LOCAL LAYOUT

White lead, paints and oils at Douglas & Weirick's, Park street.

Edwin Curd, J. Rickenbaugh and Isaac Curd, of Fulton, Mo., came in from the Park last evening.

Gallatin county last year produced $20,000 worth of the gold and silver product of Montana.

G. H. Wright, of the ENTERPRISE, left yesterday for a visit to Gardiner and Mammoth Hot Springs.

A fine lot of Chamber and Parlor suits just received at F. A. Kreiger's.

Charles Auncney, of this county, is driving 800 cattle through from Idaho to supplement his present herd of about the same number.

Rev. B. F. Stuart, a former Billings clergyman, now occupying a dairy ranch near that town, went east to-day from a visit to the western towns.

McBrayer '70 whisky at Fowle's.

The report is current that a party of surveyors are at work laying out a townsite about two miles this side of Gardiner as the terminus of the Park branch.

Particular attention given to prescriptions at the Park Street Pharmacy. DOUGLAS & WEIRICK.

Among Parkward bound travelers now in town are Chas. Spear, Mrs. P. McCormick, Mrs. W. Bracken, Mrs. J. A. King and Miss Ella Hixon, all of Junction City.

F. D. Dibble, of Fargo, manager of Farnsworth & Wolcott's real estate business in that town, is a guest at the Brunswick Hotel. He leaves to-day for the Park.

Wm. Arnell, one of the proprietors of the Headquarter's Hotel, Lisbon, Dakota, and friend of Drew B. Allen, is paying a visit to the booming town of the Yellowstone.

Five stationery, blank books and fancy goods at Douglas & Weirick's, Park street.

C. A. Roberts, wife and three sons, Miss Fannie Holliday and W. A. Roberts, all of Fargo, came down from the Park last evening and will return homeward to-day. They may be found at the Livingston.

Lawrence & Staff have for sale stoves of every description, and will warrant to suit purchasers in both style and price. They have also full line of general hardware.

The dense cloud of smoke by which the atmosphere is obscured and the stinging smell of burning vegetation indicates that fires are raging in the brush and prairie grass somewhere not a great many miles away.

Souvenir Albums of the National Park just received at Douglas & Weirick's, Park street.

A rumor was in circulation a few days ago that Henry Villard had failed. It proved untrue upon investigation, and he will still hold his firm grasp upon Northern Pacific and other northwestern railroad stocks.

Railroad tickets bought and sold at the Brewery Headquarters. P. Flannery.

Cheese cigars at Douglas & Weirick's.

T. S. Applegate, of the Adrian Michigan Times, returned from the Park Thursday and made us a pleasant call. Mr. Applegate is accompanied by his wife and is with Mr. W. B. Thompson's party, who go to Helena and will return home by the Union Pacific.

The present period of warm weather is said to be causing the disappearance of the snow from the high peaks which border the upper valley. It will not take it all, but will leave the mountain tops merely flecked with the snowy patches, instead of covered with white caps as before.

The Art Gallery will be here but a few days now is the time to fill your parlors with pictures at bottom prices.

J. W. Rock and J. A. McMartin, of Muskegon, Mich., who have been visiting Livingston and the Park during the past three weeks, will go east in a day or two, carrying with them such golden opinions of this country as will bring them back again and induce many others to come with them.

We acknowledge with the compliments of A. B. Curry, president, a ticket of admission to the Board of Trade rooms at Livingston. The officers and members of the organization are live representatives of an active business community, whose giant strides toward building up a great city are wonderful as true. We expect to avail ourselves at an early day of the privileges conferred by the ticket.—Arant Courier.

Doctors Lebecher and Girard this afternoon performed the operation of trepanning upon John Chjanick, making an opening in his chest into which a large sized catheter was inserted. The pus cavity which was sought for was not found, however. The patient was placed under the influence of anesthetics for the operation.—Miles City Press 16th.

Farmers, if you want the best make of mowers, rakes, harvesting machinery and agricultural implements of all kinds, call upon Lawrence & Staff, Main street.

It was considered advisable during the last two nights to put an extra force on duty as guards at the jail—more as a matter of precaution than from actual necessity. There was a strong feeling against McFarland, and among a certain class talk of lynching was not uncommon, but went no further than mere talk. The prisoner will be taken to the county jail to-day.

Call at the Gilt Edge for "Lurline Club," and "Entre las Rosas" Cigars.

On the 14th the presidential party were encamped at the forks of Wind river and intended to remain there a whole day. When they left there they were to take with them sufficient supplies to last them through the remainder of their journey, as that was the last supply camp. They were in a fine game country, and at the time the dispatch was sent the whole party were out hunting.

James Stanley's funeral will take place this afternoon about 2 o'clock—or after the arrival of the train from the west, which will bring from Bozeman a large number of friends. The funeral arrangements are in charge of F. W. Draper. The pall-bearers will be P. S. Robison, T. S. Haverly, Mr. Locke, Mr. Murray, J. T. Lilly and Frank Loring. The procession will be headed by the Opera House brass band.

