RED CROSS SOCIETY OF UNIVERSITY WOMEN

Sixty Join Organization and Petition is Sent for National Charter.

While unable to take military drill or plant potatoes the women of the State university at Missoula have not despaired in attempting to keep pace with their male companions who are training themselves for service to their country.

Sixty members of university women have organized a Red Cross band under the direction of Miss Gertrude Sloane of Missoula, a Red Cross nurse, according to the recent issue of the Kaimin, the student publication. A national charter has been petitioned for and officers will be elected as soon as it is granted. Miss Patricia O'Flynn of Butte, a senior at the university, is active in the organization.

That the military spirit has taken a firm hold on university affairs is emphasized by the fact that May Day fete exercises will be done to martial music and filled with military maneuvers. The women are getting suggestions for their spring festival from the military tactics now being taught to the underclassmen of the university.

The May pole will be wound with red, white and blue streamers and the women taking part will be dressed in Grecian robes, bound with red and blue ribbons.

HOME GUARDS WILL JOIN RIFLE CLUB

Committee of New Organization to Recommend Consolidation Today.

At a meeting of the Home guards, called for this afternoon at 5 o'clock on the first floor of the Silver Bow club, a special committee appointed at the organization meeting Monday, will recommend affiliation with the Rocky Mountain Rifle club. This will be urged in order to expedite drilling and equipment of the organization. About 50 representative Butte men are charter members of the Home guards. Dr. J. A. Donovan is president of the organization; J. H. Rowe, vice president; A. L. Matter, secretary, and D. J. Charles, treasurer.

FARMERS IN STATE ARE CALLING FOR MORE HELP

per cent more land will be cultivated this year than in other seasons. These reports show that in only a few counties additional finances will be needed other than what may be furnished by the banks in each locality, but in nearly every county the demand for additional help is felt in order to handle the additional acreage which is being planted to all kinds of food stuffs of which grain is leading.

Rush Implements.

The situation in regard to farming implements, which will also play a big part in putting the bigger crop in the ground, preparing the ground for fall planting and harvesting the crop, is not as good as it might be, although merchants throughout the state are making every effort to supply the necessary implements. The state railroad commission has also aided this phase of the work by giving all railroads operating in Montana the right to send shipments of farming implements to their destinations directly and to handle them as preferred shipments.

Hastening Delivery.

The problem of the utilization of idle men is one of the greatest with which all organizations have to deal at this time. Work is plentiful in all lines and there is room on the farms for any surplus.

It is expected that the labor committee will evolve a plan which will have good results in adding the "back to the farm" movement.

The Farmers' Duty.

"Farmers do your duty," is the message to every member of the Montana Society of Equity, which has been sent broadcast by B. C. White, chairman of the farmers' organization committee of the defense council. To the farmers in a proclamation he says:

"A grave situation confronts the entire country. The president of the United States and the secretary of agriculture have appealed to all farmers of this state to raise all the food possible.

"The spring is very late. Seed and feed conditions are not of the best and we are appealing to the farmers of the American Society of Equity to use their utmost efforts to plant and raise all the crops that it is possible. The farmers of the country must meet the situation, if it is met. The whole country is relying upon the agricultural population to meet the demands. The farmers of the United States have never failed to meet any emergency and we confidently believe that the farmers in Montana are going to stand in the forefront of the production of the country and meet this demand."

Answers to these demands have come in from every part of the state. Herbert Peet, editor of the Equity News, writes that the machinery of the Equity organization of this state has been placed at the disposal of the State Defense Council. The officers of all local societies have been urged to get all the information possible into the possession of the council. The insurance department has directed its 200 fieldmen to lay aside all other work and for the next 15 days to push the collection of data required by the defense council.

County Reports.

A. H. Bowman of the Big Horn advisory council writes: "One of the greatest moves the government could make at this time to help raise foodstuffs is to see that the land department gets a move on itself and sets patents out to these poor people whose money they have had from six months to three years and to the homesteaders waiting. We have thousands of them in Montana."

Ike E. O. Pace of the Jefferson county advisory council writes: "I am the manager of the Pipestone irrigation project, which has 3,000 acres of excellent irrigated land that can be cropped. It is high priced, very productive land. I am going to insert notices in local and Butte papers, that to promote production I will give the use of this land with water for irrigation free of charge. I am also making a personal canvass of this valley, which is exceedingly rich from an agricultural standpoint, and will have as large an acreage seeded as possible."

B. E. Vaill of the Superior county advisory council writes that the acreage under cultivation there will be increased this year and that the county now has an excess of potatoes and eggs.

Frank C. Hughes of the Dawson county advisory council said that the committee is getting out some newspaper advertising, urging the farmers to put in the largest crops possible.

COMMUNITY FLAG FOR BUTTE CITY

Rotary Club Endorses Movement—Weekly Meeting is Patriotic.

Butte is to have a community flag bearing the Stars and Stripes from 200 to 250 feet in the air and flying on the slope of big Butte hill somewhere near the State School of Mines. The project was given the hearty endorsement of the Rotary club at the weekly luncheon meeting today and the following committee was named to cooperate with other organizations in attending to the securing and erection of raising the flag: W. H. Davey, Eugene Carroll and John M. Barber.

In consonance with the spirit of the times there were several patriotic talks, especially by Gen. Charles S. Warren, Commander Kellogg and Simon Hauswirth, representing the Grand Army of the Republic, who came to the luncheon to thank the Rotary club for its co-operation in making arrangements for the state encampment next month, probably one of the last to be held in this state. The three visitors explained further plans in contemplation for the state encampment.

A committee also attended the meeting representing the Women's and literary clubs of the city to endorse the incumbent librarian, J. F. Davies, for reappointment by Mayor-elect W. H. Maloney. The several members who spoke, in response to the request of the committee, expressed their satisfaction with the good services rendered by Mr. Davies and a hope that Mr. Maloney would see it in his power to reappoint him.

A telegram was read from Miss Jeanette Rankin in which Miss Rankin, in answer to a telegram sent from the Rotary club urging support of the selective conscription plan, said: "There is no one in the house in support of this. Do you want me to stand alone?" A committee consisting of Eugene Carroll, Oscar Rohn and Tom Davis was named to reply to Miss Rankin. They sent the following telegram:

"In answer to your telegram Rotary club, in session today, believes from press reports that the president will be supported by a large majority of congress. We know that your constituents, endorsed by resolutions of all prominent bodies of the state, are by a large majority in favor of supporting the president and in favor of selective conscription. We desire you, if necessary, to stand alone and vote to support the president and war college in all war measures, particularly selective conscription. What others of congress may think should not influence you. You should think only of the good of your country."

"C. M. AUSTIN, Secretary." W. H. Davey's remark, in the course of a discussion, that unless "Champ" Clark got in and supported the president's policy, some one would go to Washington and start "kicking his dog around", evoked much laughter and applause.

W. W. Wisner and E. A. Morley were elected members.
