

Olney-Lea

On Sunday evening, January 31st Mr. Clarence A. Olney and Miss Jessie M. Lea both of Harlowton were united in marriage. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. T. Porter on Main street. The wedding was a quite ceremony, only the immediate friends of the contracting parties were present, with Rev. Krieger, the Methodist pastor of this charge officiating.

Both the bride and groom are well known in Harlowton, having lived here or in this vicinity for several years. In that time they have gained the friendship and esteem of a host of friends. The groom is well known as the proprietor of the Olney confectionary store on Central avenue. All join in hearty congratulations and best wishes for the happy couple.

CRUSE ITEMS.

Cruse station has been placed on the closed list. Patrons of the road may find their freight most anywhere between switch limits and take such accommodations as they can get.

Mrs. W. C. Jenizen and the wife of the foreman on Graves ranch, visited Shawmut and Cruse this week.

Dwight Krawford has accepted the position as pumper at Cruse on the C. M. & St. P. Ry.

Several new homes are being built here in the past two weeks and are busy building houses and inking wells.

Cruse township will be laid out this month by A. C. Graves.

Harry Davis and Sig Larsen are contemplating putting up saloon here. Eastern capitalists are figuring on establishing a general merchandise store as soon as the lots are laid out.

Jean and Lee Thomas intend to try dry farming on a large scale this year, as they think beyond a doubt it will be a success. They having raised several hundred bushels of potatoes and other vegetables on a dry farm last year.

Mr. Frank Webster and family moved to Bozeman last week to give their children the advantages of school.

Mrs. Maggie Collyer spent a couple of days with Mrs. U. S. Woods this week.

S. Hurisawa, a Japanese laborer, is giving lessons in the Japanese language to some neighboring ladies at Cruse.

Miss Bertha Crawford finds life hardly worth living since her chum Miss Webster has left the vicinity.

Miss Maud Farris, of Cruse leaves soon for a visit of several weeks in the east.

Methodist Services.

Rev. Criegler, was here from Garnett last Sunday and preached both in the afternoon and in the evening. He will not be here next Sunday, but will hold services here Sunday February, 14th. He is endeavoring to make arrangements so that he can be in Harlowton regularly. The plan decided upon will be announced later.

Trial at Lewistown

Ike Brewington, arrived in Harlowton Monday and proceeded on to Lewistown to attend court. Mr. Brewington is the plaintiff in a big case now pending in the district court. He was accompanied by Wm. Lunceford of Harlowton who is a witness in the case. Mr. Brewington has a large ranch near the Snowy Mountains.

Roundup may be County Seat.

S. M. Johnson, of Roundup, brother of M. M. Johnson deputy sheriff paid us a visit the fore part of the week. He was on his way home from Helena where he had been working in the interest of the proposed new county, with Roundup as county seat. The bill for the creation of this new county is in the hands of the house committee. Mr. Johnson thinks it will be favorably reported, and if it is Roundup may get the plum. Roundup is nearly 140 miles from the county seat, a person going from there to Lewistown on business must necessarily be away three days even if he has only fifteen minutes business. This appears to be a pretty strong argument in favor of pulling county buildings at Roundup. The argument applies with equal force to Harlowton.

M. W. of A. Give Dance.

The Modern Woodman of America have made arrangements to give a big dance in the Harlowton Opera House on Washington's birthday, February 22. This is the first dance to be given by the local camp of the M. W. of A. and a most enjoyable time may be expected. A midnight supper will be served at the M. & W. cafe at 50 cents per plate. A cordial invitation is given to all to attend.

EXPERT ON WEATHER.

How Mrs. Wilkin of Syracuse Makes Her Predictions.

STUDIES CLOUDS AND WINDS.

Any One Can Do It, She Says—Has Twenty-seven Signs by Which to Forecast Weather Conditions Without Use of Instruments.

A little woman from Syracuse, N. Y., is making the weather seers, from Major Hersey of Washington down to the littlest clerk in the smallest weather tower in the United States, sit up and take notice.

The little woman is Mrs. Eva Frances Smith Wilkin, wife of Henry Dwight Wilkin, a prominent citizen of Syracuse. And, although she professes to be able to prophesy when to wear your rainy day skirt and when to sport your fall hat better than do the weather bureau men with their big towers and their little instruments, she doesn't make any pretense to being an astronomer, an astrologer or even a scientist.

"All the signs are in the heavens, to be read by any one who cares to do so," she said to a reporter of the New York Globe while visiting the metropolis, "and God's signs are better than the signs of men."

"I began studying the clouds and the winds in a desultory way years ago. At school my favorite studies were physical geography and astronomy, but I never really made any serious experiments until within a year or two ago. Since then I have made several discoveries that are considered rather important.

