

AN EXTRA SESSION

Annual interest charge, first issue.....	$21,000.00
Annual interest charge, second issue.....	25,000.00
Total.....	$46,000.00
Amount in public building fund.....	$199,513.29
Annual net income, rents, interest.....	13,490.00

It is estimated that there is five hundred million feet of lumber on the lands of the public building grant. This timber is largely remote from present market, and it will likely be some years before any large sales can be made at $4.00 per thousand, the minimum price fixed by law at which timber can be sold. There is no considerable demand for the agricultural land in the grant.

You gave the matter of the construction of the Capitol wings your careful consideration during the regular session. At your request you are now given opportunity for further consideration. I hope that your present deliberation may result in final legislative action on this subject.

This Assembly, in regular session, created a Publicity Department and made an appropriation for its maintenance, and also for advertising the resources of the State for the year 1910. Through an evident oversight, no appropriation was made for the year 1910. I recommend that such an appropriation as may, in your judgment, seem advisable be now made for the year 1910, and suggest that this appropriation can be made with the chief object of your assembling is under consideration.

There are many questions that, in my judgment, should receive favorable legislative attention, and under different circumstances I should not refrain from asking favorable action thereon by you. However, you have agreed to serve without expense to the State and it does not seem fair to ask or expect that you consume more time than is necessary to properly consider the subject mentioned in your request for this special session.

Your offer to serve without compensation is commendable, and it was no small factor in the determination of the question whether the extraordinary session should be convened.

The making of an appropriation to pay the expenses of this session seems unnecessary. The services, without expense, of a sufficient number of competent employees at the Capitol to perform any clerical duties required by you, are tendered by the elective and appointive State officers; your printing can be done under the State printing contract; and the Furnishing Board will supply the necessary janitor service.

EDWIN L. NORRIS,
Governor.

BIG CROP FOR STATE

three if the land is carefully farmed. The soil is rich in the elements of plant food, more especially, in the mineral elements. It has great wearing power. Much of it also lies beautifully. In some instances for miles and miles the bench looks like a level plain. In other instances it is beautifully undulating. The subsoil is much the same as the soil.

This land is owned by the government and is open to homesteading. Any person who has not yet used his homestead right can get 160 acres of this land for the taking, and in certain areas 320 acres. It is one of the almost unexplainable things that people have been going past this land for decades in search of homes, and have not thought it worth while to take one of these farms as a gift. The brown character of the grass in autumn, and the forbidding stories of the unpatriotic and selfish ranchmen are doubtless responsible for the results mentioned. When this country comes to be farmed as it may be farmed, it is going to lead among the states in the maximum production of grain.

TOWN NAME "79"

days were nearing an end, and he has consequently disposed of the greater part of his holdings at lucrative figures. Piece by piece the land has been sold, at the same time the government land has been settled up, and homesteader on nearly every quarter section of government land where once the herds of Seventy-nine used to roam. At the same time the sections purchased from Mr. Murphy are being disposed of to new settlers who are too late for free land. And in the center of the farms the old-time ranch house is being surrounded with the surveyor's pegs, streets are being laid out and a general store with a large business has been established.

James Bailey, who owns the town-site of forty acres, is taking care that the name of the former owner of the land will not be forgotten, and in one of the principal streets of the new town has been named Murphy avenue.

Another street will bear the name of Heren, after the man who for many years was the trusted foreman of the Seventy-nine, and a third will be named after another former employee of the ranch. The postoffice authorities have consented to the use of the ranch name, spelled without the hyphen, and as one word, for the postoffice which will be established at the new town, and it is expected that the placing of the town lots on the market will bring a number of new buildings.

Seventynine will be the first town in the county which will not be on a railroad. It is situated only twenty miles from Ryegate, on the Milwaukee line, and seventeen miles from Cushman, on the Billings Northern. To these two points county roads are run and a third road from Seventynine to Belmont will soon be petitioned for.

Some of the Murphy cattle still graze on the unsettled sections of land, but these are being sold as rapidly as possible, and by next spring not a single herd of the former hundreds will be left. All that will remain of the great cattle ranch of a few years ago will be the name and the old ranch house with its corrals and branding corrals.

