ABOUT GRAZING FEES.

Miss, Nov. 21.—Advance in grazing fees in the national forest is deferred for the present, according to information just received from J. P. Sneyd of the Helena office. The decision was made by Secretary of Agriculture Houston in a letter addressed to the American National Livestock association and the National Wool Growers' association. The interior secretary has found that the national forests are still below the value. Minute investigations in this direction were made last summer by forestry officials and special agents of the interior department. Secretary Houston refers to the changes to which the United States has been subjected through the war and calls attention to the need of making up the supply of meat, hides and wool. However, it has not been determined whether the grazing rates will be raised before the war ends. The matter of granting five or ten per cent bonuses for grazing purposes is also discussed by the secretary. He feels that this question likewise should not be decided at present, as the long term consequences might interfere with the government policy that might result from economic conditions in the far future.
