

MISS JEANNETTE IN THE MOVIES

HOW THE CONGRESSWOMAN AND HER FRIENDS COMPROMISED WITH THE FILM MAKERS.

Agreed to Allow Motion Picture to Be Taken While She Was Addressing Student Body of University, With University Buildings as Background.

Since Jeannette Rankin's election to congress, much has been written about her which existed only in the imagination of the writer. As a matter of fact she has remained quietly at home and has given interviews to practically no one. It is true she has been besieged by movie picture men until it became a serious annoyance to the family and this is the story of how she at last consented to be featured for the movies.

Perhaps Miss Rankin was not so averse to being caught by the camera but she felt that the manner of featuring the film would not add to the dignity of her position and she steadily refused to pose for the movie artist. As the camera man had evidently received orders to stick, the affair resolved itself to a real siege, and Miss Rankin was obliged to cancel all her social engagements because it was quite impossible for her to leave her home.

Congresswoman Under Siege.
Not only that, but the students at the university in Missoula felt as though they were entitled to a visit from their distinguished townsman and university graduate, and they wished to receive her on the university campus with all the pomp and enthusiasm which college students the world over are wont to display on even less important occasions. It was a great disappointment to the students when they learned that she would not be able to appear on account of the assiduous attentions of the camera man and one can imagine that it was also a disappointment to Miss Rankin for her devotion to her alma mater is well known.

It remained for Mrs. K. W. Jameson, dean of women at the university, to find a happy solution of the whole difficulty. For Dean Jameson argued that now Miss Rankin belonged to the whole state, and that if the moving picture man was so anxious to feature the new congresswoman, he should be allowed to do so, but with a stage setting which was worthy of the occasion and which would bring real prestige to the university.

Compromised With Camera Man.
So she proposed that Miss Rankin be allowed to come to the campus unmolested and the camera man should contract to take 100 feet of film showing the university buildings, the splendid campus, the big white M on the hillside behind and the snow-capped mountains in the distance. Perhaps no other univer-

WOMEN WHO WERE IN LIMELIGHT AT BOZEMAN

Miss Grace McIver, secretary of the vocational congress, recently held in Bozeman, and who had much to do with making the meeting a success.

Miss Erma Lessel, of the Agricultural College, who was one of the clever young women who made the recent vocational congress for girls such a signal success.

Woman Wins Farm.
Miss Anna Welley, of Coffee Creek, was one of the lucky applicants for Fort Assiniboine land in the recent drawing.

sity in the world has more magnificent natural surroundings than has the college at Missoula and to show this on the screen would not only be a very effective advertisement for the University of Montana, but a source of great inspiration and pride to all the citizens of the state.

And so, on the campus of her own Alma Mater, Miss Rankin was finally photographed, while addressing the whole body of students, assembled there to do her honor, and thanks to Dean Jameson, the first movie of the congresswoman will not only be of great interest to the millions who gaze upon it but it will be of great educational and inspirational value to the state of Montana.

THE NEW MEMBER FROM FLATHEAD

MRS. EMMA INGALLS, LEGISLATOR-ELECT, IS VERY CAPABLE WOMAN.

Helped to Establish the First Newspaper in Flathead County; Is a Widow, and Owns a Productive Farm; Will Work Along Humanitarian Lines.

Mrs. Emma Ingalls, member of the legislature from Flathead county, is a widow and has two grown daughters. She and her husband establish the Inter Lake, the first newspaper published in Flathead county. In 1895 they sold the paper and went on to a homestead and shortly after this Mr. Ingalls died, but Mrs. Ingalls and her two young children remained on the homestead, improving and enlarging it until now she and her son-in-law, W. T. Winston, have one of the most productive farms in the valley.

Mrs. Ingalls was a faithful and very efficient, though not specially aggressive, suffrage worker. She was president of the Equality club of Kalispell, and gained in this work a considerable acquaintance among the women of the state.

