FRIENDS RALLY TO WOMAN'S DEFENSE

Mrs. De Saullies to Make Hard Fight to Escape Murder Conviction.

Minneapolis, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Mrs. Ethel Bernice De Saullies will not be without friends when she is called to trial for the murder of her former husband, John Longest De Saullies, last Friday night.

Relatives in Valparaiso, Chile, it was learned today, were not only ready to aid her in the forthcoming trial but were planning to obtain permanent custody for her of her 4½ year old son, John Longest De Saullies Jr.

It was because of Mrs. De Saullies' devotion to her son and also the fear that the husband she had divorced on the ground of infidelity was planning to keep the child from her that she killed him, according to her attorney.

Following the statement given out by Henry A. Oberhauser, Mrs. De Saullies' lawyer, that Mr. De Saullies was a fortune hunter whose love cooled after he had used about half of his wife's fortune, G. M. Heisecker, a cousin of the murdered man, today made public a copy of a recent letter which he said De Saullies had written June 30, speaks of the good the country life had done for the child and suggesting that he be allowed to remain in the cottage Mr. De Saullies occupied.

The letter also offered Mrs. De Saullies the use of a servant to take care of the child, should he remain at his father's home and said that he would be ready to be taken away by his mother at the time appointed by the court.

When the case of Mrs. De Saullies is called for trial, according to statements of her attorney, Mr. De Saullies will be pictured as a man who had had his infidelities forgiven many times by his wife because of her devotion for the child. It was also learned the defense would attempt to show the murder was not premeditated but that Mrs. De Saullies carried the revolver.

How Long Must I Suffer From the Pangs of Rheumatism?

Is There No Real Relief in Sight? Doubtless like other sufferers, you have often asked yourself this question, which continues to remain unanswered.

Science has proven that your Rheumatism is caused by a germ in your blood, and the only way to reach it is by a remedy which eliminates and removes these little pain demons from your blood. This explains why liniments and lotions can do no permanent good, for they cannot possibly reach these germs which infect your blood by the millions.

S. B. S. has been successfully used for Rheumatism for more than fifty years. Try it today, and you will find yourself at last on the right track to get rid of your Rheumatism. You can get valuable advice about the treatment of your individual case by writing to the Chief Medical Adviser, Swift Specific Co., Dept. N-146, Atlanta, Ga.

CALIFORNIA REGIMENT WOULD HAVE GRIZZLY BEAR FOR A MASCOT

San Francisco, Aug. 6.—The California 10th regiment, now organizing, would a grizzly bear for a mascot. It would be a man as good as any one, and he has reported that the only grizzly bear he could find in California was the one on the white sea.

Officers of the Grizzlies gave out this statement today, and supplemented it by saying that any one who has an extra grizzly bear on hand will kindly communicate with them at San Francisco.

The bear would reported that he would find plenty of other varieties of bear but no grizzly. He is extending his search to the northwest, but in the meantime, if California can produce a homo-grown grizzly, the soldiers prefer such a one to an imported specimen. The soldiers expect to go to France soon and want a mascot to accompany them.

WORK IS RESUMED ON AEROPLANE ENGINES

Berkeley, Cal., Aug. 6.—Work in the Hall-Scott airplane engine factory, which was suspended by a strike of unknown duration, was resumed this morning. The company authorities declared their willingness to accept all its old employees. Word was received from military sources that the work will be resumed as the company is engaged in contracts of great importance to the government.

LONGSHOREMEN'S STRIKE IS SETTLED

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 6.—The longshoremen's strike is settled and the men returned to work at 4 o'clock last evening. The longshoremen got the demanded raises, deep water men 40 and 80 cents for time and overtime per hour. AMERICA FACES A LONG HARD STRUGGLE IN WAR

But She Will Perform Her Task Gloriously, Declares Elihu Root, Chief of the Mission to Russia. Now Returning to Washington. He Has Great Faith in the Future of the Land Formerly Ruled by the Czar. Official Party Interested in Montana Affairs. This State Performing Its Part of the Nation's Work Well.

Their mission of seven weeks in Russia concluded, the American commissioners to that country, headed by Elihu Root, former secretary of state and secretary of war, and United States senator, returned yesterday afternoon on a special Milwaukee train en route to Washington, D. C. A message of cheer and hope is brought to this country by the returning envoys, who have implicit confidence that Russia will solve her internal difficulties and successfully negotiate an entry into the ranks of self-governed democracies. But America is sure to face with a grim war which will not end tomorrow and which necessitates that this country must enter the conflict with "both feet."

Of a conspicuous "compact," representing many phases of public activity, Senator Root, diplomat, orator and legislator, in spite of his advanced years, and impressive as might be expected from one who was a strong presidential possibility a few years ago when Mr. Taft became the nation's choice was surely the most distinguished.

The commissioners landed at Vladivostok, Russia, on June 2. The party re-embarked for the United States on July 21. The trip from Vladivostok to the United States was made under cover. No mention was made in the local press when the embassy passed through Butte two months ago, because of government instructions. Now that the embassy is back on home soil, the members are free to speak. Senator Root, spokesman for the party, received local newspaper men at the Milwaukee station yesterday afternoon and having answered all questions asked him, filed further questions on his own behalf regarding local conditions which evidently have been followed with deep interest by the members of the embassy since their return to the United States, said Senator Root.

