WM. McCRAKEN IS ARRESTED

After Two Years Search Officers Locate Their Man And Get Him Landed Behind The Bars Again.

Wm. W. McCracken, alias Bill White, was lodged in the county jail at Miles City Wednesday of this week. Undersheriff Frank Evans of this county and Stock Inspector Richardson of Custer county had been putting in the past two weeks near the McCracken place on Thompson creek, in the southwestern part of the county, in an endeavor to locate their man who will be remembered gave the officers of this county and northern Wyoming a lively chase and some tough trouble about two years ago. Monday Sheriff Jones made a trip to the Thompson creek country and brought back with him Undersheriff Evans who was called here by sickness in his family and during his absence Richardson located the notorious outlaw and soon had him safely landed behind the bars.

It was about two years ago that McCracken entertained the officers in and about his premises, at times using his gun, but with poor results. He was arrested at that time but during the night escaped and his whereabouts were unknown until a short time ago. He is considered a dangerous man by the officers and no more chances are to be taken with him. His hearing will no doubt come up at the next term of district court. Undersheriff Evans, from whom McCracken made his escape left yesterday for Miles City to get his man and will bring him back to this county at once.

Helena, Montana, July 14, 1913.

If every company doing business in Montana would follow the lead of the Western Accident and Indemnity Company, the State in a few years would have the best system of hard surfaced roads in the world. H. D. Cook, President of the Company, has announced that in behalf of the concern he would give 20 per cent of his gross income on Good Roads day to the state road fund. Governor Stewart recently issued a proclamation setting aside June 20th as Good Roads day, in conformity with a bill introduced by Senator McCone and passed by the last legislature. When it is considered that this enterprising Company did a $10,000,000 business last year, some estimate of what Company is liable to have to dig up may be had.
