

PAULINE FREDERICK IN "THE HUNGRY HEART" AT THE RIALTO THEATER

"The Hungry Heart," in which Pauline Frederick, a movie star who has endeared herself to the American public will appear at the Rialto theater for three days, starting Thursday.

Frederick, in the short span of a few years, has played every sort of very kind of dramatic and production known to the stage. She was born in Boston, Massachusetts, but spent much of her life in upper New York state. In another, her work in the theater led her to the professional stage as a child. Miss Frederick is an exceptional emotional talent, wisely put aside aspirations to a second Modjeska, and took up her training in the higher class burlesque.

She appeared with the Rogers Brothers in their "Harvard" burlesque and later with Lew Fields in "It Happened in Nordland," and his burlesque of "The Music Master." In this early experience Miss Frederick, although she may not have realized it at the time, was adding to the immense store of knowledge that was destined to make her the leading emotional actress of the screen in the then not-far-distant future. From farce and musical comedy she turned to all sorts of roles in many stage successes, her particular hits being

"Samson," "Innocent" and "Joseph and His Brethren." From this field of success she was finally won over to the motion picture field by the Famous Players Film company and went abroad to appear in "The Eternal City." The tremendous success of this picture sealed her fate and she at once took her place as star in the bright gallery of picture stars and attained heights of emotional success never reached on the speaking stage. Some of her great picture successes are "Sold," "Zaza," "Lydia Gilmore,"

"Bella Donna," "Sapho," "The Love That Lives," "Sleeping Fires," "Her Better Self" and many others. Miss Frederick is of medium height—five feet four inches—has blue eyes and brown hair and weighs about 130 pounds. She is an expert automobile driver, a crack shot, a musician, a linguist and a thorough sportswoman. "The Hungry Heart," her next Paramount picture from the novel by David Graham Phillips, will be shown at the Rialto for three days, starting tomorrow. In addition Charlie Chaplin will appear in "The Champion."

CITY PHYSICIAN IS AFTER THE SPITTERS

Asks Chief to Arrest All Violators of the Health Ordinance.

Dr. W. C. Matthews this morning started a campaign against spitters when he requested Chief Murphy to issue an order to arrest all persons caught spitting upon the sidewalk. "Butts is now facing an epidemic of scarlet fever and smallpox," said the city physician. "Ten cases of smallpox have been reported within the past two days. There are many cases of scarlet fever in the community, and we must take every precaution to avoid against a spread of the two diseases."

"I will ask the chief to arrest every man or woman caught spitting upon the sidewalk. I will further ask the police judge to be severe upon all found guilty of violating the ordinance."

APPEAL SENT OUT FOR THE BELGIAN SOLDIERS

The $120,000 collected up to the end of October have all gone in smokes. The demand on the fund is enormous—continual—insistent.

The Hon. James M. Beck, president of the fund, is making a special drive for $50,000 to send a package of "smokes" at Christmas time to each of the 200,000 men in the Belgian army. Every 25c contributed to the fund provides tomorrow evening, a "smoke-happiness" for one man in fighting line or hospital. One dollar sends four packages; $25 provides smokes for a hundred men.

A special feature originated by this fund, and afterwards widely taken up by other funds in the United States, is to include with each package a postal card ready addressed to the subscriber and prepaid, so that the soldier who receives the gift can send his thanks direct. In this way the subscriber not only has evidence of the receipt of his gift at the Belgian front, but also is vividly shown what great pleasure his money has given.

King Albert himself frequently goes into the trenches to distribute with his own hands the packages of smokes provided through the generosity of the United States. The royal household of Belgium has again and again expressed its grateful thanks for this work of comfort for its troops. The United States is regarded as the special protector of little Belgium.

Your contribution can be mailed to the depositaries of the fund, J. P. Morgan & Co., 23 Wall street, New York City. Checks should be made to the Belgian Soldiers' Tobacco Fund.

BETHEL BAPTIST.

The Bethel Baptist and the A. M. E. churches will hold a union service tomorrow. Rev. G. S. Allen will deliver the address and the Bethel choir will furnish the music.

SCIENTIST CHURCH.

The First Church of Christ, Scientist, will hold a Thanksgiving service at the Woman's club building tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend.

HIS ERROR.

Captain Jones was a very round-shouldered and eccentric officer. On a particularly dark night in Egypt while practicing his company in outpost duty he approached one of the sentries who failed to halt him. In a great rage the officer demanded of the now trembling sentry the reason why he had omitted to challenge him. "If you please, sir," stammered the confused soldier, "I thought you was a camel."—Boston Globe.

ANOTHER HINDU
PLAYS 'POSSUM

Shiv Dyal, State Witness in Conspiracy Trial, Forsakes the Government.

San Francisco, Nov. 28.—The expressed desire of Shiv Dyal Kapur to "die with his countrymen," Hindus, among the 34 defendants in the trial here on a charge of conspiring to foment revolution against British rule in India, was thwarted today by United States District Attorney John W. Preston, after Shiv Dyal had refused to testify for the government unless he were granted assurances of his final freedom.

Instead of arraigning Shiv Dyal, who was named in the indictments, but was not placed on trial, Attorney Preston moved that the charges against him be dismissed. Judge William C. Van Fleet of the United States District court then ordered him to testify.

Shiv Dyal's refusal to testify today came in the same manner as the refusal of Jodh Singh yesterday. Before he took the oath he propounded this question:

"Can I go free after testifying here, or shall I have to go back whence I came?"

Another Outburst.

Judge Van Fleet assured him that he would go free as far as the present case was concerned, but that he had no jurisdiction over the other cases.

"Very well, then, I shall die with my countrymen," announced Shiv Dyal. His statement was received with another outburst from the Hindus among the defendants, similar to the one which greeted Jodh Singh's refusal to testify yesterday. The Hindus were cautioned against further noise.

During the preliminary examination, conducted through A. V. Gould, a New Jersey minister who acted as interpreter, Judge Van Fleet turned to Shiv Dyal and asked in English:

Object to Interpreter.

"Don't you understand English very well?"

The answer, in clear English with the slightest trace of an accent, was, "No, sir."

Several times during the examination the Hindu defendants protested through their attorneys that the interpreter was not rendering the witness' answers correctly. The interpreter's answer was that he was giving the gist of the answers, not a literal translation. In the argument between counsel, Ram Chandra, avowed revolutionary editor and writer, rushed to the space in front of Judge Van Fleet's dais and asked:

"May I say a few words in this case?"

"No, you sit down and keep quiet hereafter," was the judge's reply.

ORDERS OF REMOVAL.

Orders of removal were made in federal court today in the cases of Mile Owens and Ernest Miller. Owens is charged with impersonating an army officer and Miller is charged with sending an obscene letter through the mails. Both men will be taken to Oregon. Assistant District Attorney H. G. Murphy is handling the cases.
