The Livingston baseball team has disbanded, McDonough the catcher going to Whitehall where he was engaged for the balance of the season. Freeman, Ray, Grimes and Clemens located at other places, leaving only Mjelde, Ryan and McLeod at Livingston.

Among other improvements inaugurated in the American hotel is an electric fan for the bar room. The fan is operated by a storage battery and placed on the end of the bar. Twenty years from now when every household in Forsyth will be equipped with electrical conveniences, Tom will unearth the little fan and dynamo and put it on exhibition as the pioneer.

The big officials of the N. P. passed through Forsyth yesterday on their way to the west on a tour of inspection. Besides the corps of stenographers, operators and attendants, there were seven or eight in the party, among whom was President Mellen of the N. P. and President Hughitt of the Chicago & North-Western, both of whom had their own private cars. The train made a stop here of ten minutes.

The Glendive club has signified their willingness to play them for any sum, providing the game be played at Glendive, as the last game was played in Miles City and our club is entitled to the return game. Glendive Independent.

Jerry Thompson and Miss Sophie Qualman were married last Saturday at Billings before a Justice of the Peace and are now at home here. The bride is well known here, having been employed in the dining room of the American hotel since last Fall and has the good wishes of many friends. The groom is a brakeman employed on this division of the N. P. and popular with the railroad boys.

Passenger train No. 1 from the east came in about four hours late Tuesday morning and instead of the usual big Mogul engine, the train was hauled by one of the old work train locomotives. The delay was caused by the derailment of the front trucks of the tender and as the train was whirling along at the rate of 50 miles an hour at the time, it was a fortunate circumstance that a serious wreck was avoided. The accident took place a few miles east of Miles City.

Hugh McGuire, who was arrested last Tuesday week at the the instance of Frank Culberson, had his hearing last Thursday before Justice Wright and was discharged from custody, there being no evidence to connect him with the misdemeanor charged. The complaint recited that young McGuire had stolen some carpenter's tools belonging to Culberson, but the state failed to introduce any evidence to substantiate the charge. J. C. Lyndes, who acted in the absence of the nominal county attorney, plead for the conviction of the boy, but this court held otherwise and ordered his release.

Sheepmen in the neighborhood of Dillon have organized to protect their rights to the public range. The new organization is to be known as the Southern Montana Woolgrowers' Association and a standing reward of $250 is offered for the arrest and conviction of anyone robbing a sheep camp or molesting the stock of any of its owners. The association will also erect a warehouse and dispose of its own wool products.

In about three weeks more the school children will be ready to begin their year's work. The school year begins on September 2, though that being Labor Day and a legal holiday, the school may not begin until the following day. The board has engaged Miss Aiden of Fayette, Idaho to be, assistant in the high school. Miss Aiden comes with high recommendations as an educator fully qualified to conduct the high school work. With the exception of Miss Aiden the corps of teachers will remain the same as last year. Prof. Beeman, who has been putting in a month's work at the Chicago University, is expected home within a few days and will take up the preliminary work.

Commissioner T. E. Hammond of Rosebud county came down from Forsyth yesterday, says the Yellowstone Journal. Mr. Hammond recalled the fact that it was just 21 years ago on Aug. 5 that he landed in Montana. He came up the Missouri and hearing it was a pretty good country here came over. That was the days of the buffalo said he, "it was a poor man that couldn't make money in those days. All the capital a man needed was a bed and a rifle. I made about $1,000 the first winter. But there seemed to be more money afloat then than there is now in the town. After the buffalo were played out the railroad came through and that raised another excitement and turned lots of cash loose. Then the large number of soldiers at the post also made a big source of revenue. Altogether there was much more bustle and excitement going on all the time but the town now seems to have settled down to a normal growth from substantial resources."

Although Forsyth has met defeat at the hands of Red Lodge, the team here has by no means lost heart and have already taken steps to retrieve the ground lost since their first brilliant victories. Captain Sickler is very active in getting a good line up and being a man of action and not words has taken the initiative in the matter of securing the best players available. Through his instrumentality the team has acquired a new pitcher who is expected to put up a swift game. The new man is O. P. Kersten of Minneapolis and his practice work shows up fine. Mr. Kersten came on Tuesday—just too late to be available in the games with Red Lodge. With the advent of a new catcher who can hold Kersten down, and a few changes in the personnel and line up, Forsyth should make a place for itself this season. As no game can be secured next Sunday, the day will be utilized for practice, but the team hopes to meet one of the neighboring clubs the following Sunday on our own grounds.

