SIGNALING FOR HELP IN AUSTRIA

Every fortified position in Bosnia-Herzegovina is provided with a "Rauchkugelnofen" (literally, a smoke-ball oven). The device has proved of great service in cases of raids made by natives upon Austrian garrisons. It is peculiar to Bosnia-Herzegovina, and acts as signal both by day and night, in the one case by sending forth a dense column of smoke, in the other, by sending forth smoke that, lit up by the glare of the fire below, can be seen for miles. On noting the signal it is the duty of the next post to send half its men to the help of those in danger. The oven is of stone, and has a square opening at its base. In this opening is an iron grating upon which the smoke ball rests. The ball is composed of pinewood, shavings, and other inflammable material, and is fitted with pieces of slow-match. Each ball weighs about 56 pounds, and burns for about an hour.

It is a Wonder,

BEARS OF MAINE ARE VERY HARD DRINKERS

Bangor, Me.—"All the bears of Penobscot county I have ever known," said William Babcock of Bradley, "feel as if they cannot den up for the winter until after they have had a protracted drunk from eating cranberries that have stayed on the trees cold nights until they were frozen clear through and then hung out and thawed in the sunlight and repeated the operation until fermentation set in and the sweet cider has turned to a good imitation of old Medford rum."

"Of course a bear that is real fat, so fat that his eyes are closing up and making him blind, will stagger away to some old blowdown and hide away under the protecting trunk of a rotten tree and go off into its winter snooze without any sleeping potion; but an average bear that is young and active seems to dread going to sleep for months on a stretch, and puts it off as long as it can and gets drunk and blunders away to the nearest hiding place and drops off to sleep in an intoxicated stupor.

"It is too bad to have a respectable young bear that has passed the summer in picking and eating berries, and that has put on its last layer of fat from gathering and eating mellow windfalls in the autumn orchards, get into the habit of drinking liquor."

"An overdose of hard cider made from fermented apple juice has the same effect on bears that it does on men, and makes them careless of their own welfare and quarrelsome and generally disagreeable."

"I wish the Maine prohibitory law could get at those ungathered apples and put a stop to drunkenness among bears, but I fear the reform movement will arrive too late to do any good to the bears. I have already killed two promising young bears this fall because of their weakness for strong drink, and if the snow holds off long enough I may secure two or three more, though I am ashamed of my conduct."

MAN TAKES QUEER REVENGE.

Under Assumed Name, Has Brother Arrested as His Slayer.

McAlester, Okla.—One of the oddest cases of revenge recorded in the annals of the history of the city of McAlester has been brought to light in this city. James Bickers, of Murphy, Tex., pretending to be Dr. Dr. Baker, fled from the city about a month ago, and settled in the city of McAlester, Okla., where he was arrested by the sheriff of the county on the charge of being a vagrant. The brother of James Bickers, Dr. Dr. Baker, who is now in the city of McAlester, Okla., has been arrested by the sheriff of the county on the charge of being a vagrant. The story appears to be that the brother of James Bickers, Dr. Dr. Baker, was actually arrested and confined in the jail at McAlester, Okla., on the charge of being a vagrant. This enraged the boy so that he sought out his brother and compelled him to defend himself by attacking him on the street. However, the impetuous man was wounded instead of the marshal; and the "Dr. Baker" scheme was the way he chose to get his revenge.

A FAIR SKIER OF NORWAY

Jumping by means of skis in Norway is a great national winter pastime in that picturesquely rugged country. For a long time the people of the Scandinavian peninsula had a practical monopoly on the sport provided by a pair of skis, but since its introduction into the United States the fun of jumping on the long runners has taken hold immensely.
