WOMEN ON THE BATTLEFIELD

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—Although a world-wide sensation has been caused by the recent reports from Russia telling of the heroic fighting of the women's legions in the Russian army, there have been many instances in the past in which members of the gentler sex have rendered valiant service to their country on the battle field. The cases of the Russian women, however, afforded the first instance of women openly fighting in any considerable number in the past. In the majority of the cases in the past the women have concealed their sex in order to be allowed to fight. The military history of almost every nation contains several anecdotes of the kind.

One of the most remarkable cases of the kind in the comparatively recent history of the United States was that of Miss Beebe Beaman, an Iowa girl, who fought in the war against Spain. In order to reach the seat of war in the Philippines she disguised herself as a cabin boy. Arriving at Manila, she disguised herself as a soldier, and followed the expedition for nearly a year.

Another woman who fought, also in the American army, was the brave girl of fighting, was Senora Loreta Velazquez, a lady of Cuban birth. She was "wid about war," and when the American civil war broke out she not only persuaded her husband to desert the Union army and join the Confederates, but begged him to let her enlist as a private under his command. When he refused she put on a suit of his clothes and made her way to New Orleans. There she sought a tailor who could keep a secret, had the clothes altered to suit her figure, procured a false mustache and, thus equipped and embellished, raised a company of recruits and took them to her husband. When the war was over the fair Senora renewed her life of adventure as a California miner.

From the very beginning of the present conflict in Europe women have borne arms and served in the ranks. No fewer than 26 women have served in the Hungarian Voluntary Ukrainian Legion, and the exploits of a Miss Helen Ross, of that corps, would furnish material for a whole library of stirring tales of warfare and adventure. She went through the whole Galician campaign, in the worst places of the Carpathian mountains, lost her father, two brothers and her fiancé, gained two medals, was transferred to the Ukrainians, had two ribs broken by a shrapnel splinter and, according to latest accounts, was still eager to fight.

It is stated on good authority that

Russia, prior to the recent revolution which sent so many of the fair sex into the ranks, had no fewer than 400 women bearing arms. "For this and the cause," one Madame Kovtchenko became a heroine, and commanded the Sixth Ural Cossack regiment. She was wounded twice while fighting in East Prussia, and by her bravery won a much-coveted military medal.

Then there was Nina Bushkova, an 18-year-old Vilna girl, who joined the Russian army in October, 1914, under the name of Nicholas Pugin. She gained the Cross of St. George for her daring reconnoitering. After being in a hospital for some weeks, suffering from a slight wound and typhus, she resumed her regiment on the front line.

A Russian girl of 20, the daughter of Colonel Tomilovskiy, accompanied her father to the front in September, 1914. She had her hair cut short and wore a uniform, taking part in several engagements. On various occasions Miss Tomilovskiy served as orderly, scout and telegraph operator, and she was finally appointed to the command of a platoon. She succeeded in "capturing" a German staff telegraph machine, and as a result, the Russian troops were able to repulse the enemy with heavy losses.

AMUSEMENTS

NORMA TALMADGE IN "LAW OF COMPENSATION" AT RIALTO THEATER

Miss Norma Talmadge, whose second appearance as a full-fledged star in "The Law of Compensation" is the attraction at the Rialto theater today, is one of the youngest of all the photodrama stars of the first magnitude. When she was hardly "sweet sixteen" she was featured in numerous productions, and since then her rise has been steady and rapid, until now she heads her own company, organized for her by Joseph M. Schenck. Her first production in the independent venture was "Fannies," which has been acknowledged by critics as one of the classics of the year, and in "The Law of Compensation" it is predicted that this clever young star will set an even faster pace for her competitors.

The Rialto Jazz band, which plays during the afternoon hours only, has just received some of the latest New York jazz music. Louis Diamond, of the mammoth organ, is rapidly winning a host of Butte admirers through his thorough knowledge of music in general and picture music in particular.

"The Law of Compensation," with Miss Talmadge in the leading role, will be the feature at the Rialto until Thursday.

EARLY ARRIVALS FORCED TO WALK

Street Cars Will No Longer Meet Excursion Trains After Midnight.

Street cars will no longer meet excursion trains returning to Butte after midnight, according to an announcement made by Manager J. R. Wharton of the car company today. The reason given is the new wage schedule of the car men under which they are paid time and a half for overtime after midnight.

"We have always met excursion trains after midnight at a loss," declared Manager Wharton in explaining the matter. "Then we were paying straight salary to the men. Now we are compelled to pay time and a half after midnight. This makes the loss so great that the company feels it cannot stand it. The trains arrive all the way from 1 a. m. to 4 a. m. and we are compelled to pay our men from midnight until such time the trains get here."

