SPAIN IS AGAIN IN THROES OF CRISIS

Premier of Two Weeks Forced to Suspend the Constitution.

Madrid, June 26.—The government yesterday decided to suspend the constitutional guarantees. Premier Dato went to the palace to obtain the king's signature to the decree authorizing the suspension.

AT SPECIAL MEETING OF NEW CABINET

Paris, June 26.—The decision to suspend constitutional guarantees in Spain was reached at a special meeting of the cabinet yesterday, after which Premier Dato took to the palace the decree authorizing the measure to obtain the king's signature. It goes into effect today. Dispatches from Madrid give no special reason for this action. The constitutional guarantees have been suspended several times since the outbreak of the war and were restored only recently.

The cabinet named by Marquis Prego resigned on June 9 because of inability to cope with the various internal difficulties. Widespread labor troubles, high prices of necessities, the cutting off of a large part of the country's export trade by the submarine campaign, leading to industrial depression; dissatisfaction in the army and irritation over the persistent pro-German propaganda which has been carried on combined to produce a dangerous situation and at times there has been fear of a revolutionary movement. The Dato cabinet was formed on June 12, and subsequent press dispatches from Madrid said the crisis had passed.

I recommend them to others and all find them entirely satisfactory and wonderfully different and more pleasing than anything ever seen." MILITARY ROADS WILL REMAIN AS MONUMENT

Many Miles Are Being Constructed of Debris by German Prisoners.

Behind the British Lines in France. (Correspondence.)—Hundreds of miles of the smooth white macadam roads of northern France will remain for many years after the war as a real memorial to the devastated towns which the Germans left in ruins after their retreat this spring. All over northern France the roads are being widened and resurfaced with stone and rubble taken from the wrecked houses of Peronne, Albert, Arras, and countless other ruined towns and villages. As fast as the British soldiers clear away the debris of the towns, it is piled into lorries and distributed in heaps along the main roads. There German prisoners toil the day long pounding it into level patches which the great steam rollers, many of them bearing familiar American names, grind quickly into smooth macadam for the business of transport. The brick and stone of these old buildings make as good road material as could be obtained anywhere, and the work of the German dynamiter has been so thorough that much of it is crushed fine enough to need no further preparation. The roads of northern France were always excellent, but they were never better than today. The only complaint travelers had against them in the old days was that the paved strip in the center was too narrow. That complaint cannot be made after the British highway plans have been completed for all the main highways will be macadamized to a width permitting three broad-auge lorries to run abreast, and even the byways will have a paved surface wide enough to allow traffic to pass easily at an point. Excessive dustiness is the only fault of the roads today, for war economy will not permit the use of precious oil on roadways. There is little need anywhere in the district for straightening roads or a better route, because the roads of northern France mostly run straight as an arrow's flight. In the Napoleonic time by military surveyors and the strategic value and importance have always been kept primarily in mind, the French government.
