Father Callahan Is Dead.

Advices from Butte report the death of Rev. Father J. J. Callahan, the well known and popular Catholic priest of that city, who was an occasional visitor to this part of Montana and had many friends here. In a tribute to the memory of the deceased, the Butte Inter Mountain says:

Father Callahan was undoubtedly one of the best known and most zealous clergymen in the west, respected alike by Catholic and non-Catholic. Everybody was his friend and he was the friend of everybody. The poor, the widow and the orphan were his first consideration at all times and his visit to the home in cases of sickness and death always brought with him sunshine and happiness. During his seven years' residence in this city he endeared himself to the hearts of the rich and poor, the old and young, the Catholic and Protestant, the saint and the sinner. Father Callahan came to this city seven years ago from Omaha to attend the funeral of his sister, Miss Nonie Callahan, who died here after a short illness. At that time Irish-American priests were few in the diocese and the late Bishop Brondel, realizing the need of a man of Father Callahan's ability and attainments in Butte, succeeded in inducing Bishop Scannell, of Omaha, to allow him to remain for a time at least.

Jail Delivery at Lewistown.

LEWISTOWN, Sept. 25.—Assaulting the jailer and locking him in a cell, three prisoners in the county jail today effected their escape, and though officers have been searching for them for several hours, not the slightest clue to their whereabouts has been found. The men who escaped were all charged with grand larceny, and it seemed certain that they would be convicted if brought to trial. Two of them were accused of stealing a band of sheep, and the third was charged with "strong-arm" work.

It has been the custom of Jailer Silverthorne to take two of the prisoners with him when he went for the meals for prisoners, and this he had done today. When he returned to the jail with the two, they assaulted him, kicking him in the stomach and striking him in the face, and though he fought desperately, he was soon overpowered. The prisoners took his keys away from him, and after locking him in a cell, liberated another prisoner, and the three then made their escape.

It was three-quarters of an hour before the escape was discovered, and then it was necessary to saw through bars to liberate the imprisoned jailer and learn who had escaped. The pursuit of the fugitives was at once begun, but up to midnight nothing had been learned concerning the route they took.

MONTANA NEWS BRIEFLETS.

A Budget of Readable Short Items from Various Parts of the State.

BILLINGS, Sept. 25.—The Woman's club has stopped the construction of a big sign on the bluffs north of town. They objected to the sign on the bluffs, and brought their objection to the attention of the authorities. The latter ordered the painters to stop painting and to remove the part of the sign already finished.

LEWISTOWN, Sept. 25.—Pete Wells was sentenced to two and a half years in the penitentiary upon his plea of guilty to a charge of horse stealing. One of the Rosco brothers, who are charged with stealing a band of sheep belonging to Smith & Elliot, also decided to plead guilty, and were taken to the district court room for that purpose, but after Wells had been sentenced, he changed his mind and will stand trial at the coming term of court.

BILLINGS, Sept. 25.—George Craven was brought to this city at an early hour this morning, and placed in a hospital to receive medical attention for a gunshot wound received in a shooting affray at Huntley last night. The shot which may prove fatal was fired by L. D. Bowlin, soldier in the regular army. The details regarding the affair are lacking but it is reported that trouble between the men occurred because the soldier is said to have insulted Craven's wife.

HELENA, Sept. 25.—Much timber on the Helena forest reserve is to be sold in the near future. Bids for the sale of approximately 1,500,000 feet near Basin are being advertised for and applications for timber in other sections of the reserve, aggregating approximately 3,000,000 feet have been received by Supervisor Dwight Bushnell. The price of timber has gone up considerably recently, the prevailing prices now being from $3 to $4 per 1,000 feet, instead of from $2 to $2 50, the prices of 20 days ago.

HELENA, Sept. 26.—State Land Register John P. Schmit, who has been called to Gem, Ida., by the illness of a relative, left this afternoon for the west. Before departing he turned over to State Treasurer J. H. Rice the sum of $36,972 24, representing the receipts of the land office for the last half of September, making $54,091.57 the total receipts for the month.

GREAT FALLS, Sept. 26.—The display of livestock at the Cascade county fair, which opened here yesterday, is one of the finest ever seen in the western part of the state, and there are about 2,500 agricultural exhibits of excellent class. The weather yesterday was chilly and windy, yet the attendance reached 800, and the raes were enjoyed, although the time made was not record-breaking. The fair is at the old mile-track on the west side of the river. It promises to be very successful.

BUTTE, Sept. 26.—There are in Butte 18,089 children of school age, according to the school census taken by W. R. Evans and reported to the school board last evening. Of the 18,089, there are 9,062 boys and 9,027 girls, a fairly even division of the sexes. The census enumerates three male and thirteen female children who are feeble minded, deaf and dumb or otherwise disqualified for attendance at the schools. Negro children number forty-five and Chinese thirteen.

HELENA, Sept. 26.—In the suit of Mrs. Mary Williams, as guardian of Frank Williams, a minor, against the Northern Pacific Railway company to recover $1,500 damages for injuries alleged to have been received by the minor, and which are charged to the negligence of the defendant. Judge Smith of the district court entered judgment for the full amount asked for by the plaintiff. The defendant submitted a demurrer but made no other defense. Young Williams was hurt on the railroad at the Montana Chief mine, while shoveling ore, having a leg broken.

LEWISTOWN, Sept. 26.—In all probability, Fergus county will never again figure as the banner sheep county of Montana. Owing to the disappearance of the range through the appearance of the settler, all of the big outfits in the Judith Basin are cutting down their bands, some of them disposing of half their sheep. It is estimated that not less than 150,000 head have been sold of late for removal out of the country. It is impossible, with the rapid settlement now going on, to run the big bands of former years, and to own outright sufficient land to care for say 40,000 sheep would require such an investment that interest could not be obtained on it. The flockmasters are therefore yielding to the inevitable, and selling while the prices are high.

Range War in Broadwater.

TOWNSEND, Sept. 26.—Nick Rovie, a sheepman, and the farmers in the neighborhood of Cottonwood creek, organized as the Broadwater County Stock Protective association, are engaged in a war of extermination over the use of land which the latter have used as a pasture for thirty-five years, and which Rovie has lately turned his sheep into. Sheriff Munden has been called upon for aid by Rovie.

A few days ago four unknown men shot and killed fifty of Rovie's sheep at night and caused 400 more to pile up and smother. Rovie's loss was $1,500. Last spring he suffered a loss of $5,000, through the burning of his sheep sheds. He has taken possession of a range that constitute the last free ground used by the farmers, which they are determined he shall not have. The other big sheepmen in the county sympathize with the farmers. Rovie's range was formerly across the river, but he went out of his way to invade the pasture land used by the farmers. The latter are saying nothing, but it is understood they will exterminate Rovie, his sheep and his herders to protect the land. Rovie has taken charge of his camp in person and armed his herders, and the war is on.