LYNCH DENIES MOTION TO QUASH INJUNCTION

According to His Decision Certain Roadhouses Must Remain Closed.

The motion to quash the injunction order secured by County Attorney Joseph B. Jackson closing the roadhouses of Walter L. Wise and others, Thomas L. Carson and Beryl Hastings and Lucile Howard and others was denied by Judge J. J. Lynch in a decision handed down this morning. Some time ago the county attorney, acting in behalf of the state, secured an injunction order directing that the houses on the flat operated by the persons named be closed in accordance with the state law. The judge, on rendering his decision, allowed the motion of the defendants to strike certain immaterial matter from the complaint and gave the defendants 20 days in which to plead. According to the decision of the judge, the roadhouses referred to must remain closed.

The judge also gave his decision in the suit of George Wright against Andrew Kiscock and others on the findings of fact and conclusions of law. In his decision the judge found that the action should be dismissed as to the defendants Joe Groshup and Alexander Kiscock, at plaintiff's cost; that the plaintiff and the defendant Andrew Kiscock are partners; that the plaintiff is entitled to an accounting and to a decree dissolving the partnership; that the plaintiff is entitled to judgment in the sum of $107.95 against Andrew Kiscock; that the plaintiff is entitled to his costs against the defendant Andrew Kiscock.

PRETTY WEDDING AT ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH

A very pretty wedding ceremony was performed at St. Joseph's church this morning when Rev. Father McCormack, pastor of the church, united in marriage Morris Griffin and Miss Florence Rodgers, daughter of Mrs. Ellen Rodgers, 1202 Pierce street. The groom was attended by J. C. Manley and the bride by Miss Anna Doughran. Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. William J. Stevens, 226 South Jackson street. Mr. and Mrs. Griffin leave this evening at 7 o'clock on the Oregon Short Line on a wedding trip to Kansas City, the home of the groom. They will make short stops en route at Salt Lake and Denver. On their return to the city they will reside on South Washington street.

Mr. and Mrs. Griffin are both well known young people of this city. Mr. Griffin has been for a number of years in charge of the office department of the Youden Grocery company, while Mrs. Griffin was connected with the office department of the Hennessy company.

FOREST FIRES SWEEP OVER HILLS YEARS AGO

That terrific forest fires swept over the hills about Butte 700 years ago and again 70 years ago, is the announcement of Supervisor Stockdale of the forestry department in this district. Judging from the growth of trees as shown by the circular marks of growth, botanists are able to judge the life history of a tree by studying these rings. For the years immediately after a severe fire, the annual rings are unusually small.

MACCABEES WILL PICNIC AT GREGSON WEDNESDAY

The annual picnic of the Knights and Ladies of Maccabees will be held at Gregson Wednesday. Four lodges from Butte and three from Anaconda will join in the outing. Friends of the lodge members are cordially invited to join in the affair. There will be plenty of sports for all and the municipal band will furnish music throughout the afternoon and evening. A special train will leave Butte at 11 a. m., and returning will leave Gregson at midnight.

MAIL FOR JACKIES MUST BE PROPERLY ADDRESSED

Hundreds of Their Letters Go Astray—How to Reach the Men.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Hundreds of letters addressed to men on board ships of the United States navy go astray, for lack of proper information on the part of senders on the right way to address them.

All mail to bluejackets at sea should be addressed first of all in a legible handwriting; next of importance is to know positively on which ship the man is or was stationed, says an official announcement. A letter to John Avery Smith on board the U. S. S. South Carolina should be addressed as follows:

John Avery Smith,
U. S. S. South Carolina,
Care Postmaster,
New York City, N. Y.

If a correspondent does not know to which ship a man has been assigned, write to the bureau of navigation, navy department, Washington, giving his name in full, home address, place of enlistment and the branch of service in which he enlisted. There are five separate branches in the navy: First, the regular navy; second, the marine corps; third, the national naval volunteers; fourth, the national reserve force and, fifth, the naval reserve flying corps.

When one is not certain that the man sought has enlisted in the navy, but would like to trace him, the following letter addressed to the bureau of navigation would serve as a guide:

"Bureau of Navigation,
Navy Department,
Washington, D. C.

"Is there a man in the navy by the name of John Avery Smith, age about 31 years; height five feet eight inches; weight about 170 pounds; brown hair and blue eyes; home address is Cumberland, Maryland. If so please notify yours very truly,

"Mrs. John Avery Smith,
132 Franklin Street,
Boston, Mass."

If men enlisting in the navy will furnish relatives and friends with the following information, much time, worry and patience will be saved. They should give their name in full, rating, in which branch of service they have enlisted, place of enlistment and, if possible, to which ship they are assigned. If those suggestions are followed mail will reach its destination with little loss of time.

The address to all men on board ships is, care Postmaster, N. Y.
