AN IDEAL COUGH MEDICINE
"As an ideal cough medicine I regard Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in a class by itself," says Dr. R. A. Whitsel, of Wynville, Ind. "I take great pleasure in testifying to the results of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. In fact, I know of no other preparation that meets so fully the expectations of the most exacting in cases of croup and coughs of children. As it contains no opium, chloroform or morphine it certainly makes a most safe, pleasant and efficacious remedy for the ill it is intended."

STIFF NECK
Stiff neck is caused by rheumatism of the muscles of the neck. It is usually confined to one side, or to the back of the neck and one side. While it is often quite painful, quick relief may be had by applying Chamberlain's Liniment. Not one case of rheumatism in ten results in permanent treatment. When there is no fever and no swelling as in muscular and chronic rheumatism, Chamberlain's Liniment will accomplish more than any internal treatment.

THE BEST PLASTER
A piece of flannel with tapes attached for holding it in position, slightly dampened with Chamberlain's Liniment and bound on over the seat of pain is superior to any plaster.

The World of Sport

San Francisco, Sept. 9.—In a contest unique in local prize rings, Jack Johnson, the world's champion, was accredited with a "newspaper" decision over Al Kaufman at the end of ten rounds of fighting this afternoon at Coffroth's arena. According to the articles of agreement, if both men were on their feet when ten rounds had been fought, no decision was to be given. Referee Eddie Smith, however, stated to the assembled newspapermen after the contest that Johnson had both outfought and outboxed the Californian at every stage of the contest and therefore was entitled to the verdict. Smith gave out this statement:
"Johnson outfought, outth and out-generated Kaufman all through the fight. He fought in his usual patient way and I think he did not hold back. In the ninth round as well as in some of the other rounds, he tried to finish his opponent. Kaufman forced Johnson hard in the seventh and ninth rounds and landed some good body blows. He, however, was no match for the champion."

Johnson opened the battle as though he were determined to make a show of Kaufman. He employed tantalizing left and forceful right uppercuts with such frequency that the erstwhile blacksmith was fairly bewildered. Early in the contest his face began to show signs of the champion's stinging punches and in the third round a well-directed, ponderous wallop started the blood flowing in a stream from Kaufman's face.
Kaufman was slow and clumsy by comparison and his footwork was amateurish. It was not until the seventh round that one of his powerful swings found refuge on the champion's stomach and it was this punch that caused the smile which Johnson had worn up to this time to vanish.
All through the contest Johnson appeared to be holding himself in reserve and it took constant jibing from the spectators and an occasional punch from the blacksmith to start him going. And when he did let go he played with Kaufman as if the latter were a mere toy. Johnson's best blow was a right uppercut at close range and when this found its mark Kaufman's head went bobbing back a foot.
In the ninth round Kaufman found the champion's stomach with a vicious right swing. It was Kaufman's best blow, and it convinced the champion that he had better be careful.
