If you typewrite rite wrong on the typewriter, then you're certainly not a right type writer; but would you type type right, write rite right, or you might write rite wrong typing type on the typewriter. Which?

Rube Branch came over from Ismay Monday evening and will visit for a few days on Box Elder. A big rain, in fact a regular clond burst struck in the Ismay neighborhood Monday and we understand washed out a number of bridges.

Why is that the roads adjacent to and north of Baker can be dragged after nearly every rain and the people in this section can't even get one little old chuck hole filled in? We also pause to ask which part of the county pays the big end of the road taxes. Surely not Baker.

For Sale or Trade—One six cylinder Pierce-Arrow 60-66 h. p. 8 passenger car, thoroughly overhauled and in first class running condition, also one Ford 5 passenger touring car in good condition. Will sell for cash or trade for cattle. These are bargain. Reason for selling: too busy to ride them.—J. G. Olsen, Ekalaka Drug Co.

Commissioner Geo. Farwell went over to Baker Monday morning. While here we spoke to Commissioner Farwell concerning road funds and he informed us that the county road fund is about all gone and that he favored the bonding proposition for building roads, providing each section of the county received its share of the work to be done.

A new engine and a new picture machine were installed in the Play House Wednesday and each gave excellent satisfaction at the show that evening. It seemed that both the old engine and picture machine had concocted a scheme to put the Play House out of commission but their actions of late had been so unsatisfactory that both were given their "walking papers". We are inclined to believe that the Play House troubles are at an end and that the patrons from now on will receive better service. A change of film service has also been secured, the plays now received being nothing later than sixty day releases.

Miss Pauline Kouple entertained a number of little folks at her home last Sunday. All present report a splendid time, and are hoping Miss K. will extend another invitation in the near future.

Lakeside was treated to a splendid shower last Saturday evening. Crops are still looking fine but will soon need a soaker.

Miss Mildred Pangburn is in Ekalaka staying at the A. J. Rice home.

Those having express at the office in Baker and wishing same delivered in Ekalaka may leave their orders at the Ekalaka Drug Co. where I will call for same and give prompt attention. Trips to and from Baker, three times a week.—Gene Nims, mail contractor.

Rural Credits

President Woodrow Wilson on Monday signed the rural credits bill and again demonstrated that Democracy is making good its party pledges. The chief beneficiaries of this law will be the farmers of the nation, and that they will not be slow in realizing the significance of the measure is a moral certainty.

As the president aptly pointed out when he attached his signature to the measure, the farmers of the country have long been at a decided disadvantage in that they could not obtain loans, upon the same terms as other business. Now, they will receive equal treatment under the very liberal provisions of the federal reserve act. Genuine assets will be required, but what is more stable than the farms of the United States? As the president appropriately puts it, they have sustained the very life of the nation, and now for the first time, the great credit of the country is to be available to them.

This bill was conceived and passed by a Democratic congress and has received the approval of the Democratic executive. The farmers will not be slow in realizing their true friends among the political parties. That the passage of this bill will serve to break what has been the backbone of the republican party's voting strength, is not to be questioned. The ordinary farmer is an intelligent man, and it is safe to predict, will hereafter take no stock in the protective tariff theory, which has been so thoroughly discredited by the high prices prevailing for all his products under the operation of the Underwood tariff bill.

With better prices for his products and with the money of the nation available to him at reasonable rates of interest for the conduct of their business—and farming is as much of a business as any other enterprise—the future of the American farmer is assured, and he will respond in November by placing the credit where it is due.

It is conservatively estimated that there are farm mortgages in Montana amounting to $15,000,000 upon which an average interest rate of eight per cent is paid. Under the terms of this bill, these will be refunded at a rate not exceeding six and possibly as low as five per cent, thus effecting a direct saving to the Montana farmers of $300,000 a year in interest. Capitalizing this at five per cent, as Senator Walsh aptly points out, means the equivalent of the income from a gift of $9,000,000. Verily, Democracy has made good for the farmer as well as other interests.—Billings Journal.

Mrs. J. McNish and daughter of Hill City, S. D. are here visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Amos Lambert and other relatives.

Wilson's Peace Policy.

"To maintain our national honor by peace if we can, by war if we must, is the motto of the President of the United States. This policy may not satisfy those who revel in destruction and find pleasure in despair. It may not satisfy the fire-eater or the swash-buckler. But it does satisfy those who worship at the altar of the God of Peace.

It does satisfy the mothers of the land at whose heart and fire-side no jingoistic war has placed an empty chair. It does satisfy the daughters of this land from whom bluster and brag has sent no loving brother to the dissolution of the grave.

It does satisfy the fathers of this land who will fight for our flag, and die for our flag when Reason primes the rifle, when Honor draws the sword, when Justice breathes a blessing on the standards they uphold."

Such were Governor Glynn's remarks and tribute to the Wilson policy of Peace With Honor.

Prairie Dale

Geo. Stevens and Ina Hubbard visited at the Hubbard home the week end.
