BRICKLEY SAYS FOOTBALL IS GOOD ARMY TRAINING

Among the soldierly qualifications which football develops are ability to think, to take hard knocks, amenity, discipline and the like, according to Charles Brickley, the famous Harvard fullback, who is now in an officers' training camp. He says: "I think the training that football players receive under any of the recognized football systems fits them the more for war service than training in any other sport would do. The football man must have his brains in his head and not in his feet. He is, as a rule, a strict observer of discipline, accustomed to do as he is told without questioning, and is used to respond in the pinches. Above all the footballer is an everyday recipient of knocks and bruises. He naturally expects them, and some of the players feel out of sorts when they haven't an injury or two to nurse during the season. I think I'm going to like this training and hope to enter the Plattsburg camp in August, providing I am not qualified by that time to get a commission in any army that is to fight abroad."

A FEW YOUNG PLAYERS ARE PUTTING THE ST. LOUIS CARDINALS ON THE BASEBALL MAP

to do with their being there as any one. At the opening of the season the Cardinals were doped as sure eighth positioners. They weren't given a chance. Hornsby, critics said, might be good or might be bad. Jack Smith was classed with the mediocre crew. F.

A few young ball players, some of them never heard of outside the bushes, are putting the St. Louis Cardinals on the baseball map. There's a brace of Smiths, J. and F.; there's young Cruise and Hornsby. At the bag end of last season you may have heard a little about this Hornsby, and some one may have mentioned Jack Smith, but the other two meant nothing in the average fan's life. But now Cruise is leading the National league in batting. J. Smith is right near the top. Hornsby proved that his last season's performance was not, as many said, a flash in the pan, and F. Smith is acquiring himself creditably both with the stick and the glove. A mighty good acquisition was this said F. Smith. It gave Miller Huggins a chance to move Hornsby from third over to short, where he is of far more value to the club, without weakening the hot corner. The Cardinals are in the first division and it looks as though they are booked to stay there. At least at this stage there doesn't seem to be much chance of Cincinnati, Brooklyn, Pittsburgh or Boston pushing them out. And this quartet have about as much Smith and Cruise were neglected. It's just one of those inexplicable things in baseball, that's all.

SPORT CHATTER

Fred Fulton, the Minnesota heavy-weight, had little trouble taking the measure of Sam Langford in their bout at Boston last night. Fulton put the negro down in the second and again at the end of the sixth. The negro failed to come back in the seventh and Fulton was given a technical knockout. Langford during the six rounds was handled a bundle of punishment. McGraw, manager of the Giants who was said to have made some very uncomplimentary remarks about Tener, president of the National League, when pulled up on the carpet yesterday denied that he had ever made the statements attributed to him. He also said that he was keenly sorry for what had taken place recently and the directors forgave him and the incident is now closed. Carson Bigbee, playing with the Pittsburgh team, is picking up a little in his counting. He is now swatting 'em out to the tune of 213. Grover, the former Butte player, is still having his troubles with the big league mound artists and is hanging around the .180 mark with the willow. The minor leagues throughout the country are having their troubles and it would be quite a coincidence if some of them were to blow up on July 4. The Cubs certainly are giving a good account of themselves, but they will have to continue at top speed to beat out the Phils, the Giants and the Cardinals. The Dodgers made eight runs in one inning yesterday against Philadelphia and the eastern sport writer who sent out the story told of the "terrific swatting." That's nothing. A couple of weeks or so ago the Beavers turned the trick a couple of times in the same game while making monkeys out of McGinnity's underlings. Dutch Reuther was called into the game against Cincinnati yesterday after the Cubs had used two other pitchers against the Reds. But it was too late and the former Northwesterner was unable to stem the tide. Hank Gowdy, catcher for the Braves, expects to quit the game on July 1 to enter the national guard of Ohio. Boston may also lose the services of Maranville as the little shortstop has declared his intention of entering the marines. Fabrique, the Boston shortstop who started in the big show like a house afire, has fallen away off with the stick. His last official mark was .207. Several big league teams have two pastimers of the same name this season. The White Sox have two of the name of Collins, the Pirates two Wagners, the Cardinals two Smiths, and Brooklyn has Myers and Meyers. Although he looks to have sufficient stuff to become a winning pitcher, Young (Louis) of the Indians has upset many another heaver. He is able to pitch gut-gut ball up to a certain period of the game, and then blows. The Athletics have several fancy clouters on their payroll. With one or two dependable pitchers added to the roster the Mackmen would be heard from.

