AN IDEAL COUGH MEDICINE "As an ideal cough medicine I regard Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in a class by itself," says Dr. R. A. Whitshire, of Gwynville, Ind. "I take great pleasure in testifying to the results of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. In fact, I know of no other preparation that meets so fully the expectations of the most exacting in cases of croup and coughs of children. As it contains no opium, chloroform or morphine it certainly makes a most safe, pleasant and efficacious remedy for the ill. It is intended."

STIFF NECK Stiff neck is caused by rheumatism of the muscles of the neck. It is usually confined to one side, or to the back of the neck and one side. While it is often quite painful, quick relief may be had by applying Chamberlain's Liniment. Not one case of rheumatism in ten requires internal treatment. When there is no fever and no swelling as in muscular and chronic rheumatism, Chamberlain's Liniment will accomplish more than any internal treatment.

THE BEST PLASTER A piece of flannel with tapes attached for holding in position, slightly dampened with Chamberlain's Liniment and bound on over the seat of pain is superior to any plaster.

HAS UNWELCOME JOB

"BOB" MELDRUM TO CLEAN OUT WYOMING CATTLE RUSTLERS.

Typical Gun Fighter Will Be Pitted Against Unknown Number of Desperadoes — Men Who Know Say He Will Win.

Denver, Col.—"Bob" Meldrum, a typical gun-fighter of frontier days, has been given the job of "cleaning out" the cattle rustlers who have been making life miserable for the cattlemen in one of their last western strongholds—the Little Snake river country, on the Colorado-Wyoming line, near Utah.

Pitting one man against a band of outlaws who would just as soon kill a human being as a steer, does not look like the accepted idea of "fair play," but those who know "Bob" Meldrum have no fears as to the outcome. The cattlemen of the Little Snake river country are backing the stoney, keen-eyed deputy sheriff against all the "bad men" who infest that part of the country.

For years the country adjoining the Little Snake river has been the haunt of characters more or less undesirable. It is a wild and unfrequented country, remote from railroads. On the vast ranges run countless thousands of cattle and sheep. There have been bloody conflicts between the cattle and sheep men, but finally their differences were adjusted through the recognition of a "dead line." The sheep are kept north of the Colorado-Wyoming line, and the cattle range south of that line, except when being driven to the railroad for shipping purposes.

Before this "dead line" was established clashes were frequent between herders and cowboys, and many partisans of the sheep and cattle barons lost their lives in duels with rifles. Cattle rustling used to be a flourishing industry in this locality also, and some of the old log cabins along the Little Snake river have been the gathering places of hands of desperate outlaws, ready for any mischief, from cattle rustling to robbing trains.

"Bob" Meldrum made his reputation as deputy at Baggs, where he broke up the rustler army and drove the last one out of the country.

Meldrum's fame as a gun fighter spread and he was in active demand wherever there was trouble. He was for some time employed by the mine owners of Cripple Creek and Telluride, during Colorado's bloody war of mining interests. Later he appeared at Boise during the Haywood-Moyer trial. Always his appearance on the scene resulted in a sudden quieting of boisterous spirits. Men who had announced that they "were hunting for trouble," vanished when the trouble appeared in the form of this quiet, determined gun fighter, whose revolver handle is so notched with death scars that it looks as if a bear had been chewing it.

During Meldrum's absence from the Little Snake river country, the industry of cattle rustling showed a decided revival, until now it is said to be almost as flourishing as it was before the day of Tom Horn. The cattle owners claim that there is a regular system of "railroading" stock out of the country. They say that most of the "homesteaders" who have taken out small ranches along the Little Snake valley and its vicinity are not legitimate ranchmen, but are cattle rustlers, who "pass on" the stolen stock into Wyoming and Utah. In this way, it is claimed, thousands of head of cattle are being rustled every year.

It is to break up this system that "Bob" Meldrum has been called upon. The nerry gun fighter knows his men, and he knows just the capacity for resistance in each. As a general rule Meldrum never has recourse to his weapon with which he has established such a record in the west. He fixes his hard blue eyes on his victim, and the individual generally "vamooses" or goes quietly to durance.

Bets are being made in the cattle country that Meldrum will have the rustlers "cleaned out" in three months. Others are betting that he will meet his death on the lonely range from some assassin's bullet.

Cissie—Mamma, mayn't I take the part of a milkmaid at the fancy dress ball? Mamma—You are too little. Cissie—Well, I can be a condensed milkmaid!

There was some cold pudding on the luncheon table, and mamma divided it between Willie and Elsie. Willie looked at his pudding, then at his mother's empty plate. "Mamma," he said earnestly, "I can't enjoy my pudding when you haven't any. Take Elsie's!"

Increased Train Service

Effective May 23 1908, the Northern Pacific Railway augmented its passenger train service by the establishment of new trains, not alone between eastern and western terminals, but locally on main lines and branches in the several states which it serves.

It has thus placed in closer touch than ever the different sections, the various cities and towns, the thriving communities, which for twenty-six years the Northern Pacific has aided and fostered in growth and progress.

This increased efficiency of service means much to the Northern Pacific Railway.

Additional lines projected or actually under construction will still further increase the scope of Northern Pacific co-operation in the development of the Northwest in the course of next year or two.

The present through service comprises affording through equipment without change between Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Fargo, Jamestown, Bismarck, Mandan, Glendive, Terry, Miles City, Forsyth, St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, Billings, Butte, Helena, Missoula, Spokane, Portland, Tacoma, Seattle and Puget Sound.

Direct connections from and to Duluth and Superior. Ask for new time tables showing the increased service in detail.
