HARPER'S MAGAZINE. ILLUSTRATED.

Harper's Magazine begins its sixty-sixth volume with the December Number. It is not only the most popular illustrated periodical in America and England, but also the largest in its scheme, the most beautiful in its appearance, and the best magazine for the home. A new novel, entitled "For the Major," by CONSTANCE FENIMORE WOOLSON, the author of "Anne," was begun in the November Number. In literary and artistic excellence the Magazine improves with each successive number. Special efforts have been made for the lighter entertainment of its readers through humorous stories, sketches, &c.

THE SUN.

NEW YORK, 1883.

More people have read The Sun during the year just now passing than ever before since it was first printed. No other newspaper published on this side of the earth has been bought and read in any year by so many men and women.

We are credibly informed that people buy, read, and like The Sun for the following reasons, among others:

Because its new columns present in attractive form and with the greatest possible accuracy whatever has interest for humankind; the events the deeds and misdeeds, the wisdom, the philosophy, the notable folly, the solid sense, the improving nonsense—all the news of the busiest world at present revolving in space.

Because people have learned that in its remarks concerning persons and affairs The Sun makes a practice of telling them the exact truth to the best of its ability three hundred and sixty-five days in the year, before election as well as after, about the whales as well as about the small fish, in the face of dissent as plainly and fearlessly as when supported by general approval. The Sun has absolutely no purpose to serve, save the information of its readers and the furtherance of the common good.

Because in politics it has fought for a dozen years, without intermission and sometimes almost alone among newspapers, the vast evil that has resulted in the secret and corrupting power, indirect against its will, but constant and formidable, of the great moneyed corporations, and will continue to stand like a rock for the interests of the people against the ambition of bosses, the encroachments of monopolists, and the dishonest schemes of public robbers.

All this is what we are told almost daily by our friends. One man holds that The Sun is the best politicians newspaper ever published, because its Christianity is unalloyed with cant. Another holds that it is the best Republican newspaper printed, because it has already whipped half of the rascals out of that party, and is proceeding against the other half with undiminished vigor. A third believes it to be the best magazine of general literature in existence, because its readers miss nothing worthy of notice that is current in the world of thought. Still every friend of The Sun discovers some of its many merits and praises with particular force in his intellectual liking.

If you already know The Sun, you will observe that in 1883 it is to be better than ever before. If you do not already know The Sun, you will find it to be a mirror of all human activity, a storehouse of the choicest products of common sense and imagination, a mainstay for the cause of honest government, a champion for genuine Jeffersonian Democracy, a scourge for wickedness, of every species, and an uncommonly good investment for the coming year.
