

CITY NEWS

A thief broke into the residence of Mr. Shaw of Three Forks a few days ago and took some silver ware and clothing. He left Three Forks and was captured in Lennep by Mr. Larson, express agent. He was wearing the clothing but had disposed of the silver ware, trading some of it to a rancher for his dinner and burying the rest in a badger hole near Lennep. He was brought to Harlowton and locked up until deputy sheriff Copenhagen of Three Forks arrived.

TRAVELERS SEE NIGHT SCENES

Another thrill, another means of entertainment has been devised by the passenger department of one of the big railroad systems for the benefit of its patrons.

The searchlight, hitherto considered an adjunct of sailing vessels alone, has been seized upon as a means for enabling railroad passengers to enjoy the scenery along the line after dark. In the past darkness has made necessary the vacating of the observation platform, but now the unfolding panorama of hill and valley, river and lake, farm and village as picked up by the searchlight and its operator will doubtless make the platform of the observation car as popular in the evening as during the day. This is an innovation on railroad trains, and its introducers believe it will meet with as much popularity as has the use of the searchlight on the river and coast steamers.

It may be advisable for residents along the line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul to draw their blinds after dark and for strolling young couples to run when they hear a train, for the "searchlight man'll git you if you don't watch out."

The lights on the fast mail between Minneapolis and Chicago on this line are of 3,000,000 candle power and throw a beam three miles. Local officials of the "Milwaukee" are at present considering the possibility of installing the searchlight service on their crack transcontinental train the "Olympian."

Concerning "Friedman's Vaccine" At the recent meeting of the Rhode Island Medical Society, Dr. Barnes of the Rhode Island State

Sanatorium for Tuberculosis presented a report with his results on the Friedman vaccine. It merely adds to the mass of information that goes to make up the literature concerning Friedman's attempt at exploiting the consumptive, cure all of which shows the Friedman treatment to have no advantage over other methods of treating tuberculosis; more, in all probability, it is a dangerous one. The medical profession has, until recently, maintained toward this product an attitude of reasonable scientific skepticism, says "The Journal of the American Medical Association" in a recent editorial. In view of the fact, however, that it seems impossible to find a single reliable favorable report, the time has come for an end to the hope that in the Friedman vaccine we have a cure for tuberculosis. Moreover, since the methods of exploitation have become so obviously commercial, with what seem to be an utter disregard for the humanitarian viewpoint, the time surely has come for not only a definite stand against the sale of this product but for positive opposition to the methods used by those financially interested in its promotion. Friedman secured the financial results which wide spread newspaper exploitation gave him and slipped away, leaving a host of "Friedman Incurables" to divide with him the dollars of the too hopeful and credulous sufferers. These "institutions" are being organized in different parts of the country and the personnel of those connected with these organizations in practically every instance is sufficient to suggest their true nature. Steps have been taken in several states to check this exploitation of the consumptive for commercial gain, especially in Idaho, Iowa and Arkansas. In others, the weakness of local organizations has made this impossible. What is now needed is that these unscrupulous attempts should be met with an intensive campaign of education of the public concerning the dangers and worthlessness of this treatment.