THE RING AS I SAW IT

Tom Sharkey was one of the men I seconded many times and I can say that Sharkey followed directions from his corner better than any of them. Sharkey had a great heart. Early in his career Sharkey had been matched with Joe Choynski. We heard that Choynski was going to try to stop Tom in eight rounds. Just before time was called I remarked to Tom: "They tell me this Jewish boy wants to stop you in eight rounds. Now if you've got a drop of Irish blood in your veins, you'll stop him a lot quicker than that." As I recollect, Joe lasted almost one round with Tom that day. The boy who posts the score was a hero yesterday. Bogart hit one of Barham's curves on the nose, and when the pill landed it had shattered the big clock over the scoreboard. The boy in charge tried to duck the flying glass, but failed. He was badly cut about the head. After his wounds were dressed by Dr. Maillette, the youngster proudly marched back to the board and attended his work. Incidentally Bogart got four sacks on his hit. After shattering the glass the ball was lost inside the clock. Ralph Frary, who umpired yesterday, chased the game ahead at least a half hour. Frary kept the players on the jump throughout the contest. In addition his work was first class. Frary equals if he does not surpass

BONNER PITCHES BUTTE TO VICTORY

Local Mound Artist Outwirls Barham, the League's Leading Hurler.

Big Al Bonner, the giant mound artist recently sold by Tacoma, showed Vancouver that he is there with the goods by defeating Bob Brown's pots yesterday by a score of 8 to 4. Incidentally it was Bonner's third victory in as many times out. An added feature is that Bonner defeated Barham, the crack Tacoma boxer who won six straight games and who is leading the Northwestern league in pitching. The game was a hard fought contest until the sixth inning when the locals jumped onto Barham and cracked out three runs, enough to clinch the game. The score: Vancouver— AB. R. H. PO. A. E. SPOKANE WINS SECOND.

Tacoma, June 20.—In a game that was featured by 13 glaring errors Spokane won its second straight from the locals. Score: Spokane..... 10 10 7 Tacoma..... 6 7 6 Batteries—Heifrich and Marshall; Schroeder, Pillett and Flagstead.

ELECTRICS INCREASE LEAD.

Seattle, June 20.—A poorly played game was won by the Electrics yesterday. Score: Falls..... 9 3 Great Falls..... 7 2 Seattle..... 4 8 Batteries—Peterson and Baldwin; Eastley and T. Cunningham.

DIAMOND DUST

Big Al Bonner's victory yesterday was his third straight. Dave Hilliard's homer in the seventh inning was the longest hit ever made on the local grounds. The ball cleared the screen in left center by at least 20 feet. Barham was a disappointed man yesterday when he was forced to taste defeat. He had won six straight games and he figured he would annex another at the expense of Butte. But the locals fooled him. Johnson robbed Vancouver of a couple runs in the third inning. There were two men on the sacks when Brown hit the pill to the fence. Johnson made a great one-handed catch and the side was retired. The boy who posts the score was a hero yesterday. Bogart hit one of Barham's curves on the nose, and when the pill landed it had shattered the big clock over the scoreboard. The boy in charge tried to duck the flying glass, but failed. He was badly cut about the head. After his wounds were dressed by Dr. Maillette, the youngster proudly marched back to the board and attended his work. Incidentally Bogart got four sacks on his hit. MARANVILLE DENIES IT.

Boston, June 20.—Walter Maranville, shortstop of the Boston National league baseball club, today denied that he had enlisted in the naval reserve. "I have not enlisted yet," Maranville said, "though I have been thinking about it. I probably will not join until October."

FATALITY IN BOXING RING IN AUSTRALIA. What is reported to be the first fatality to occur in the Australian prize ring under modern administration, took place during a recent bout at Sydney. In the seventh round of a contest between bantamweights one of the participants sank to the floor of the ring after receiving a short arm jab to the jaw. When he did not recover from the blow within a reasonable period the boxer was hurried to the hospital where he died.

PACIFIC NORTHWEST. In reply to an inquiry of an interested subscriber, the following list concerning the Pacific Northwest league of which Butte was a member during the years 1902 and 1903 was learned from Lou Eschle, who was one of the most prominent fans in the 40 days of baseball in Butte: The league played in Butte during the years of 1902 and 1903. Teams playing in the league during '02 were Butte, Helena, Spokane, Seattle, Portland and Tacoma. Butte was the pennant during this season. Teams playing in the league during 1903 were Butte, Helena, Spokane, Seattle, Portland, Tacoma, San Francisco and Los Angeles. Los Angeles was in the lead until the latter part of the season, when the team dropped out of the circuit. After Los Angeles dropped from the race Butte took the lead and won the pennant with Walter Wilmot as manager.