Had Generous Majority.
She had no intention of making the campaign for the legislature until shortly before the primaries and made no special canvass, but she won the nomination by a generous majority and feeling that the primary vote was, in a sense, an endorsement of her action, went into the campaign for the general election with the other members of her party. Mrs. Ingalls modestly disclaims any credit for her success. She states that the men of her party gave her a cordial welcome into their political ranks and extended her every courtesy during the trying days of the campaign.

Was Pleasant Campaign.
"The campaign was really a pleasant affair," says Mrs. Ingalls. "It was so clean and so free from unpleasant personalities on both sides. I have lived here 27 years and everywhere we went, I met with friends and acquaintances. At the general election I received a splendid vote (next to the highest), which, considering the fact of the newness of women in this field, I very much appreciate."

"With regard to the work next session, the things that men can do better than I, will be left to them. I expect to inform myself and cast my vote and any influence I may have on the right side. My own work will be along humanitarian lines."

Woman Named County Assessor.
Mrs. A. P. Smith, widow of A. P. Smith, assessor of Yellowstone county, who died in Butte following an operation, has been appointed by the county commissioners to succeed her husband in office. Mr. Smith had held the office for 14 years and was re-elected in November with the largest plurality given any candidate in the county.

Giddap!
Will Work, of Parkers Prairie, Wis., may shirk his work at times. But what we started to say is that Will Shirk, of Troy, Ohio, is busy working as a U. S. Revenue storekeeper.

MRS. HATHAWAY'S WORK FOR WOMEN

WAS VERY ACTIVE IN THE CAMPAIGN WHICH WON EQUAL RIGHTS FOR WOMEN.

Is Member-Elect of Next Legislative Assembly as Representative from Ravalli County; Manages a Farm in the Bitter Root; Has Made Acquaintance in the State.

Mrs. M. S. Hathaway, member of the legislature from Ravalli county, is an interesting personality, who has long figured prominently in suffrage councils. She owns a farm in the Bitter Root valley. Her summers have been devoted to the management of this farm, and her winters to the cause of suffrage. In the effort to secure equal political rights for women she has spoken in every county in the state, and her speaking tours have given her a wide acquaintance in the state. She was also prominent in the lobby which secured the enactment of the bill submitting the suffrage amendment to the voters of the state, and helped materially in the campaign which secured the passage of this amendment.

Temperance and Suffrage.
In this campaign she spoke for temperance and suffrage. Some of the suffrage leaders were inclined to think that it was just as well for their cause to eliminate temperance propaganda until after the suffrage fight was won. But Mrs. Hathaway insisted on her policy, with the result that, for the time being, she was persona non grata with her organization. So she proceeded to build up a little organization of her own. She expects to introduce a number of measures in the interest of women at the forthcoming legislative session.

GIRL OF SEVENTEEN RAISES HOGS; MAKES MONEY; LOTS OF FUN.

Raising hogs for pleasure and profit is the occupation of Miss Josie Fuller, aged 17, youngest and best all round feminine pork producer in the Imperial valley. She lives at Holtville, California. It is her ambition to become the best expert on hogs in her district. Her herd numbers fifty, and is increasing.

"Pig culture isn't aesthetic work, of course," said Miss Fuller. "It can't be considered a finishing school for debutantes, but there's money in it. It's lots of fun, too."

She has established a record of developing her porkers for the market at a cost of 3 1/2 cents a pound. She came within half a cent of winning the University of California prize, which would have entitled her to a transcontinental trip. The judges decided she spent too much time in caring for her hogs. This was charged up against profit, and cut down her score.

Many a man is a dead one long before the undertaker is called in.

The egoist is not only all I's, but he expects the rest of us to be all ears.

Even a fondness for chin music never influences a woman to cultivate a double chin.

Some people are so color blind that even when they have the long green they think they have the blues.

At last a woman has been elected to congress and will take a seat in that distinguished body. Long may she wave in politics, and may she never lose her supporters.

With phonographs selling for $5, we may expect to see even the most humble of the Hoi Polloi learnedly discussing the merits of the Poet and Pheasant and Il Trovatore.

The old-fashioned Indian who used to do a green corn dance now has a son who goes out on Amber Rye dances.

