LOCAL NEWS

W. O. Straight made a business trip to Lewistown during the week.

Johnny Grant, the Roundup contractor, was a business visitor the fore part of the week.

Frank Goss made a business trip to Lewistown Monday returning the following day.

Fred Geisser as chairman of that "steering committee" seems to have his hands full, but he relieves the other members of their burdensome duties.

The railroad officials here say there is a noticeable increase in the passenger traffic the last two weeks. This is one of the best indexes of the flow of business.

Ray Bushnell, one of the civil engineers of the Milwaukee road, did a little engineering work in this vicinity for the road during the fore part of the week.

County Commissioners Zehnter and Starrett shook hands with friends in town Monday and Tuesday. They looked over some road work that has been done south of town by Sam McGregor.

Joseph Liberty of New Lisbon, Wisconsin, who was one of the purchasers of the Fitzpatrick ranch came in from Lewistown Monday where he had closed a deal for the sale of this property. Mr. Liberty is a live wire and buys and sells land with as little fuss as a kid trading marbles.

Engineers S. A. Yeargey and Raymond Richards left Wednesday morning for Martinsdale. From here they will drive about twenty-five miles northeast to look over a site for a reservoir that is under contemplation. This reservoir is to supply the water for a large area that has been reserved under the Carey Land Act.

T. F. Hanzlik has received a letter from Fred Schwenzer who is now in Wausau, Wisconsin. He announced that he will be married on June 9th to Miss Emma Glim, who was employed as waitress in the M. and W. restaurant. Miss Glim's parents live in Wausau and the ceremony will take place at her home.

Deputy Sheriff Firman Tullock of Fergus county who had been at Butte several weeks undergoing treatment at the hospital, passed through last Friday evening in company with Sheriff Martin on his way to Lewistown. Mr. Tullock is still very weak, but is otherwise in good condition, and will soon be able to resume his duties.

Thomas Pierce, of Vernan county, Wisconsin was in town Monday between trains.

Attorney L. D. Glenn and Miss Edna Caine drove to Twodot Monday evening and report a pleasant drive.

S. L. Hodges made a business trip to White Sulphur Springs last Friday and did not return until the fore part of the present week.

Editor W. Eiselein, of the Roundup Record passed through Monday on his way home from Butte where he had been on business.

Mrs. Harry Cosgriff and four children left Monday for Viroqua, Wisconsin where she will visit with her parents, and spend the month of June with old friends.

F. D. Cowles representing the Keefe-Davidson Co., Law Booksellers and publishers of St. Paul made the town Sunday and Monday, and succeeded in getting several orders.

Frank Jennings, special agent and adjuster of the Phoenix Fire Insurance company, looked after business interests in town the fore part of the week.

The Lidgerwood Monitor of Lidgerwood, N. D. has the following to say of Harlowtonite: Mrs. Thomas F. Hanzlik arrived yesterday from Harlowton, Montana for a visit with friends.

Miss Bell Francisco, the county superintendent of schools for Meagher County came in from Judith Gap Wednesday morning, and after visiting the schools here left for White Sulphur Springs Thursday morning.

George Bell, who for several months has been in the employ of the Chicago Milwaukee & Puget Sound road as a machinist at this point, left Monday morning for Deer Lodge where he will accept a similar position. George made many friends during his stay here, and they all wish him the fullest measure of success.

H. D. Myers, manager of the opera house, has erected a large bill board on Central Avenue. It will come in handy for the advertisement of shows at the opera house, and will immediately be put to use in advertising the 4th of July celebration and the circus that will show here in June.

Raymond Richards, a graduate of the University of North Dakota, and who is now in the employ of the Department of the Interior doing hydrologic survey work, measured the Musselshell last Monday and a number of rivers in this section. He has his headquarters at Helena and makes frequent trips along the Musselshell.

Mel Stevens spent several days during the fore part of the week in town.

James Stewart, the county assessor for Meagher County was in from White Sulphur Springs the fore part of the week.

Leo Simonton, the little chap who was shot recently near Cruse, was able to take his first meal out of bed since the accident Tuesday. He seemed to enjoy the outing, although he is still very pale and weak. The News is glad to report his recovery.

A bunch of land seekers came in from Oslo, Minnesota the latter part of last week, and have been looking over the country ever since. They expect to locate in this vicinity, but the exact locality has not yet been decided.

