the government. Officials and leaders in congress at once began consideration of ways to raise the vast sum.

At the same time chairman of the military committees in house and senate went over the war department's army bill, which provides for raising an army of 2,000,000—the first million by expansion of the regular army and national guard and the remainder by universal service.

In the rear of the hall sat Representative Cooper of Wisconsin, republican member of the foreign affairs committee, who was expected to lead the opposition. Less than a dozen members, it was predicted, would vote against the war resolution.

Opening the Debate.

Galleries were only half filled when debate began and less than half the members were present when the session opened. Under the unanimous consent rule by which the resolution was being considered, Representative Flood could call for the previous question at any time after one hour and, if sustained, bring the measure to a vote. He was disposed, however, to give members every opportunity to speak throughout the day. The debate began without any limitation.

War Being Made.

"War is being made upon our country and its people," Representative Flood said in opening. "Our ships are being sunk. Our non-combatant citizens, including men, women and children, are being murdered, our merchantmen are being denied the freedom of the seas. There is no choice as to our course. We are compelled by the acts of the German government to enter into this most colossal war."

"We should take our stand by the side of the allied nations who have been fighting humanity's battles for two and one-half years, determined that our power shall be employed that complete victory shall crown their efforts and that the Prussian militarism shall be crushed and the world shall be delivered from the threat and danger of the Hohenzollern dynasty."

Must Stand United.

Representative Sigel of New York, republican, favoring the resolution, said he could not disregard the fact that "though we certainly desire peace, Germany answers by warring against us."

"During this week," he said, "intimations have come to me that political expediency required me to cast my vote against this resolution and that contrary action on my part would mean a general effort from now on to end my congressional career. I would be unworthy of American citizenship were I to be deterred from acting by such warnings. I say to my colleagues who are now hesitating that the people will know whether they are for this great land of freedom and religious liberty or whether they are going to be guided simply by the selfish question whether they will obtain more votes in 1918 by standing on the side of our foe. Let us give evidence to the world that we are united."

Assails Pacifists.

Representative Harrison, democrat, of Mississippi assailed pacifist sympathizers and pacifists. "I would suggest to them," he said, "that they now employ their talents and eloquence, not in attempting to cause dissension among the American people but in addressing Kaiser Wilhelm, Bethmann-Hollweg, the reichstag and the author of that remarkable sample of diplomatic 'kulture,' the Zimmermann note."

Expressions of Opposition.

First expressions of the opposition to the resolution came from Representatives Cooper and Stafford of Wisconsin and Representative Britton of Illinois while Mr. Flood was recounting German violations of American rights.

"Wouldn't the English mines in the North sea destroy American lives?" Cooper asked.

"To date England never has sunk one of our ships nor destroyed an American life," Mr. Flood said. Loud applause greeted the reply.

He said 16 members had asked for time in which to speak against the resolution.

First Opposition Talk.

Representative Cooper launched into a defense of pacifists generally and himself in particular. "I have been called a pacifist," he said. "I voted for all of these preparedness bills. This campaign of slander has no regard for the truth."

Cooper also defended his vote for the McLennan resolution.

"I was right then," he said, "and so were the 141 other members who voted for it. It should have passed. Canada does not permit its women to travel on armed ships and neither should we. Every pacifist in the country knows I am not a pacifist in the sense in which that word is used. Does it mean because I do not want to go to war with a nation 4,000 miles away. Because England and Germany have violated our rights, I am not an American?"

Mr. Cooper declared that the German government never had promised unqualifiedly to abandon its submarine warfare. Representative Flood made loud demands to be heard, but Cooper would not yield.

All United.

Mr. Cooper closed with the declaration that while all would stand united when war comes, he would not be one to vote to plunge the country into war.

An Amendment.

Representative Britton of Illinois had an amendment which he said he would later offer, providing that no part of the military forces of the United States should be ordered to land duty in Europe until so directed by congress. This aroused applause from a small number on both the republican and democratic sides.

Representative Igoe, democrat of Missouri, announced that he would vote against declaring war because he thought his people desired that he should.

Opposition Will Cease.

"With the passage of this resolution, however," he said, "my opposition will cease. I will vote for every measure to be carried on the war."

Democratic Leader Kitchin announced that he would speak and vote against the war resolution. "I hate to do it, but," said Kitchin, "I have no choice. I have no choice but to vote against the resolution. Although floor leader of the president's party in the house, he has opposed practically all the preparedness measures. He supported the armed neutrality bill.

Miller's Sensation.

Representative Miller of Minnesota, republican of the foreign affairs committee, sprang a sensation by declaring that an unpublished paragraph of the Zimmermann note offered to establish a submarine base in a Mexican port supply Mexico with unlimited quantities of arms and ammunition and send German reservists in the United States to Mexico.

The unpublished portion of the Zimmermann note Miller quoted as follows: "Agreeably to the Mexican government submarine bases will be established at Mexican ports from which will be supplied arms, ammunition and supplies. All reservists are ordered into Mexico. Arrange to attack all along the border."

When Representative Miller's quotation was submitted to Secretary Lansing, however, the secretary of state declared the Zimmermann instructions "contained nothing of the sort."

KNOWS WHAT HE'LL DO.

The Post's Washington Bureau. Washington, D. C., April 5.—Congressman Evans gave the following statement to the Butte Post: "Bitterly opposed to war as I am, I shall nevertheless vote for the resolutions, not to make war primarily but to fight those that make war on us. We have been patient until patience and forbearance has been mistaken for cowardice and complacency. Men cry for peace, but there is no peace. The war has already begun, but we did not begin it. With faith in the flag of my fathers, faith in my country and my God, I shall vote and fight to prosecute this war to a victorious termination."

Miss Rankin was still undecided this afternoon whether she would vote for or against the declaration. To face this initiation into congressional life puzzled her greatly.

SENATE ADOPTED WAR MEASURE BY 82 TO 6

Final Opponents of Resolution Were Among the "12 Willful Men."

Washington, April 5.—The senate late last night adopted by a vote of 82 to 6 the resolution recognizing a state of war. Passage of the resolution in the senate was marked by scenes of unusual gravity and quiet. There had been more than 12 hours of continuous debate, featured by a three hours' speech of Senator La Follette denouncing war and defending pacifist efforts to prevent it and Senator Williams' retort that Mr. La Follette's speech was more than worthy of the character of the German chancellor's speech than of an American senator.

C. GALLAGHER DEAD.

Charles Gallagher, aged 34 years, a miner at the Anaconda, died yesterday in a local hospital after a brief illness. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. McDonough and Mrs. Gallagher, and three brothers, Barney Gallagher and Peter Murray of New Jersey and John J. Murray of Butte. The funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Man's Letter Answered.

Dear Sir: In the year 1913, month of March, I read in my newspaper a recipe or prescription and had it filled, as I was in run-down health and was particularly nervous, weak and worn out. I was despondent and unable to work part of the time. The medicine at once revived my energy, will to power and strength and made me like a "new man" until I recently. Have lost the recipe and again for my benefit and others needing such a grand medicine to restore health.

Answer: The prescription referred to is herewith given. Any well-chosen drugist can mix it. It really is a wonderful strength-giving tonic for nerve-broken men, and women.

Timure Cadomene Comp. 1 oz. Comp. Essence Cardiol. 1 oz. Comp. Fluid Balmwort. 1 oz. Comp. Syrup Sarsaparilla. 1 oz. Mix. Shake well and take 2 spoonful before or after each meal and one at bedtime for several weeks.

With the fate of the resolution declaring war still hanging in the balance, uncertainty unsettled the stock market today and forced considerable liquidation, which was reflected in price declines throughout the list.