Another reason why you shouldn't borrow trouble is because you will have to pay it back on the installment plan.

It doesn't matter how long he waits, no widower ever waits long enough to satisfy his first wife's relatives.

And just because a woman is married and has to do her own housework is no reason why she should go around the house all day looking like something the cat dragged in.

Isn't it remarkable how seedy and frowsy looking your furniture is when it is unloaded and distributed around the house?

The old fashioned man who used to look forward to Sunday as the day of rest now has a son who regards it as the day the saloons are closed.

Almost any girl can make a man believe that he is making love to her when she is doing all the love-making herself.

Ignorance may be bliss. But that doesn't keep a woman from opening her husband's mail.

You never saw a poor man who wasn't able to tell a rich man what the rich man should do with his money.

Oh!

There was something familiar about the man who was having a good time in the shooting gallery and who was getting a bull's-eye with almost every shot.

"Are you not the blind man who stands at the corner of Brown and Smith streets?" we asked him.

"I am," he replied. "But this is my day off."

THE STATE.

Agawam.—The track of the Choctaw branch of the Milwaukee has been laid to the terminus at this point.

Butte.—A. P. Smith, assessor of Yellowstone county, who had been a resident of that county for 27 years, died in a hospital here at the age of 54.

Helena.—C. S. Wagner, assistant attorney general of the state, has been found guilty in police court of reckless driving and fined $50. The case is on appeal.

Helena.—Charles K. Andrews, inspector in the immigration service, has been appointed inspector in charge of the district comprising Montana and Idaho.

Kalispell.—A 14-year old boy shooting at a target in his back yard missed the target and wounded Clarence Ray, 10, in the neck with a ball from a 22-caliber rifle.

Thompson Falls.—Steps have been taken by the defense to appeal the conviction of Edith Colby on a charge of murder in the second degree. The penalty fixed by the jury was 10 to 12 years in the penitentiary.

Livingston.—Civic organizations of this city and Gardiner have joined hands in their efforts to bring about the restoration of the garrison of soldiers to Yellowstone park. At present the park is guarded by 30 scouts.

Great Falls.—The local commercial club is considering the installation of powerful revolving searchlights on the huge smelter smokestack, designed to illuminate the country for 150 miles in each direction.

Poplar.—Thousands of dollars have been lost by farmers near here through grain thefts. From three farmers northeast of here 3,000 bushels of flax was stolen. From another 300 bushels of oats was taken.

Helena.—Thirty-eight men of the Second Montana regiment, who, after their return from the border, left for their home without drawing their pay, have caused no little concern to the army authorities. They left vague addresses and letters have failed to reach many of them.

Helena.—It costs $36,725.15 to operate the state compensation board for 21 months, according to a report issued here. During this period 2,248 persons received compensation of some kind. The total amount expended in their behalf was $445,735.70, an average of $198.23 to the individual.

Helena.—The federal authorities in Montana are unlikely at present to take up an investigation of the high cost of food products, according to Homer G. Murphy, deputy United States attorney. He is of the opinion that nothing will be done in the west until some conclusion has been reached in the east.

Butte.—A Christmas tree 30 feet high that will be erected on the courthouse square is expected to mark the center of a crowd of 10,000 celebrants here Saturday evening, December 23. The musical club is promoting the celebration and the throng will sing carols to the accompaniment of the Anaconda Copper Mines band. The tree will be brilliantly lighted.

Billon.—A choir of 200 will sing at the Christmas eve. The entire population has been asked to join in the observance and churches, schools, lodges and clubs have been requested to forego separate celebrations. A huge evergreen tree has been imported from the coast and the distribution of Christmas gifts for charitable purposes will be a feature.

Ulm.—Three years ago this town did not have a single grain elevator and the production of the surrounding country did not warrant the erection of such a structure. Now it has three elevators, each of which is doing a thriving business. About 100,000 bushels of wheat already have been marketed through the Ulm elevators and it is estimated that scarcely half of the grain of the tributary country has been marketed so far this season.
