MONTANA NEWS.

It is estimated that it will take five months yet to complete Bozeman tunnel. General Manager Dodge, of the Denver & Rio Grande, says that the road will be extended into Montana. Let her come.

Progress was made in the Bozeman tunnel last week to the extent of 72 feet—47 feet in the east end and 25 in the west end.

A Newfoundland dog gave the alarm and saved the Missoula Lumber Company's steam mill from burning a few days ago.

The Billings stampeder to the Little Big Horn gold mines have returned with the usual report that there was no gold to be found.

A half dozen new caboose cars for the Rocky Mountain division of the Northern Pacific, were delivered Saturday at the Helena freight yards.

Bishop Zeehandelaar writes that our exhibit of ores at the Amsterdam exposition is proving a very attractive feature, and is receiving the attention of all nations.

The Earl of Eylesford came over from England the past week to visit his ranch in Wyoming, after which he will go to the Yellowstone Park, and probably go east over the Northern Pacific.

Indians always have an eye to the main chance. The other day an ox was killed near Benton by lightning. As soon as permission could be obtained from the owner of the carcass it was skinned and there was a feast in the Sioux camp.

Gen. Blake, in crossing the ferry at the Clarke's Fork on Sunday, lost his buckboard and team of mules and all his clothing, except what he had on, and narrowly escaped with his life. The mules became unruly and backed the buckboard over the ferry boat.

The Butte Sunday Miner of the 12th says: On last Wednesday the Red-Rock Junction, and Salmon City coach was stopped by two masked men on the Montana side of the Main Range and robbed. There were no passengers on board that day. The driver, "Red" McDonald, was held up and robbed of $30—all the money he had. It is not known at this writing whether the highwaymen secured any additional money or valuables.

Master Mechanic LaRue, of the Northern Pacific railroad, has received instructions to make preparations for the grand excursion which is to take place at the time of the driving of the golden spike to unite the approaching ends of the great Transcontinental Short Line. The arrangements will be made for four trains of twelve cars each from the East, and two from the West with noted guests and visitors to participate in the ceremonies which are to occur at a spot which has been selected about 29 miles west of Helena, where an immense pavilion is to be erected. It is understood that the celebration will probably take place on Saturday, September 8th.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

Two suicides in Chicago on Sunday. Mexico is said to be on the brink of another revolution.

The Atlantic & Pacific railroad has been formally opened to traffic. C. E. Ceilward, a New York broker has failed with liabilities of $60,000.

A very few telegraph strikers are mentioned as returning to work in the great cities.

The Kimball hotel property was burned in Atlanta, Ga., entailing a loss of $1,000,000; insurance $200,000.

The Senate committee on labor and education is in session in New York, listening to evidence regarding the causes of the present telegraphic strike.

A farmer named Joe Tulford was lynched by citizens of Weller county, Ga., for the murder of his wife, in which he was aided by two negroes.

Vineyard Haven, a Cape Cod village, was burned on Sunday. Loss about $200,000 and hundreds of people made homeless. Charitable contributions for their support are in order.

The Western Union officials in New York claim that on Monday night 150 wires were cut leading into that city. They employ detectives to watch the wires but so far no arrests have been made.

The American and the German ministers at the court of Mexico are quarreling and the latter taunts the former that the United States is a powerless nation in a military sense. These things having come to the notice of the war department orders have been sent to each state adjutant-general asking a report as to how long it would take to mobilize the militia.

A dispatch states that Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express was robbed between Riverside and Pioneer of $3,200. Express Agent Jno. Collins was killed, one passenger wounded, and both stage horses killed.

A report reached Tombstone that the soldiers at Camp Ures, forty-five miles north of Hermosillo, mutinied on the 8th inst., killing the captain and first lieutenant. The mutineers fled to the mountains, taking arms and ammunition.

