County Clerk and Mrs. Bailey returned from Miles City Friday, where they spent a few days with friends. Mr. Bailey brought back with him all the transcribed records for his office, and are now in the fire-proof vault of the clerk's office. The court records were not completed when Mr. Bailey left, but will be in a day or so when they will be shipped.

Rev. C. D. Danner will preach at Rancher Tuesday evening and at Junction Wednesday evening—Oct. 29th and 30th respectively. He reports having a good congregation at both places last week. They have a splendid Sunday school at Rancher at present and a new Sunday school was begun last Sunday at Junction under the management of Mrs. Berris and Miss Connely.

County Clerk Bailey is the possessor of an Elliot & Hatch $175 dollar book typewriter which he purchased for his office in the court house. It is one of most up-to-date machines of its kind on the market and the same as adopted by the government. Although Mr. Bailey has had it but a short time, its usefulness is evincable, and the owner is becoming quite proficient in the manipulation of it.

The state committee is busily engaged in preparing lists of questions to puzzle the brains of eight-grade scholars in the public schools all over the state. A decided importance attaches to these especial examinations in Montana, for the reason that their successful passage entitles the scholar to entrance into any accredited or free county high school or the normal school, without further examination.

Ed Ware, a brakeman on a west-bound extra-freight train, had his right leg cut off at Wibaux Wednesday night. The engine was cut off and was going to the depot for orders. He was riding between the tank and engine. The crew heard a cry and went back and found him lying on the track. He was taken to Glendive, where his leg was amputated. He was then taken to the Brainerd hospital where he will recover.

Attendants at the Warm Springs asylum made a peculiar find the other day when Mrs. Elizabeth Sobey, an insane person from Jefferson county, was admitted. She appeared to be badly deranged, and while there is no doubt in the minds of the physicians at the institution that she is considerably off mentally, she had sufficient forethought to conceal several hundred dollars that ordinarily might never have been discovered.

Ed Huff and Jack Kraker, who left on a hunt to the Mussellsell country several days ago for big game, have not been heard from since their departure, but their many friends are entertaining no uneasiness, for the hunters doubtless have heard of the killing by anthrax of many deer in the northern part of the state, and have gone further than they at first anticipated. They are, however, expected to return shortly loaded down with antlers.

State Examiner W. Mudnall has addressed a communication to all boards of county commissioners, county clerks and county treasurers in the state calling attention to the fact that there is over $500,000 uncollected taxes in the state. He asks that counties give close attention to the collection of delinquent taxes and sends to each county an explanation of a simple method of keeping the record of such taxes which is destined to greatly assist in the work of collection.

Those having livestock on the ranges, particularly sheep, are rejoicing over the continued warm weather. It not only is good for the young animals, but also is the means of furnishing them with green feed, as the grass is still growing, especially in the gulches and low places. Sheepmen report their flocks to be feeding almost exclusively on the second growth, thus saving the cured grass for the winter months. The experience is a new one for these parts and as far as can be learned never occurred before.

W. W. D. Terrett, who for many years has been connected with the First National bank of this city has accepted the cashiership of the Merchants bank of Forsyth, and will enter upon his new duties November 1st. Mr. Terrett has those qualities which especially fit him for this position he has been selected for and his host of friends here, while regretting his departure from Miles City will rejoice in his advancement. Mr. W. B. Jordan Jr. will succeed Mr. Terrett in the First National bank.—Stock Growers Journal.

Prof. Frank Fouche, a public speaker of considerable repute and ability, has been engaged by the High School Literary society to deliver a lecture in Forsyth Tuesday evening, Oct. 29, in Alexander's hall. Mr. Fouche, as will be remembered, spoke at this place two years ago and his address was well received by the many who attended. An admission fee of 25 cents for children and 50 cents for adults will probably be charged, and as the proceeds are to go for the benefits of the Literary society, there will doubtless be a good attendance.

The addition to the parsonage is about completed. A full statement of the accounts will be published for the satisfaction of all who care to know how their subscriptions were expended. There will be no debt left that is not provided for by subscription. The supper to be served in the new rooms Thursday evening of next week is to assist the Ladies' Aid society to raise the $150 subscribed by them toward the parsonage addition. Forsyth now has one of the largest and most convenient parsonages in this part of the state and the entire property is a credit to the community.
