TABLE TALK.

A Horrible Tale.

Quoth the waiter "What is yours, sir?"
Said the guest, "I'll try a pie."
Returned the waiter bye and bye,
Custard, lemon, apple, pumpkin,
Peach or mince, sir, will you try?"
Guest facetious,—"Give me currant,
Alternating currant pie."
Vanished waiter hurriedly.
Soon returned he with the currant—
Alternating currant pie.
First a currant, then a fly,
'Neath the crust alternate lie.
Perished waiter horribly.
—Life.

The Poetic Household.

Pass the butter, gentle Mabel,
Shove it lightly through the air;
In the corner of the dish, love,
You will find a nut-brown hair.
Lovingly I've stroked your tresses,
In the happy days gone by;
Now I strike them every mealtime
In the butter or the pie.

The New Railroad.

Phillipsburg Mail.

The long-talked-of railroad from Butte to Anaconda and Phillipsburg seems to have at last assumed a tangible form, and is now an almost positive fact that it will be built. The engineers began the work of surveying the line in dead earnest Monday morning, and that part of the work will be completed in short order. The intentions, as well as we can learn, are to have the road completed as far as Phillipsburg this year, which will make the burg a terminal point for some little time. Then it is the intention of the company to extend its lines across the range into the Bitter Root valley, thence north to Missoula and then to the western boundary line of the state. The new line will be of inestimable value to Flint Creek district, as it will open up one of the best mineral sections in Montana as well as one of the greatest timber resources in the country. The people of Flint Creek district have cause to congratulate themselves upon the probable acquisition of the new road. Of the new road the Inter Mountain has the following to say:

Prominent citizens of Anaconda have incorporated a company for the construction of a railroad between Butte and that place, and west via Phillipsburg. None of the officials of the Anaconda company figure among the projectors of the enterprise, though its chief engineer is said to have charge of the survey which began today. But two suppositions are tangible in regard to the proposed line. Either the Anaconda company is backing the enterprise or else the Great Northern is doing so. So long as the result shall be the establishment of the needed connection between the smelter city and the mines which supply its furnaces, it makes little difference who is meeting the expenses of surveying and constructing. The important fact is that the work has been begun, and that it will give ample assurance, if completed, that the business of the two principal cities of Montana will not again be injured by the arbitrary exactions of other railroads in the matter of freight rates. The business interests of Butte and Anaconda involve too much money and the welfare of too many people to be ignored and depressed by a few men like Thomas F. Oakes, who hitherto could calmly sit in their offices in New York and with a stroke of the pen throw 5,000 people out of employment, upset real estate values and reduce the mineral output of a great mining center like Butte. The Anaconda company has spent $40,000,000 since it began business in this state, and it is entitled to some decent consideration at the hands of the railroad companies whose traffic and profits it has done so much to enhance. If it is denied such treatment, its only resource is to look out for itself and establish some independent communication through which its operations may be continued. The effect of the building of the new line, whether it be an independent enterprise or an extension of the Great Northern, will be extremely beneficial. In the first place it will give employment to many of the idle men of the district; secondly it may induce the Union Pacific to resume charge of the Montana Union and shake loose from the Northern Pacific which has been a dead weight around its neck; thirdly it may compel the Northern Pacific to build to Anaconda and perhaps Garrison, or lose the bulk of its Montana business, no part of which it ever deserved. All these things may happen as a result of the building of the new road and for that reason the people of Montana have a right to feel good over the prospects which the enterprise opens up.

Going Abroad.

The best posted steamship people estimate the number of Americans who will go to Europe this season for pleasure at 40,000. These 40,000 will spend not less than $60,000,000 in the old country, and in addition there are 50,000 Americans temporarily residing in Europe who will spend $50,000,000 more. This $110,000,000 will be taken out of our circulation, and yet there are some people who say there is not enough money to do business with in the United States. Doubtless there would be more if Americans would generally stay at home and do their touring in their own beautiful land.