There was a bad break in stocks on Monday, especially Northern Pacific and Oregon Transcontinental. It is supposed to be caused by the manipulations of Jay Gould, who is anxious to secure a controlling interest in those roads and supersede Villard.

Frank Hutchinson, a "fin-horn" gambler, at Denver, got on a spree and spent all his money and that of his wife, who was waiter girl in a theatre. Then one morning he cut her throat with a razor so that she cannot live and ended his own life by almost cutting his head off.

On Sunday last, at Dubuque, Ia., the wife of U. S. Senator W. B. Allison committed suicide by drowning herself in the Mississippi. Her body was found next morning. She had tied a stone to her dress the more effectually to carry out her intention. She was suffering from mental disease and had tried to commit suicide before.

Big Gold Nuggets.

On the 18th of August, 1860, a large piece of gold was taken from the Monumental Quartz Mine, Sierra Buttes, which weighed 1,596 ounces troy, the value of which was estimated at from $21,000 to $30,000. The nugget was sold to H. B. Woodward, of San Francisco, for $21,366.52. A fine specimen was taken from the Rainbow Quartz Mine, Chipp's Flat, in 1861. It was taken from a depth of 200 feet. Later it was shipped to London and worked there. It yielded $22,000. In 1855 a nugget was found at French Ravine that weighed 532 ounces, and was worth $10,000. It contained considerable quartz, which is not calculated in its weight. In 1851, at French Ravine, a nugget was found which weighed 426 ounces, and was valued at $8,000. A nugget is reported to have been found at Minnesota valued at $5,000. In 1850 a piece of gold quartz was found in French Ravine which contained 203 ounces of gold, worth $4,893. At Smith's Flat, in 1866, a piece of gold was taken from a claim which was worth $2,716, and weighed 146 ounces. At Smith's Flat, in 1864, a nugget was found weighing 144 ounces, and worth $2,605. At Little Grizzly Diggings, in 1869, a nugget worth $2,000 was found. A nugget weighing ninety-four ounces, and valued at $1,770, was found at the Hope Claim, four miles below the Mountain House. At French Ravine, in 1860, a nugget was found worth $1,757, and weighing ninety-three ounces. At Smith's Flat, in 1861, a nugget was found which weighed eighty ounces, and was valued at $1,500. From 1854 to 1862 twelve gold nuggets, ranging from thirty to 147 ounces, were taken from the Live Yankee Claim at Forest City. From 1856 to 1862 a number of gold nuggets, varying from thirty to 100 ounces, were found in the Oregon Claim at Forest City. A specimen worth $5,000 was taken from the Oriental (Gold Gate) Quartz Mine.—Sierra County (Cal.) Tribune.

Plain English Always Best.

Your servant says, "A man told me so;" the most learned and eloquent of your acquaintance would be more likely to say, on the same occasion, "A certain person informed me." Here the person is not a certain but an uncertain one, and the thing told may have nothing in it of information. Year by year our language loses something of its propriety and force. It is doubtful whether, in the no longer unlettered, but still ignorant, ranks of the English people, a sound and honest vulgarity exists as it did when Landor wrote. A footman would be more likely to say he had been "informed" than that he had been "told." The plain yeoman who, at that period, might have said it cost him a deal of money to build a house, would now tell us that he had expended a considerable sum in erecting a residence. We no longer eat and drink, we "partake of refreshments," and we contrive, by some miracle, to "partake" even when we dine alone. Affected rusticity of speech is as much to be shunned as affected anything else. The true vulgar were never guilty of it. Those whose vulgarity has been named "Philistinism"—and the term is terribly significant—are guilty of all affectations that a plain man's mind can conceive and detest. But if we need not be rustic we need not be roundabout. The simplest words are always the best; and so unerringly does their habitual use indicate a clear mind, an earnest meaning and a sincere intent, that he will always be better worth listening to who never says "arrive" when he should say "come," nor "proceed" when he might say "go."—Godfrey Turner, in McMillan's.