Thomas Cummings, who has a ranch north of Cruse, came in from Helena Saturday where he had been acting as a witness in a very heavy damage suit brought against the Northern Pacific. He did not stay to hear the arguments before the jury, but says there ought to be some very good speeches as these were all kinds of legal talent employed in the case.

Bismarck and Caviare.

If few people like caviare, those who like it at all like it very much indeed. Bismarck was probably its most famous devotee. One gathers from Busch that the Iron Chancellor was prepared to talk caviare to any extent if the subject came up, treating of its varieties and merits with minute knowledge. And twice it comes out that one of his principal grievances against "fat Bork," the holder of the king's private purse, was concerning caviare. Bismarck had sent forty pounds of a choice variety to King William as a present and was astonished to get no present or even a thank you in return. But some friend, dropping into Bork's room, saw a barrel of caviare there with a spoon standing in it and told Bismarck. The chancellor could not forget or forgive Bork's interception of his gift to the king.

The Sea Horse.

The male sea horse has a little pouch in its ventral surface, into which in some manner it places the eggs of its mate. When they are hatched and become too numerous and large to control, the sea horse presses the pouch against a stone and gently urges them to take their departure. At this time they are very small, but they grow rapidly and are preyed upon by myriads of fishes.

"She says she won't marry because she's never yet seen her ideal."
"Maybe it's because her ideal saw her first."—New York World.

VISITS WITH UNGLE BY

Little Shavers.

Many a man who steals a ham and gets caught at it has had no opportunity to steal a railroad and get away with the goods.

The way of the transgressor is usually through the neighbor's water-melon patch.

The Wrights are the highest flying young men in the world—and that's going some.

The world may owe every man a living, but collections seem to be bad at times.

Some people don't forget to pose, even when they are cleaning the cistern.

The most changeable and the most constant thing in the world is woman.

In Philadelphia they are eating ice cream for breakfast. Boston, wake up!

A man who believes too explicitly in dreams is apt to be jilted by one.

Tombstones have no conscience and tell their tales without blushing.

The innocent bystander is an easy mark for the falling brick.

Oystered yet this fall? Neither've we. Let 'em soak awhile.

No one should respect old age in eggs, or youth in whisky.

Many a man, intoxicated by beauty, has been driven to drink.

Fortune Hunting.

When a man marries a woman, he seldom knows what she is worth in round numbers, but later, in his sane moments, he is able to figure out what she costs—and usually she is worth it.

The Star of Hope.

The river runs on through the changes of years—

A tinkle of cymbal, a murmur of rills—

A ribbon by day, a mirror by night,

It bubbles along to be lost in the hills!

In rain, or in winter when covered with ice,

It runs to the ocean where great liners ply.

It curls along ever willing—and true,

As constant and sure as the blue of the sky!

And Hope, like the river, runs on through the years,

A beacon of glory to deeds of renown,

In sunlight or darkness, in sorrow or joy,

'Tis hope, buoyant hope, that is worn as our crown,

No matter what failure, no matter what woe,

The rosy aurora of Hope shows the way,

It beckons us on like the lamplights of home,

To peace and content at the close of the day!

O Hope, thou hast taken the aloe from woe,

Removed half the venom of death with its sting,

Hast wiped away tears from the eyes that are red

And covered the woes of a world with thy wing!

Ah, constant and true thou hast been to us all—

A fount in the desert, a spring in the sun,

A factor so helpful that life would be nil

If hopeless our journey throughout it was run!

Fine View.

A party of newspaper men recently made a trip through the northwest. Asked about the scenery and the attractive things seen en route, the leader of the party—a well-known writer—replied:

"The prettiest thing I saw en route was a hand of four kings—all mine—just before we reached Winnipeg!"

Pluralities.

"Marry a bright woman for success, a pretty one for pleasure, a cook for happiness," writes a student of the problem. Brigham Young had something like this in mind when he began business, but Brigham is dead—Napoleon (O.) News.

Expenses.

Some people find it almost as hard to save money as it is to save Niagara.

Byron Williams

A THOROUGH SPORTSMAN.

"Stop him! Stop him!"
"Not I, just when he is beating the record for the three hundred yards. It would be an absolute crime."