A Boost for the Majestic Orchestra.

The Majestic orchestra of Harlowton, composed of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. North, A. J. Dreyer, C. E. Rieff, Joe Root, Wm. Esmay, T. F. McDowell, and G. H. Wilke, delivered an excellent concert to an appreciative audience at the Judith Gap hall Wednesday evening. The numbers rendered ranged from the old familiar melodies of the homestead to the heavier and more intricate music of the ancient writers, and every number was heartily applauded. The concert lasted an hour and a half, after which the large audience gathered in the dance hall, where the light fantastic was tripped until the early hours. Notwithstanding the fact that the evening was a very stormy one, a large crowd turned out to the concert and dance and all went home fully satisfied. The members of the Majestic orchestra are refined persons of considerable musical talent, and should they visit this city again, a large crowd will turn out to greet them at their concert and dance.—Judith Gap Journal.

"Dry Farming."

Like many other excellent things, "dry farming" is named what it is not, says the St. Louis Daily. Instead of trying to raise crops on dry land the "dry farmer" first makes his land wet by a simple scientific process. He gets his land into the best condition for taking moisture, both snow and rain during the entire season of precipitation. He then sows his seed and afterwards does all he can to keep the moisture in the soil where the roots of the growing plants can suck it up instead of allowing it to evaporate. This he accomplishes by spreading a thin blanket of fine dust over the surface of his fields. This dust is difficult for moisture to penetrate, as anybody can prove to his satisfaction by pouring a little water in the road. It wets the skin of the dust, but nothing more, and the fact that it is just as difficult for water to go up through it, is the soul and secret of "dry farming" as of all farming.

For the support of the Indians in Montana the following appropriations have been asked: Crow Indians, $8,000; Fort Peck, $50,000; Fort Belknap, $20,000; Flathead, $9,000. An item of $25,000 to complete the irrigation system on the Fort Belknap reservation is also asked, as is also $100,000 for the irrigation works on the Flathead reservation; $20,000 on Blackfoot reservation; $225,000 on the Fort Peck reservation. An appropriation of $25,000 is also asked to survey and allot the Fort Peck lands, and $2,500 for incidental expenses of the Indian service in Montana.

Senator Dixon has introduced an amendment to the law opening the Flathead reservation to settlement.

The amendment authorizes the secretary of the interior to survey and subdivide into lots, not less than two acres or more than five, all unallotted lands fronting Flathead lake and embracing in the limits of the reservation, whether classified as grazing, agricultural or timber lands. It is provided that these lots be sold to the highest bidder and the proceeds used in the construction of irrigation projects now in progress on the reservation. The amendment also provides that when the allotment has been completed on the reservation, the secretary of the interior, on application of Indian allottees, may sell or dispose of not to exceed 60 acres of such individual allotment, half of the sale proceeds being paid to the allottee and half held in trust at 1 per cent until the Indians' trust patent expires. This will permit of more rapid settlement of reservation lands.

THE BEST PLASTER
A piece of flannel with tapes attached for holding it in position, slightly dampened with Chamberlain's Liniment and bound on over the seat of pain is superior to any plaster.

STIFF NECK
Stiff neck is caused by rheumatism of the muscles of the neck. It is usually confined to one side, or to the back of the neck and one side. While it is often quite painful, quick relief may be had by applying Chamberlain's Liniment. Not one case of rheumatism in ten requires internal treatment. When there is no fever and no swelling in the muscular and chronic rheumatism, Chamberlain's Liniment will accomplish more than any internal treatment.

AN IDEAL COUGH REMEDY
"As an ideal cough medicine I regard Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in a class by itself." Says Dr. R. A. Wiltshire, of Gwynville, Ind. "I take great pleasure in testifying to the results of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. In fact, I know of no other preparation that meets so fully the expectations of the most exacting in cases of croup and coughs of children. As it contains no opium, chloroform or morphine it certainly makes a most safe, pleasant and efficacious remedy for the ill it is intended."