At a special meeting of of the County Commissioners held last Saturday, a contract was entered into with N. W. Dunham of Portland, Ore., for furnishing the vaults of the court house. The vault of the County Clerk's office which contains many valuable documents in the form of chattel mortgages is to be lined with steel in order to make it as near burglar proof as possible at a moderate cost. Besides a solid lining of quarter inch steel there will be a grating of heavy chrome steel channel bars with six inch openings. Chrome steel is the hardest known and is absolutely impervious to tools. The cost of this lining when completed and put into place will approximate $500. A complete outfit of metal furniture for storing books and papers will be installed in both the court house vaults. The books will lie flat on steel roller shelves, there will be a system of metal file indexes and boxes and the saving in wear in the books alone will doubtless save the cost of the improvements within a few years. The fittings for the vaults will cost about $325 each.

Last Thursday was a busy day in Justice Wright's court, there being seven cases disposed of and all resulting in acquittals. R. D. Allison, Wm. F. Haddock, Bert Banker, F. B. Horton, E. L. Burlingame and G. L. Sutherland furnished six of these. The men were discovered in a box car on freight train No. 53 on Wednesday night and run in. The first four named were charged with trespassing on railroad property, but as all appeared to be honest workmen in search of employment, they were allowed to go with a reprimand. Burlingame and Sutherland were charged by Conductor Phillips with a more serious offense, the breaking of the seal on the end door of the car, which, under the statutes, constitutes a felony. The defendants conducted their own case and by the testimony of the two brakemen who saw them on the train, were able to prove that the seal was broken before they obtained access to the car in question. Both were young, one was well dressed and the other appeared to be a laboring man. Although they might have been held technically on a charge of trespass, the court decided to set them free and they were discharged.

Butte's Judicial Scandal.

The most sensational charges ever preferred against a Montana court were presented last Friday by the plaintiffs in the Minnie Healy mining suit at Butte in support of their application for further time in which to present affidavits and evidence. Judge W. E. Harney in whose court the charges were made is the official whose public and private acts were called into question and not only is the court's honor assailed but the issue is broadened in view of the importance of the litigation involved as the courts of Silver Bow are glutted with cases which will be affected by the findings in the Minnie Healy suit.

Substantially the plaintiff avers: That F. Aug. Heinz, the defendant in the Minnie Healy case, employed Mrs. Ada M. Brackett, a handsome and brainy woman, to influence the court.

That Mrs. Brackett succeeded in her anorous advances to the Judge.

That a correspondence by private messenger between the two sprang up.

That Judge Harney had knowledge of Mrs. Brackett's mission but continued his friendly relations with her.

That said Harney had intimate relations with Mrs. Brackett and that they visited together at various places designated.

That several times during the trial Judge Harney was intoxicated.

That at various times the Judge discussed the case with Mrs. Brackett.

Accompanying these charges are various exhibits and affidavits of attorneys, detectives, messengers, hackmen and others, the whole making a mesh of evidence, that, if credited in court will mean the removal of Judge Harney from the bench in disgrace and blast his political future.

But opposed to this array of charges are the statements of Mrs. Brackett and Judge Harney, who deny the allegations in toto. The fact that A. J. Campbell, ex-congressman, and a man with some reputation as a purloiner of private correspondence, is the chief attorney interested in the assault on Judge Harney detracts, somewhat, from the effectiveness of the charges. In view of the high character of the presiding judge, the serious nature of the charges and the questionable methods employed in collecting the so called evidence, it is only fair to wait until both sides have had a hearing.

The News will not plead Judge Harney's cause nor take for granted all the scandalous charges of the plaintiffs in this famous case. If it can be proven that Judge Harney fell an easy and willing victim to the wiles of a designing woman and betrayed his oath of office he should of course pay the penalty but the evidence must be complete and convincing.

Even though nothing ever comes of these charges, the affair will be a disgrace to the judiciary of Montana and is to be deplored by the people of the state.

Ever since the hills of Silver Bow county have revealed their marvellous richness, the mining litigation has been fraught with questionable method and many shady transactions. The millions involved have proven an incentive for the bitterest warfare in the courts and now it seems that the litigents do not hesitate to corrupt the very court itself. The matter should be thoroughly sifted and the guilty punished.
