REPORT RITTMAN PROCESS SUCCESS

Report From Washington Says There Will Be No Gasoline Shortage.

The Post's Washington Bureau. Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—There is no danger, whatever, of a serious gasoline shortage in the United States, according to Dr. Walter F. Rittman, who discovered the cracking process for the manufacture of gasoline.

Dr. Rittman has advised the governmental authorities here that of the 3,000,000,000 gallons of gasoline to be produced in the United States in 1917, one-fifth will be made by cracking. Cracking petroleum under the Rittman process means taking petroleum residue after the gasoline and kerosene have been distilled off and treating this residue with heat and pressure. What happens is that, in a chemical sense, and to use a very loose expression, the residue is knocked into big and little pieces. Then some of the little pieces are found to be gasoline. It has been found that there is a limit to cracking and that after three times in succession the residue refuses to separate into gasoline and other bodies. On further treatment it shows a disposition to go back into its original elements, carbon and hydrogen. The rule seems to be about three times and out.

There are approximately 4,000,000 automobiles in operation in the United States. The annual bill for the upkeep of motor cars now operated in the United States is placed by Dr. Rittman approximately as follows: Gasoline, $500,000,000; tires, $500,000,000; accessories, $300,000,000; garage hire, $150,000,000; repairs, $150,000,000; total, $1,500,000,000.

Dr. Rittman expresses the belief that in 1918 a billion gallons of gasoline will be produced by cracking and that by 1920 there will be more made in this way than will be distilled from crude oil. His conclusion is that the development of this art of cracking will continue to provide the United States with its principal supply of motor fuel. He even goes so far as to say that the "entire load is falling on the shoulders of cracked gasoline and cracked gasoline promises to make light of its load."

PLEADS FOR SCIENTIFIC STUDY SPANISH LANGUAGE

Fifty Million People in South Speak Spanish and 25,000,000 Portuguese.

A plea for the scientific study and teaching of Spanish and other languages and the elimination of obsolete methods, with illuminating statistics, is the subject of an article which appears in the current number of the Bulletin of the Pan-American union of Washington, D. C. The article was prepared after much research by Dr. Harry Erwin Bard, secretary of the Pan-American society of the United States.

The writer selected 112 institutions from 622 colleges, universities and technical schools that have provision for foreign language instruction. He calls attention to the growing importance of the study not only of Spanish and Portuguese, but of the languages and customs of the people of Russia, Japan and China with whom the United States is coming increasingly in contact. In the study of Russian only five out of 112 leading institutions offer studies in that language, a total of 792 hours. In the Japanese language only one out of 112 offers instruction in a single half-year course of two hours a week. In the Chinese language two out of 112 institutions offer courses of instruction in Chinese, aggregating a total of 549 hours. He says in part:

"There are some 50,000,000 people to the south of us whose official language is Spanish, whose early culture and learning were inherited from Spain; each country with its own peculiar ambitions and characteristic traits. These people are our neighbors and friends. Our relations with them are of the greatest importance, whether commercial or political or of other character. We should know them as neighbors and respect them as such. Some 97 of the 112 institutions selected provide for instruction in Spanish, but the aggregate number of hours provided for in less than one-third the number provided for in German."

"There are some 25,000,000 people to the south of us whose official language is Portuguese, whose early learning and culture were inherited from Portugal, whose friendship for us is traditional. Only 15 of these 112 institutions have provided for instruction in the language of the people of Brazil, and these 15 institutions provide for only 12 courses aggregating some 1,116 hours of instruction, or 1 per cent of the number of hours of instruction provided for in German. "Americans are known the world over as a people of one language. In most countries the mastery of at least one foreign language is considered an indispensable element of culture, and has long been so considered. But most Americans would appear to think it ludicrous that they should be expected to have a speaking knowledge of any language other than their native tongue. This is an unfortunate condition. During the long period of our isolation the matter of foreign language study was of comparatively little practical importance, but with our rapidly growing intercourse with other peoples of the world foreign language instruction comes to demand preferential consideration."

MORE SOLDIERS IN THE TRENCHES

Americans Change Their Places at Front Undetected by the Foe.

With the American Army in France, Tuesday, Nov. 13.—(By the Associated press.)—The third series of American battalions is now occupying the first line and the second American detachments to enter the trenches have returned to their billets. The relief was accomplished on a brilliant starlight night without the knowledge of the Germans.

Included among the returning troops is the company which bore the brunt of the recent raid on the American trenches. At retreat this evening this company lined up in a little muddy street in a village near the front. Their clothes were caked with mud and the roofs and fences nearby were hung with wet blankets and equipments.

Openings here and there in the ranks showed how many had been killed, wounded and made prisoners in the trench fight. After the company was dismissed an officer of the battalion watched the men splash off through the mud and said:

"There goes the scrappiest bunch of soldiers in France. They are mad all through and are just taking their time till they get a chance to repay the Germans for what happened to their comrades. They will get their revenge before this war is over. You can depend on that."

The second return battalions today were going through the same series of bathing and cleaning as the first detachment. The men are to enjoy several days' rest before taking up the training work again.

FOOD AND CLOTHES FOR THE SOLDIERS

Mountains of Supplies Concentrated at Training Camps.

BY EDWARD A. EVANS. Camp Custer, Battle Creek, Mich.—One of Uncle Sam's staggering war tasks is feeding, clothing and equipping the hundreds of thousands of men in the camps.

I did not know the size of the undertaking until I visited the commissary departments here at Camp Custer. Ten enormous warehouses, each as big as the ordinary high school building, are jammed from floor to roof with food, clothing, arms and ammunition, the blankets and medical supplies for the more than 40,000 men in the camp.

Looking through the aisles of lard, tins of condensed milk, stacks of corned beef, mountains of flour, stacks of ham and bacon, piles of jam boxes and syrup tins, until my head was swimming.

There were whole sections filled with tables, coats and folding chairs. Others contained only blankets, or shoes, or uniforms, or bandages.

Near the warehouses were enormous heaps of coal to feed the steam plants which keep the camp comfortable, and thousands of bales of hay for the cavalry and artillery horses.

This hay serves another useful purpose. It stuffs the mattress sacks of the soldiers.

One constant stream of men is taking stores away to be distributed through the camp, while another constant stream of men is bringing in stores from the railroad lines. Here, as everywhere, the railroads are finding their work out for them.

I believe I've had an excellent opportunity to see the kind of things given our soldiers to eat and to wear. Both warmer and more substantial clothing than the army's uniforms, of course, can't be found.

As for the food, I recognized among the stores the best brands sold in the best groceries, in perfect condition. The positive relatives of soldiers needn't spend one moment in fear their boys won't be properly fed and clothed.
