GAME OF SWEEP AND SHELL

Rowing is the Oldest of All Our Inter-collegiate Sports.

Intercollegiate rowing antedates all sports in which our American universities engage. Students of Yale and Harvard first met in competition on Center harbor, Lake Winnepesaukee, on Aug. 3, 1852. In the sixties and seventies aquatics reigned without a rival. In neither popularity nor scope was baseball, football or any other sport to be compared with it.

Rowing is still the most important major sport in seats of learning where adequate facilities exist, important not alone in its tradition and present prestige, but in the part it is playing in the general campaign of eliminating from the undergraduate body the fashion of taking athletics by proxy.

Originally a sport in which the few came to row and the many to cheer, rowing today calls to the inept and to the mediocre as well as to the man qualified to sit in a university shell. As a muscle builder no sport equals the game of sweep and shell, and it holds poetry and pleasure as well as physical benefit for its devotees.

At Harvard, Cornell, Yale, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Syracuse, Annapolis, Columbia, Wisconsin, Leeland Stanford, California and Washington definite advances in aquatics have been marked each year, and at all the interests of the nonvarsity oarsmen have been observed in varying degree as the support of generous alumni has permitted.

Following the lead of such schools as St. Paul's, Groton, Exeter and Middlesex, preparatory institutions throughout the country have done much to interest their students in rowing for its own sake, with the result that each year seats of higher learning receive large groups of boys who care for the sport not so much for the opportunities it may offer them, to beat some one else as for the physical improvement and mental pleasure they derive therefrom.—Lawrence Perry in Scribner's.

Hopi Courtship.

When a Hopi maiden decides which of the eligible young men of the tribe she wishes to marry she goes and sits in his house and grinds corn until he is sufficiently impressed by her industry to marry her. After the ceremony, which is an elaborate one, the couple go to live in the wife's house. If she tires of her husband she can obtain a divorce by merely throwing his saddle out of the house. After marriage the house, fields and all their property except the herds belong to the wife.

The Hopis are indulgent parents. The right of the children to do as they please is never questioned.

Retort Royal.

King Edward VII, was never at a loss for a quick, suitable answer. One day he was coming around a street corner on one of his periodical walks in London when he collided with a very stout person, who, being nearsighted, did not recognize the king, took him by the lapel of his coat and gave him a tongue lashing.

"Do you know, sir," finished the rude man, "that I am a member of the London council?"

"In that case I beg your pardon," replied the king, "for I am only the King of Great Britain."

Her Poor Memory.

To Mrs. Hopkinson, a very quarrelsome old lady, her pastor said:

"You must never cherish an enmity, madam, against your neighbor. If your neighbor injures you, forget it."

"So I do forget it, doctor," said Mrs. Hopkinson piously, "but the trouble is, I've got a powerful bad memory, and I keep forgetting I've forgotten it."—Exchange.

Shrewd Retort.
Sir Robert Ball, the famous astronomer, a keen humorist, was never loath to recount a joke at his own expense. He was dining with some friends at Stratford, and on the bill being presented he said to the landlady:

"Madam, I am going to give you a lesson in astronomy. In 25,000,000 years all things must return to their original condition. We shall all be here again eating a dinner precisely identical. Will you give us credit until we come back?"

"Well," replied the landlady, "you were here 25,000,000 years ago, and you left without paying the bill then. Settle