"For example, I have discovered that there are seven signs which, appearing together sometimes, indicate fair weather for a week ahead. By another sign I can foretell the direction of the wind for twenty-four hours. I predicted the weather for ten days without one mistake. During the same period the weather bureau predictions were inaccurate three or four times.

"You see, the men in the weather bureau sit gazing at little gauges and thermometers, barometers, pluviometers and other mendacious inventions, but they never look out of the window at the clouds. I work without any instruments except my eyes. Every morning I spend an hour standing on the highest point of ground I can find, so that I can scan the entire horizon. I watch carefully the changing pictures and groupings made by the clouds and consider all the accompanying conditions before I make my prophecy.

"Of course the weather bureau men laugh at my methods, but they have to admit the accuracy of my prophecies. Major Hersey of the national weather bureau in Washington has invited me to go up in a balloon with him this autumn to study the atmospheric conditions. He wishes to convince me how much better it is to foretell the weather by scientific methods." And Mrs. Wilkin smiled as if she felt sure of and satisfied with her own nature study methods.

"Any one can find out the things that I have discovered," she says modestly. "There are books on physical geography to be had, and any one is free to study and experiment. There is no secret process about it. Observation and deduction are the basis of my predictions. There are twenty-seven signs to judge by, and of course it is not easy to reconcile opposing signs and conditions. One needs a good deal of practice to enable one to strike the average."

Mrs. Wilkin is a tiny, slender, vivacious woman, with auburn hair and the electric energy of the red haired temperament. She is radiantly enthusiastic over her "heavenly studies," although she has no idea of making any practical or commercial use of her knowledge.

She has been invited to foretell the weather every day for the week of Sept. 14-19, in which the state fair will be held at Syracuse.

Mrs. Wilkin is a Colonial Dame and a Daughter of the American Revolution as well as a weather seer.

Betrothal Bracelet a Delight.

There is no prettier token for a fiancée than a bracelet, and every girl will feel grateful to Prince George of Greece for having revived this fine old custom. He bestowed a betrothal bracelet upon the Princess Marie Bonaparte at the time he slipped an engagement ring upon her finger, and since then his example has been followed by young men all over Europe. The fashion has come in at New York, and no young woman's engagement now will be complete unless sealed by both a ring and a bracelet. The bracelet that now encircles the princess' wrist is a beautiful example of the goldsmith's art. It consists of two bands of gold chased in an antique design. The bands are studded with diamonds and sapphires, and the clasp of each is a heart of diamonds. To a young woman who thinks a lone diamond ring all too small a gift to mark so important an event in her life as the engagement the bracelet will come as a welcome addition.

Mammoth Oil Painting.

Guido Horvath, a Hungarian artist, recently completed at Proctor, Vt., after years of careful work, study and research a mammoth oil painting of "Washington at the Battle of Trenton." It is claimed to be the largest single picture on any subject ever produced in the United States. It is 110 feet long and 11 feet high.

RAILWAY BEAUTY SPOTS.

Phlox and Hydrangeas For Stations. Blue Grass For Right of Way.

One of the good things for which people have to thank the railroads is the progress they are making in beautifying their right of way.

It is the practice of the Pennsylvania, as Moody's Magazine points out, to surround its passenger stations, which are practically the doorways to towns and cities, with little parks with terraces and gracefully curving paths and roadways. To care for these station parks is part of the duty of the maintenance of way department, just as it is to keep the rails and ties in good order. Flowers and shrubbery are planted in artistic plots, and gardeners keep them fresh and flourishing.

At a station on the Long Island railroad, which is a subsidiary of the Pennsylvania, 600 trees and shrubs besides beds of phlox and hydrangeas were set out this year. For another station on the Long Island 425 shrubs and twelve trees have been ordered of the so called perennials and evergreens.

In the open country, too, far from towns, the Pennsylvania has adopted the policy of making its right of way pleasant to look at. Slopes of unsightly rock or dirt are transformed into green terraces.

Henceforth the standard roadbed, when the tracks are in a cut, will include the sodded slopes. Blue grass used for sodding will prevent the erosion which has given engineers so much trouble in times past. In helping to solve the drainage problem the grass is even more useful than it is ornamental.

Plucky Football Player. Burton Miller, right guard on the Norfolk (Conn.) football team, is the pluckiest man playing the game in Connecticut this season. On a recent Saturday Miller had four ribs fractured, but played the game out before seeing a doctor. The other day, when Norfolk met Torrington, Miller surprised players and rooters of the Norfolk eleven by appearing in togs for the fray. He played right guard in both halves. Norfolk lost by a score of 5 to 0, but it was not Miller's fault.