General Anderson's private car, the "Montana," went west yesterday bearing that gentleman and Henry Thompson, John L. Davenport, and Garret H. Smith, commissioners appointed to inspect fifty miles of the Northern Pacific. W. Fitzhugh Smith, of New York, a relative of Walter Ayrault, of Livingston, and Rev. Mr. Dickey accompanied the party and they will all return here on Saturday for a trip to the National Park.

Yesterday, before D. H. Budlong, acting coroner, a jury was empanelled which, after viewing the remains of James Stanley, and hearing the evidence relating to his death (which has been already published) returned a verdict "that the said James Stanley was a native of Wisconsin, aged twenty-seven years, and that he came to his death on the 16th day of August from a gun-shot wound received at the hands of Walter C. McFarland, intentionally, on the night of the 11th or the morning of the 12th of August, 1883, at Livingston, in the county of Gallatin, Montana." It was signed by J. P. Nolan, J. R. McNamara, A. Lawrence, Jr., Isaac Orschel, F. A. Kreiger, and Wm. Wright, jurors.

Judge Boyne, Northern Pacific land agent at Dismarck, and one of the oldest land agents in the employ of the road, is visiting Livingston, and after a stay of a day or two will make a trip into the Yellowstone Park, and perhaps across the divide into Bozeman and Helena. He is very much pleased with Livingston, and says that from railroad aid alone we are bound to have a good town here. The shops at this point, he says, are larger than any on the line of the road except at Brainerd, and from the nature of their location at the base of the mountains, must always employ a greater force of men than anywhere on the road except at the terminal points. Opinions coming from such a man as Judge Boyne are entitled to the highest consideration.

Though the number of tourists who have passed through Livingston this season en route to the Park has been very large, it is said that fully as many have entered by the western border, coming by way of the Utah & Northern railroad and Beaver Canyon. Great numbers of visitors have come from California, Colorado and Utah, and have all come by the western route. Beside these, there has been no inconsiderable number from western Montana who have preferred to travel the old route rather than come by way of the Northern Pacific. As the season advances, however, those going in by way of Livingston are in a majority, and though the western entrance will be patronized more or less by tourists from the southwest, the branch railroad will in future be traveled by practically all visitors to the Park.

It is with much surprise and regret that we learn of the firm of Schreiner & Sons, wholesale liquor dealers of Bozeman and Livingston, being involved in financial difficulties, and with an equal amount of satisfaction that we receive the assurance that the trouble is only temporary. An assignment has been made to John Endres & Co., distillers of St. Louis, but this would not have involved the suspension of the firm had not Nelson Story, the Bozeman banker, placed the business under attachment to secure a debt owed to him. The Livingston house will continue without closing up, and it is believed that all liabilities of the firm will be settled and business resumed. We are assured that the firm has credit sufficient to tide it over all difficulties. J. Schreiner & Sons were among our most popular and square-dealing wholesale houses and we should greatly regret seeing them withdraw from the field, and trust that as announced the em-barrasment is only temporary.

A gentleman from the Park says that notices are posted up around the Hotel at Mammoth Hot Springs forbidding anyone to hire teams or conveyances of any kind within the boundaries of the Park except when the bargain is with Wakefield & Hoffman, the proprietors of the stage line. The employes around the hotel are also careful to discourage any attempt to act contrary to the spirit of the notice. This may be according to the provisions and privileges embodied in the lease to the Park Improvement company but it looks as if such a rule stringently enforced might become a hardship to the general public. We fear there will, from time to time, develop themselves incidents of this nature of the Park that will create wide-spread dissatisfaction. The terms of the lease to Hatch and his associates are not altogether in accordance with public desire, and if any appearance of an attempt is made to exceed those privileges there will be no lack of angry comment.

M. W. Alderson, of Bozeman, was in Livingston last week, and seems to have put his visit to good use in taking a close survey of the town in all its details. Upon his return home he wrote for the Courier a most practical, and if not strictly flattering, at least truthful sketch of Bozeman's sister town of the Yellowstone. The article comprises a classified list of the business houses; an account of the better class of buildings, complete and in course of erection; and some reference to the railroad shops. In conclusion he says: "The town is truly booming and lively at that, though few of the residents seem to realize it. Business is reported as good, but all expect it to be much better, and constantly improve for the next two years at least. Good residences are very few, nearly all the money being in business and business structures. The lots on which the town is built were purchased from the railroad company on time, and but few deeds have as yet been made."

Notice of Dissolution.

Notice is hereby given that J. L. Kane and Chas. Rosebrough, doing business under the firm name of Kane & Rosebrough, is this day dissolved by mutual consent. J. L. Kane will continue the business, pay all bills and receipt for all dues owing said firm. Dated Livingston M. T., August 6th 1883. JAMES L. KANE. CHAS. ROSEBROUGH.
