GIGANTIC LOCOMOTIVE.

One of the Big Fellows Makes its Initial Trips in Missoula.
 One of the new gigantic ten wheel freight locomotives that have been assigned to this division of the Northern Pacific railroad made its initial trip yesterday to Missoula. It is No. 1250, and is certainly a powerful and imposing machine, costing in the neighborhood of $30,000. It was built by the American Locomotive company, of Schenectady, New York. The heaviest engines heretofore used on the road weigh about 160,000 pounds. These twelve new mountain climbers weigh 200,000 pounds apiece. One can readily appreciate their grasp, and tenacity on a T rail, and, to a certain degree, comprehend their immense draft and capacity to haul trains of between fifty and sixty cars up the numerous mountain grades. The use of these stupendous machines, it is expected, will obviate the employment of "double headers" over the incumbrances. So greatly do these locomotives overshadow the ordinary engine now in use, that the "switchers" in the yards remind one of "coils" running at the side of a horse 17 hands high.—Missoulian.

MUST SHOW CAUSE.

State Furnishing Board is Cited to Appear.

Helena, Aug. 30.—The supreme court has issued an alternative writ of mandate, directing the state furnishing board, consisting of Governor Toole, Secretary of State Hays, and Attorney General Donovan, to execute the contract with the Robert Mitchell Furniture company of Cincinnati for furniture for the new capitol building, or to show cause, October 1, why it had not done so.

The court declined to issue an order restraining the majority of the board from re-advertising for bids or from reawarding the contract to another firm, as requested by E. Warren Toole, the attorney for the furniture company.
 When the court passed on the application for the writ of mandate Chief Justice Brantly said he was inclined to believe that the matter should have first been brought in the district court, but, owing to the fact that the issue involved the expenditure of state funds and because it was important, it should be passed on without delay, he had consented to take the question up.
 Associate Justice Milburn said he ordinarily would be opposed to such proceedings, but the urgency of the case should be taken into consideration.

Associate Justice Pigott said he endorsed the views of the other members of the court. He said that the reasons given by a majority of the board for rescinding the contract that had been once granted were puerile.
 The state furnishing board will advertise for new bids and will re-let the contract subject to the will of the supreme court.

IDEAS ARE DESIRED.

Governor, in Receptive Mood on the St. Louis Exposition Proposition.
 The letter that Governor Toole wrote this week to D. M. Houser, chairman of the committee on legislation of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, in which he admitted that Montana had nothing available in the way of funds with which to prepare for an exhibit at the St. Louis World's Fair has awakened the citizens of the state to a sense of the predicament in which Montana will find itself, as one of the leading states in the Louisiana purchase, if it is unable to make a respectable showing at St. Louis. The governor of the state is seeking information upon the point of how the state can best make up for the oversight of the legislature in not making any appropriation for the fair.

"No, I have not decided what to do in regard to the fair," said the governor in discussing the subject of Mr. Houser's letter and his reply. "I hardly think there is a citizen of the state who is opposed to Montana being well represented at the St. Louis undertaking because this state comprises a respectable portion of the original purchase, the centenary of which is to be celebrated in 1903. The failure of the legislature to make an appropriation makes it devolve upon the enterprising citizens to help the enterprise along as a matter of state pride, relying upon the next legislature to reimburse them. I hope the press of the state will agitate the subject and invite ideas that the suggestions may be available."

"I am waiting to hear from the people before taking any further steps. No one can doubt that the state should be up and doing for it takes a long time to prepare exhibits and find a place in which to exhibit them. If we announce to the St. Louis people early in the day that we will make an exhibit the probabilities are that we will receive more favors in the way of advantageous location for our building than we would if we postpone its construction until 1903."

The governor is not advocating such a large expenditure of money as was made upon the Chicago World's Fair. He wants to see the state well represented, but hopes that nothing will occur that will give critics cause for complaint about extravagance in the management of the state's exhibit.

From what the governor said it is evident that he would welcome a healthy discussion of different ideas for getting around the legislature's oversight.—Helena Herald.

A BIG WEDDING FEE.

The Generous Uses to Which Henry Ward Beecher Put It.
 In his "Eccentricities of Genius" Major Pond says that often while traveling Henry Ward Beecher improved his time by looking what he called "a general house-keeping" of his pockets, which would get loaded up with letters and papers until they could hold no more, when he would clear them out and destroy such papers as were worthless.

On one occasion Beecher happened to put his hand in the watch pocket of his pantaloons and found there a little envelope which he opened. When he saw its contents, he called Major Pond to sit beside him and remarked: "You remember the evening I married C. P. Huntington. I was so much interested in the subject that I forgot he handed me a little envelope as he went out of the door. I put it in the watch pocket of my pantaloons and never thought of it again until just now, and here it is, four $1,000 bills. Now," he said, "don't tell any one about it, and we will have a good time and make some happiness with this money. We will just consider that we found it."

And so in a day or two Mr. Beecher went with Major Pond to look at a cargo of fine oriental rugs, many of which he purchased and sent to different friends, and afterward he spent what remained of the money for coin silver lamps, unmounted gems and various pieces of bric-a-brac, all of which he gave away until he had used up the entire $4,000 "in making happiness among those whom he loved."

After Mr. Beecher's death the major related to Mr. Huntington the incident of this discovery of the four $1,000 bills, and the railway magnate observed: "I should never have given them to him. It was all wrong. I made a mistake. Money never did him any good."

The Questions of Clarence.
 "Well, Clarence, what is it?" asked the boy's papa.
 "I didn't say anything, papa," replied Clarence.
 "I know you didn't, but it is fully five minutes since you asked a question, and I know from experience that an other is due about this time."
 "Well, papa, what are all those big United States flags made of?" asked the boy.
 "Some of them are made of silk Clarence, but by far the greater number are made of bunting."
 "And, papa?"
 "Well, Clarence?"
 "Are the little flags made of baby bunting?" — Pittsburg Commercial Gazette

Give Everybody a Chance.
 Emerson's dictum that we should treat every one as if he were all be ought to be an excellent rule to practice in daily life. It is human nature to rise to the level that is expected of it. It is not necessary to waste time upon uncongenial people unless you are bound to them by strong family ties, but it is important that all with whom you come in contact be studied, with the desire on your part to give credit for all that is good in them and that nothing in their outward circumstances or appearance be allowed to prejudice you against them.—Ada C. Sweet in Woman's Home Companion.
