The new forms of quartz location blank required under the new law can be obtained at the River Press office. The new form must now be used in making quartz locations.

According to Great Northern officials, work has been commenced on the damaged railroad track east of the Marias, and it is believed traffic will be resumed in a few days.

John Neubert, who came in today from the Teton, brings word that the course of that stream has been changed in several places. The new channel leaves several irrigating wheels in dry locations.

Robert Thomson, of the Teton, who is among the visitors in town, expresses the belief that some of the submerged crops in that valley will be a total loss. The Teton flood was fully three feet higher than on any former occasion.

Malcolm Morrow has a new residence on his Missouri river ranch, as the result of the recent flood. It was brought there by the high water, and is supposed to be the Nelson house formerly located opposite the mouth of Highwood creek.

A temporary supply for the city water plant has been secured from one of the new wells that were recently drilled, connection with the mains being made with about 400 feet of fire hose. The regular source of supply will be out commission until the river flood waters subside.

John F. Sullivan and C. G. Records came in today from their Missouri river ranches above town. They report comparatively small damage from the flood, their losses being confined to fences and crops that were swept by the muddy water. Mr. Sullivan and family were compelled to spend the flood season in the second story of their home.

Morris Springfield, who came in afloat today from Lippard, brought news of flood conditions in that vicinity. He reports that the railroad track is badly damaged in places, one of the washouts being about a mile in length. The Lippard and Churchill ranches were not seriously damaged, but Mr. Lippard lost a large amount of hay and a stock of lumber with which he intended to build an addition to his home. According to Mr. Springfield, the Marias wagon bridge is not wrecked, as was reported last evening, but the approaches are damaged to an extent that makes travel impossible.

From Thursday's Daily.
A. L. Evers arrived from Everson last evening, making the final stage of the trip by gasoline launch.

Thomas Murray Spencer, of Butte, who has earned the title of the "drummer poet," was among the arrivals from the west today.

Mrs. R. L. Kelly reports that her ranch on the Teton was damaged by the flood cutting through the land. Several other ranches are said to have suffered in the same manner.

Nelse Valicieux, of the Teton, who is generally known as "Captain Nelse," was brought in last evening to receive treatment for an attack of paralysis. He was taken to St. Clare hospital.

James D. Wolff and Harry Wolff, of the Marias, were among the arrivals today. They report that the Marias flood waters reached a height of about 25 feet, and caused much damage in that locality.

William Collins, who is among the visitors in town, reports the loss of his house and barns by the Marias flood, together with a lot of machinery and other movable effects. His residence on the Teton had a narrow escape from destruction.

John Brown, an employe of J. T.

Isaacson, of Virgelle, arrived last evening with news of flood conditions in that locality. Mr. Isaacson's home was under about fifteen feet of water, but as it was a stone building it was not carried out by the flood. The roof, however, was carried away, and most of the furniture floated out through the opening. The R. L. Thompson residence was moved about 100 rods from its location, and the V. F. Blankenbaker sheep sheds and barn were carried away. All the Missouri river ranches near Virgelle suffered heavy damage from the flood.

It reported that the ferry at the O'Hanlon company ranch was carried out by the flood, and is lodged in some trees further down the Missouri river.

Wallace E. Chase has put his automobile to a novel use, the machine furnishing power for two centrifugal pumps that are removing water from the basement of his store building.

Miss Atkinson, school superintendent, announces that the markings for the eighth grade examinations will be made as soon as the board of examiners can reach this city. The examiners will meet when train service is resumed.

Telephone connection was made with the Highwood line this afternoon by Jay Fry and P. Burnett, who went out to the pier of the draw in a gasoline launch, and succeeded in getting a wire to the end of the bridge. It was a risky undertaking, and was witnessed by a large crowd of spectators.

Advices from Butte announce the marriage of Ray McDonald and Miss Mary Largey, daughter of the late Peter Largey, who is said to have been left a legacy of about a million dollars. Arrangements have been made to run a gasoline launch across the Missouri river free of charge, to accommodate travel between town and the south side. A ferry boat will be built as soon as possible, on which teams can be crossed, and a temporary foot bridge will probably be built across the opening left by the loss of the draw.

Charles Crepeau, who has returned from the Sun river flood district, states that he had a very unpleasant experience. He was camped with his men on Sun river, and they were awakened about 2 o'clock in the morning by the water coming into their tents. In making for higher ground they had to cross a coulee in which there was a rushing torrent, but they made the crossing in safety by holding to a rope which was anchored to a tree.

Henry Griesbach, who came in today from the Teton, states that his loss from the flood is not so great as that of some of his neighbors, as it consists principally of gravel banks and sediment deposited on the land. The Teton has cut new channels in many places, one of them having undermined part of the school house, causing one-half of the building to fall into the river. The railroad track near Teton is in bad shape, having been washed out in several places and leaving the rails and ties hanging in the water, but a large force of men is at work making the necessary repairs.

Death of Mrs. Florian A. Carnal.

Word was received Thursday morning by Attorney W. S. Towner, announcing the death of the wife of County Attorney Florian A. Carnal, which took place at Phoenix, Arizona, on Sunday last. The telegram announcing the sad news was filed at Phoenix on Sunday, but was delayed in transmission.

