TO SHIP REMAINS

Anaconda, Nov. 17.—Matt Plonien, aged 63, died this morning at St. Ann's hospital after a brief illness. He was a native of Saukville, Wis., and has lived for several years in this city, where he was employed by the A. C. M. company, water department.

Y. W. C. A. ASKS $4,000,000 TO BE BIG SISTER IN WAR

When the Y. W. C. A. laid its plans to back up the boys in the trenches and send them "Clear Over the Top" along with its sister, the Y. W. C. A., with plans of equal scope to aid and cheer the girls our fighters leave behind them to lend a hand to all women vitally affected by war.

The Y. W. C. A. at first decided to ask for only $1,000,000, but the work grew tremendously and as it caught its stride in the business houses at camp centers and in the rest and recreation centers for women in war industries, a demand came in from camp commandants, employees, the government itself for more of the same.

The plan for expanding this fund is world-wide in scope. For "business houses" at army cantonments $500,000 is appropriated. Seven houses are now in use and 25 more under construction.

Women in war industries will use $2,000,000. The problem there is to provide suitable food and lodging for the thousands of girls suddenly summoned to uniform and munitions making. This work is also extended to France and Russia.

Service to the foreign-born wives and families of drafted men absorbs another $1,000,000. Thousands of women isolated from American life by their ignorance of language and customs are now deprived of the husbands on whom they depended as interpreters and protectors in a strange land.

Under the Patriotic League Junior War Council recreation and protection is afforded young girls employed near and in cantonment cities. For foreign work the budget provides $1,000,000. Four workers are already in Russia and four more on the way.

The Y. W. C. A. preparing its ministry as "Big Sister."

These serious eyes show American women are looking war's worst horrors in the face with understanding and courage.

NOTED FRENCH SCULPTOR DEAD

Auguste Rodin Expires Near Paris After Short Illness.

Paris, Nov. 17.—Auguste Rodin, the famous sculptor, is dead. M. Rodin died in his villa at Meudon, on the outskirts of Paris, after an illness of a few days.

Had he lived M. Rodin would have been elected a member of the Academy of Fine Arts by almost unanimous vote a week from today.

Auguste Rodin struggled 50 years against poverty, scorn and ridicule before he achieved undisputed celebrity as one of the most famous sculptors of the world.

When finally recognized, M. Rodin was hailed by his admirers as "the Michael Angelo of the modern world." He was a worker in mass, producing his subjects in his only so far as would bring out his dominating conception. His work thus had a far less finished form than the conventional school of his day.

His second attempt to gain recognition at the Paris Salon was humiliating. He submitted, in 1877, "The Age of Bronze," only to have it rejected and to have himself accused of casting it from life instead of creating an original work.

UNCERTAINTY IN THE STOCK MARKET

Little Investment Money Appears—Decline of Liberty Bonds.

New York, Nov. 17.—Dullness and uncertainty were the dominant features of the week in the stock market. Additional safeguards adopted by the exchange to offset reducing dealings to a minimum, prevent transactions for the five full sessions being the smallest in many months.

In the industrial field the complications were less prominent and the latest price agreement with the government served to stabilize stocks of that class.

Moderate recovery was made by several of the international bond issues, but the list in general reflected the continued apathy of the investors. Declines extended to the Liberty 4s and 3 1/2s, both selling at considerable discounts to the subscription prices.