Confidence in Russia.

"However, we were received everywhere with the greatest cordiality, not alone in governmental circles but by the plain people. And let me tell you the people of Russia show an extraordinary self-control and a loving respect for the rights of others. I have the greatest confidence that the people of Russia will work out the establishment of a substantial, permanent, free self-government, because they have those essential qualities of character which are essential for such a form of government. We Americans have a permanent, free self-government because we have the character that demands such a form of government and which permits the maintenance and perpetuation of such a government."

As to the Disorders.

"The amount of disorder in Russia is not at all in excess of what might be considered normal, especially in view of the fact that there are 238,000,000 people in that country which occupies one-sixth of the habitable portion of the earth's surface. It is not wise to be misled by the news items which reach this country from the land once ruled by the czar. For news items are only the exceptional incidents. Were the people of Russia merely from an estimate of Americans merely from the news items which fill the front pages of our American press. It is from no other source, I am afraid that the nation would cut a very sorry figure. So we must be conservative in forming a judgment of the character and of the possibilities of the people of Russia. You must remember that the American republic, after 148 years of existence, is experiencing its internal troubles. We should, therefore, expect in the order of things, that the Russian republic, four months old, should find many difficulties on its road to democracy."

Duration of the War.

"Asked if he had formed any estimate as to the possible duration of the war, Senator Root said: "Estimates of that kind are mere guesses, or to be more polite, just prophecies. But," and the senator again included in one of his pleasant smiles, "it will not end tomorrow."

In spite of the fact that he anticipates a long and bloody struggle for the United States, the senator looks cheerfully and hopefully to the future. He beams with that confidence which inspires others. As he glanced for a moment across the few blocks to where the Little Federal demonstration was passing down Arizona street, Senator Root said: "I prefer a people who will express themselves. Such a people are worthy of self-government and will have a representative government. The character of the people of Montana has always impressed me. In contrast with your local trouble, which I have read with the deepest interest, I am constrained to turn your feelings of admiration to the records which show Montana's voluntary contributions in arms and men, her contributions to the Red Cross and her investments in Liberty loan bonds. I have to heart all as to Montana, and when the supreme moment arrives Montana will be to the front for the nation's welfare. And," as the senator turned to his party, "we will lead every man, woman and child in the great battle for democracy, and there will be no flinching. I further noted that I know the character of the American people and I am confident that Americans will write another glorious page on the world's history."

Senator Root and other members of the party were in the boat of honor yesterday. Perhaps this was due in some measure to the elaborate arrangements which had been made by Eugene C. A. Goodnow, of the Milwaukee, for the secretary of the special train of first coaches and a commodious. For many of the party the trip from Aven to the west to Butte was the first opportunity to ride behind an electric locomotive on a transcontinental line. Mr. Root said of this experience:

Electrical Transportation. "I am immensely interested in electrical transportation. In fact, I am going to have the pleasure of turning the throttle on the locomotive as it pulls out of Butte. "You feel you will be a 'grizzly bear'?" Mr. Root was asked. "I'll show the results whether some day in handling a big train and the former senator, as he smiled, said: "There is a wonderful sense of power you know in the big electric locomotive, and the feeling becomes a personal one with the turning of a lever as the immense loads move over and the rails smoother than the stars at automobile. I have been extremely impressed by the steady movement of the shaft, which permits of such extreme control in traveling."

Other members of the party were impressed by the steady movement of the shaft, which permits of such extreme control in traveling. All members of the embassy with the exception of Charles R. Crane, leading manufacturer and who remained in Eugene, returned to the United States and passed through Butte yesterday. Those who met the party at the depot were: E. H. Barrett, assistant general superintendent of the Milwaukee; M. M. Donoghue, president of the Montana State Federation of Labor who went over specially to meet James Duggan, first vice president of the American Federation of Labor and a personal friend. Mr. Donoghue met the other members of the party and found himself pleased with many questions of the local labor situation. He related the newspaper men from many circumstances. The party was shown the train from which Little was hanged by unknown men on Aug. 1. They asked many questions about the occurrence, but declined comment.

The Personnel.

The commission consisted of: Elihu Root, former United States senator and secretary of state; Charles Edward Russell, former special staff writer for the Star and former papers; Cyrus McCormick, president of the National Harvester company; Samuel R. Burton, New York financier; James Duggan, first vice president of the American Federation of Labor; John E. Mott, leader of the Young Men's Christian Association movement; Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the United States army, and Rear Admiral James H. Gownen.

Bender Mott, who has been actively fighting in Russia; Sultan C. Curt of the United States navy; Lieut. Alva D. Barnhart of the United States navy; James McKenna, chief clerk and disbursing officer of the mission; Clyde S. Stillwell, James F. O'Rourke, J. Keenan Duane, E. Washburn, architect; George E. San Francisco, Aug. 6.—Direct Pacific ocean communication with the Philippines has been halted by the parting of the Postal Telegraph and Cable company's line near the Straits of San Bernardino, off the island of Luzon. It was announced here today. The only connection available is now through Europe and Asia.

The company's repair ship at Shanghai has been ordered to the scene, but will not finish the trip in less than a week, it was said. Service may not be resumed for three weeks.