Mr. Carnal had been advised of the serious condition of the patient about three weeks ago, and left at once for Arizona. He sends word that the remains will be taken to Havre for interment.

The news of the death of Mrs. Carnal will be received with sorrow and regret by her many friends in this vicinity, which has been her home since Mr. Carnal has held the position of county attorney. Her affliction was tuberculosis, and although its progress could not be checked, the patient maintained a cheerful disposition and was hopeful of recovery. Mrs. Carnal went to Arizona last winter, believing that the change of climate would prove beneficial, but it afforded only temporary relief.

Mrs. Carnal came to Montana from Arvilla, N. Dak., with her husband about eight years ago, and located in Havre. The bereaved relatives include Mr. Carnal and daughter, two sisters and father and mother.

Flood News from Upper Country.

Fresh reports continue to reach the city concerning losses of live stock and possible losses of human life, but none of these are authentic, and it will be many days before the exact loss in northern Montana can be even roughly estimated, says the Great Falls Tribune.

People coming from Manchester yesterday reported that several hundred head of sheep had floated down Sun river, and considerable difficulty was experienced in keeping them from collecting along the wall of the woolen mill, which is partially submerged.

Wolf Creek and Craig suffered more severely from the effects of the flood than they did when the Hauser lake dam broke, and at Wolf Creek an unexpected disaster was experienced in the washing away of a portion of a warehouse containing large quantities of provisions. Some flour was recovered, however, and this was dried for use in the event that the food supply ran short, as was threatened.

Reports from Collins say that the big trestle bridge across the Teton at that place is only hanging by the support of the rails and is about 30 feet lower in the center than at the ends.

The chicken ranches on Sun river of McDermont and McDermott and of Harry Henyon were washed away, the latter losing about 1,000 chickens. It is said that an old man who had been in the chicken business at about the same place, but whose name has not been learned, lost everything he had, representing 16 years of hard work, even a suit of clothes being washed away, the pockets of which contained $250 in cash.

On Trial for Fiendish Crime.

A dispatch from Lewistown says the trial of Ole Nordahl, charged with the murder of Mrs. Bertha Schleuter on January 18 last at her ranch on the Musselshell, was begun in the district court Monday morning, Judge E. K. Cheadle presiding. After securing a jury, the prosecuting attorney proceeded to outline the evidence that will be presented.

It would be shown, it was announced, that Nordahl was an intimate friend of the Schleuter family prior to Mr. Schleuter's death, early last winter, that afterwards he made improper advances to the widow and her eldest daughter; that in January the widow had told a neighbor who was coming to town of Nordahl's misconduct, and asked him to report it to the authorities and secure protection for her. The Schleuter house was burned on the night of January 18, the bodies of Mrs. Schleuter and the three children being found in the ruins the next day, all so badly burned as to make the identification of even the mother difficult. Foot prints were found leading away from the rear door, they having been made by a person wearing two left overshoes.

It would be shown that Nordahl's overshoes were both left and fitted these imprints; that they had blood on them, as did the defendant's overalls and other articles of wearing apparel; that the overalls were damp with kerosene when found a few days after the tragedy; that coal oil had been freely used in causing the intense fire that destroyed the little ranch home and almost destroyed the bodies. Other links in the chain connecting Nordahl with the crime would be developed.

Boys Charged With Murder.

Informations charging murder in the first degree have been filed in the Cascade county district court against Albert Howard, alias Albert Hatch, William Smith alias William Randall, Henry Rheams and George Cresswell, the boys who are being held for the robbery of the Shelby train and the subsequent death of Wm. Dempsey, one of the passengers. The defendants were each arraigned in court before Judge Leslie and the information was read to them. Howard, who has been previously known as Hatch, informed the court, in response to a query, that he had no attorney and did not desire any. The same reply was given by Rheams, Randall, whose true name is William Smith, had already engaged counsel, being represented by Vergé & Thelen, while Cresswell had employed Stanton & McDonough to defend him.

HELENA, June 8.—The state prison board today abolished the contract system at the penitentiary at Deer Lodge, rejecting all bids received for the contract for caring for the prisoners. The board also appointed Frank

A New Brick Industry.

GREAT FALLS, June 10.—That Great Falls has the opportunity of becoming a clay manufacturing center with a product equal to the world's best output, is the assertion of those in close touch with the development of the new brick industry in connection with the erection of the giant smelter smoke stack. Brick is now being manufactured from local clays for the Boston & Montana company's new stack that has a crushing strength of more than 9,000 pounds to the square inch, and which is practically impervious to water.

Roads and Bridges Damaged.

HELENA, June 9.—The county commissioners of this county feel they will be fortunate if the damage to roads and bridges by the floods is not more than $100,000. Conditions in every part of the county from which reports have been received, indicate roads are practically wiped out and very few bridges remain.

Word was received here today that a Greek section hand was drowned at Craig this morning. He was washing his clothing when he suddenly toppled into the stream.

R. A. Harlow, vice president in Montana of the St. Paul, who is here today from Fergus county, said little damage was done to the Montana roadbed, but that he believed considerable damage was done east of Harlowton, and it will be four days before traffic is resumed.
