

DEDICATION OF EMANUEL LUTHERAN CHURCH TO BE HELD TOMORROW NIGHT

The dedication exercises of the new Emanuel Lutheran church, at 315 South Dakota street, will be held tomorrow night, starting at 7:30. The exercises will mark the opening of one of Butte's best appointed churches, a Gothic edifice of brick and concrete, and will mark the end of the arduous work done by the congregation in making the religious structure possible.

The congregation is to meet in the basement of the church. At 7:30, led by the pastor, the Rev. D. N. Anderson, the congregation will march from the basement to the outside of the building and then into the church. The architect of the new structure, John E. Sequist, will hand the keys to the pastor, who will then open the doors. As the congregation enters the church the choir will sing "I was Glad," an appropriate selection especially chosen for the occasion.

The Rev. N. J. W. Nelson of Anaconda, president of the Montana district of the Lutheran church, will give the dedicatory address. Other visiting clergymen will make short talks. Among these will be the Rev. N. J. Forsberg of Great Falls and the Rev. Dr. E. J. Greenwald of the Silver Bow County Ministerial association. The entire program, with the exception of Rev. Forsberg's address, will be in English. The following musical program is to be given: "The Gates of Righteousness" by Rufa T. Tossing; "The Glad, Then, Ye Children of Zion," 1898, at Carpenters' Union hall on West Granite street. The first church roll contained the names of 27 persons, many of whom still are members of the church. (The Rev. C. E. Frisk of Helena presided at the meeting. A short time later a lot was purchased at the corner of Montana and Silver streets and a frame church building erected there.

In October, 1915, the congregation decided that a new and better edifice for worship was needed. A building committee was named and one year later work of building began under the supervision of E. C. Peterson. On Nov. 12, 1916, the cornerstone was laid by the Rev. Dr. L. A. Johnson, president of the Augustana synod of the Lutheran church in North America.

From 1898 to 1900 the pastor of the church was the Rev. A. E. Gustafson. The Rev. L. A. Hecanson served from 1900 to 1902; the Rev. J. E. Shipp from 1902 to 1905; the Rev. J. W. Nyvall from 1905 until 1912 and the Rev. P. O. Hansen from 1912 to 1915. The present pastor, the Rev. D. N. Anderson, came to his work in Butte in September of 1915.

The officers of the church are: President, Rev. D. N. Anderson; secretary, E. C. Peterson; treasurer, G. O. Westlund; deacon, N. P. Shulin; trustees, August Carlsson, Walter Johnson, G. O. Westlund, N. P. Shulin and Louis Larson.

Mrs. F. A. Hill and Mrs. Gerlie Anderson are organists of the church.

Members of the choir are: E. C. Peterson, president; Walter Johnson, director and pianist; Charles Haupt, secretary; Mrs. F. A. Hill, treasurer; D. N. Anderson, Agnes Lindquist, Mrs. Walter Johnson, Mrs. Bertha Nyland, Hilma Frank, Edith Forsell, Edward wag my tongue and that is what I am doing."

Mr. Russell, while well known for years in the United States as a writer and lecturer on economics, jumped into greater prominence when he severed his connection with the socialist party because of a conviction that it was the duty of the United States to enter the war and fight for democracy. He is a small man in stature but big in ideas. He was a member of the Ethel Root party that went to Russia early this year as a special delegation from this country to investigate conditions in that great country. He started his present speaking tour on Oct. 25 at Indianapolis and will wind up his series of talks the latter part of December.

The Bolsheviki.

"The American people have a wrong angle on the Bolsheviki situation in Russia," said Mr. Russell. "The Bolsheviki are not so important as they might appear from the press dispatches. Such domestic troubles are inevitable in a nation during a period of revolution. We had a similar experience during the American revolution and the French had a more marked instance during their revolution. In fact the Commune of France was the counterpart of the Bolsheviki in Russia at the present time.

"In all revolutions there arise a number of theorists with a variety of theories. They all feel that the day of the New Jerusalem, the Utopia, the millennium, is at hand, but the experience of history is that those conflicting elements will be at variance for a long time and during that period the country in which they are operating will be in discord.

A Short Term.

"However," Mr. Russell continued, "the Bolsheviki are not due for a long reign in Russia. They represent only a small portion of the people. They will be defeated at the general election, which will be held about the middle of December, and a man of the Kerensky type will be placed in power. The Bolsheviki are in the main well-meaning people. They are enthusiastic for universal brotherhood, universal peace, the obliteration of racial and national lines. They cannot, however, co-ordinate. They expect they can accomplish the impossible in a few minutes, and bring paradise to a country by the mere pulling of a string.

Majority Will Rule.

"The majority will eventually rule in Russia," Mr. Russell said. "It is true Petrograd is strong for the Bolsheviki. Moscow is about half in favor of the Bolsheviki and there is a sprinkling of that theory in Odessa. But 80 per cent of the population of Russia is peasant and the peasants are not in sympathy with the Bolsheviki philosophy.

"You will easily understand how the Bolsheviki obtained the control of the government of Russia. They were the strong party at the seat of government. They had in Petrograd a powerful organization, with 75 per cent of the garrison in their favor. It was an easy matter for the organization to overthrow the government and appoint Lenin as the prime minister. You must remember, however, that the revolution does not mean the Russian people as a whole, practically only Petrograd and the Petrograd district.

"The result of the overturning of the Bolsheviki will mean the active participation of the Russians in the war. The Lenin party wants a separate peace with Russia and the provisional government is committed to a continuation of the war. I do not look for any aggressive move on the part of Russia in the war for some time to come. If the Russians hold the Russian front and keep the 147 divisions of the German army busy there they will be accomplishing a good deal for the allies.

The American Part.

"In spite of all our hopes it will be a year and probably two years before the American expeditionary forces can hope to play a big part in the struggle."

Mr. Russell was in Europe two years ago and it was on his return that he severed his connection with the socialist party. Mr. Russell felt then upon a street campaign of preparedness and this policy was not acceptable to the socialist party.

Mob Was After Him.

"I was making a talk in a Philadelphia theater at that time," Mr. Russell said today, "and I had to escape from the building through a rear door in order to avoid the mob who were anxious for my blood, because I preached preparedness."

Mr. Russell is being entertained in Butte by the American Association for Labor and Democracy. He was met at the depot this morning by the reception committee, consisting of R. K. Wheeler, John K. O'Rourke, C. J. Nepper, F. A. Bigelow, B. F. Conrad, Denis Farrell, Floyd Hanni.

Mr. Russell was taken to the Finland hotel. An invitation was awaiting for him to attend the luncheon given to Vice President Marshall.

"I shall be very happy to attend that luncheon," he said.

Asked if he would like to make a trip down one of the mines, Mr. Russell declined on the ground that he was suffering from a cold and a slight attack of pneumonia at the present time and he was not willing to take any chance of breaking up his lecture tour.

The distinguished guest was very much interested in Butte, its industrial condition and so forth and asked many questions. It was his first visit to the city. He passed through Butte on several occasions, the last being when he accompanied the Ethel Root party of the Russian commission on to Washington, D. C., a couple of months ago.
