LONDON SUFFRAGETTE CAUSES A SENSATION AT VOTING PLACE.

ELECTION OFFICERS HURLED

Mrs. Chapin Tries Novel Way to Protest Against the Exclusion of Women From the Elective Franchise.

London, Oct. 28.—Mrs. Chapin, the suffragette, furnished an early morning thrill at the Bermondsey election today when she smashed a bottle containing corrosive acid upon the ballot box. Her intention evidently was to destroy the ballots in the box as a protest against the exclusion of women from the right of franchise. What she accomplished was the painful burning of some of the election officers and the assurance of her arrest.

Slipping into one of the booths, where perhaps a thousand ballots had been deposited, Mrs. Chapin drew from under her cloak a bottle in which ink had been mixed with corrosive acid and before she could be stopped, hurled the bottle upon the box. The bottle broke into many pieces and the flying acid splashed upon the election officers. A number of officers were so severely injured as to require medical attention.

About the same time a similar attempt was made in another booth by a young girl who wore suffragette colors. So far as could be ascertained not much acid reached the ballots in either case.

POSSIBLE BLUEBEARD.

Confessed Murderer May Be Guilty of Bigamy.

New York, Oct. 28.—The persistent efforts of the prosecution officers of Suffolk county, L. I., to learn whether or not Frederick Gebhardt, the confessed murderer of Anna Luther, had engaged in a series of bigamous marriages and desertions were rewarded in a measure today, by the finding of a woman who declares that Gebhardt, then known as Otto Mueller, married her in Russia fourteen years ago.

The woman, who is known under her maiden name of Minnie Rosenau, attended the inquest held at Islip yesterday and positively identified Gebhardt as Mueller, who had married her in Russia.

"After gaining possession of the fair fowry which I brought him," she said, "Mueller deserted me and came to America."

SAVE RESOURCES

LAU ICH NATION-WIDE MOVEMENT TO RESERVE OUR NATIONAL RESOURCES.

TAFT APPROVES WORK

National Conservation Association Under Leadership of Ex-President Eliot Opens Office for Campaign.

New York, Oct. 27.—Nation-wide in scope and backed with the enthusiastic endorsement of President Taft, a movement was launched today to appeal to the people of the United States for concerted action in preserving the natural resources of the country.

The National Conservation association with offices here and in Washington will carry on the proposed vigorous campaign under the leadership of Dr. W. Elliot, former president of Harvard university. This association is to be an active militant organization with the general object of procuring through legislative and administrative measures, by the states and by the federal government, practical application of the conservation principles adopted by the government of the United States at the conference with President Roosevelt in 1908.

The association is the outcome of a plan on which men of national prominence have been at work with former President Eliot for many months. President Taft evinced his interest by giving the organization his hearty approval and by enrolling as the first member. Included among the officers and membership are some of the most prominent men of affairs in the United States.

General offices were opened today in a Fifth avenue building where it was announced that the association already had the organization well under way and that applications for membership were pouring in from all parts of the country.

SCIENTIFIC FARMING.

Agriculturists at Billings Have Argument Over Name.

Billings, Mont., Oct. 27.—Article one of the report of the executive committee presented at this morning's session of the Fourth Dry Farming congress precipitated the first heated discussion of the meeting.

The article says: "This organization shall be known as the Dry Farming Congress."

There has been a sentiment developing for the past two years against the name. The principal objection is that the name is misleading. Advocates of a change say that they do not expect to farm dry lands but by applying scientific principles are making their land which they termed semi-arid, produce at least as well as land more favored with moisture. They assert that the term "dry" leads many to fear the prospects who might become settlers of the semi-arid districts.

James J. Hill, the great railroad builder, made a fine address today. He recommended that quality be considered in getting in settlers. He believes that the plain states will carry a very dense population. President Howard Elliot spoke yesterday as did Dean Shepperd of the North Dakota A. C.

There are over twenty states represented at the meeting and there is great enthusiasm.

Vilas, his widow, shall be fully determined.
