Dr. Hunter was in town yesterday. He says the published story of his interview with Beecher is entirely correct.

The best butter in Livingston is kept and sold by Mrs. Lyons, the Clark street grocer. She will sell in large or small quantities.

The entertainment given by Maggie Stewart-Woodhouse last evening was well attended by a delighted audience.

This is the season for fruits of all kinds, and fresh vegetables, and Matthiessen is the only man in Livingston who keeps a full stock of them. Go to any of his three stores.

Co. Havers has opened his barber shop in the St. E. m. restaurant, where he will wait upon his patrons in his usual artistic style.

Farmers, if you want the best make of mowers, rakes, harvesting machinery and agricultural implements of all kinds, call upon Lawrence & Sons, Main street.

This is the first day of autumn. The poetic quotation, "The melancholy days are come," &c., now begins active duty and will have a steady engagement until winter.

C. W. Savage & Sons have just received a large stock of carpets of all kinds, which they will sell at St. Paul prices; also ladies' collars in great variety that are warranted to please.

Rev. B. M. Stevenson, Presbyterian minister from Bozeman, is in town. He has rapidly gained acquaintance in Livingston, and seems to make a most favorable impression upon all whom he meets.

Get some of Donovan's fine creamery butter, just received.

Bishop L. R. Brewer came in from the west yesterday and held service last evening in Bingham's hall which was attended by a goodly congregation. He leaves to-day for Billings where he will officiate on Sunday.

For a fine quality of tea, or good, pure coffee, go to the Star grocery store on Clark street. Mrs. Lyons.

A returned tourist says that the Park is full of notables and one cannot go ten rods in any direction without rubbing against a lord, a duke, a senator, a government guide or some other gentleman of high degree.

Lawrence & Sons have for sale stoves of every description, and will warrant to suit purchasers in both size and price. They have also full line of general hardware.

There is a great need of more masons and bricklayers in Livingston at present. Several brick buildings that should be carried forward rapidly as possible will be delayed unless more more workmen are obtained.

Go to Matthiessen's three stores for fresh fruit and vegetables of all kinds, confectionery and fancy groceries.

If the presence of clergymen has any beneficial effect, Livingston ought to be a pattern of goodness and virtue these days. Four denominations were represented here last evening by at least half a dozen ministers.

The best canned fruits and sauces at Mrs. Lyons' Star grocery.

S. Deutsch is in town on business connected with his work of preparing a complete and accurate map of Gallatin county. He is also drawing a map of the Gallatin valley, separate from that of the county, larger and on a more extended scale. As Mr. Deutsch bears the reputation of being a fine draughtsman, and is taking great care with these maps, they will be, when published, the best in the territory.

W. E. Ballou of the Chicago Tribune who has been in the Park keeping his paper posted on Presidential affairs, came down last night, his duties in that direction being about over.

The Opera House is running full blast these evenings to crowded houses. The managers are doing their utmost to please the public by running a strong company and a good bill, and their efforts are evidently appreciated. The show was never better or more fully attended than it was last night.

The Helena party, Messrs. Kennett Oakes, Sanders, Seligman and Nettleton who visited the National Park are home again and report having great sport not only in sightseeing but in killing game and catching fish. One of them took nearly a thousand pounds of elk to Helena.

The best groceries in town, at Mrs. Lyons', Clark street.

Such of our citizens as wish to attend the fair at Helena next week will be pleased to learn that railroad tickets good for the round-trip may be purchased for $11.40. They will be placed on sale Sept. 3d and will be good to return until Sept. 9th. Proportionate reductions are made from other stations.

The National Park cigar is for sale at the GHT Edge.

An unauthenticated report has reached us that extraordinarily rich mineral discoveries have been made within a few days in the Clark's Fork district, and that great excitement prevails in Cooke City and throughout the mines. The story also goes that the report reached Gardiner yesterday and created an immediate stampede for the mining district.

N. C. Matthiessen has just received a heavy consignment of California grapes, pears, lemons, oranges, apples, celery, tomatoes, cucumbers, fresh eggs, and California honey in the comb.

A special car off the Louisville & Nashville railroad came in from the east yesterday. Its occupants were D. W. C. Rowland, general superintendent of transportation of the L. & N.; Mrs. Rice, of Louisville, and Master Bennie Groat, son of P. B. Groat, immigration agent for the N. P. The party were undecided whether to go on to the Pacific coast at present or first visit the National Park.

Lime and hair always on hand at the Montana Lumber Company.

Dan Parker who is now in the Park searching for the bodies of his nephew Thos. Parker and that of John Fugarty, sent a note to Judge Budlong which reached him yesterday stating that at Yankee Jim's tollgate, Bauers and Fisher on their way to Livingston told the story that the two young men were drowned while bathing. This is a very different story from that told here in court but too much faith should not be placed in the note as reports from Yankee Jim's country-seat are usually taken cum grano salis.

Montana Lumber Company is still booming.

Two young men built a boat and started yesterday afternoon for Bismarck by the all-water route. Everything went prosperously for the first half-mile of the voyage, until the boat struck a snag in a very swift current, and the bold navigators found themselves in the water with their vessel rolling down stream. They got ashore safely, but the boat was lost and will probably be taken as a lawful prize by Catfish Sandy or some other wrecker down about Billings.

The best butter in the town at Donovan's.

On Thursday a trout fisherman discovered the dead body of a man floating, face upward, down the river about twelve miles above Livingston. It was that of a young man well dressed in a dark coat and vest, striped worsted pants and neat leather boots. The discoverer of the body made an effort to reach it and almost did so as it swept over a shallow rapid, but before he could grasp his ghastly prize it had been carried into deeper water and beyond his reach.

Mrs. J. J. McLaughlin kindly asks her lady friends of Livingston to call at her residence on the afternoon of Monday next, at 3 o'clock, to assist her in making arrangements for the fitting decoration of the passenger depot in honor of the Villard party who will stop here September 6th, and also in celebration of that grand event, the "opening of the Northern Pacific railroad." The ENTERPRISE joins with many citizens in the town in the hope that Mrs. McLaughlin's invitation will meet with a general response, and that the ladies of Livingston will take the lead in preparing for the observance of the occasion mentioned.

Next Thursday afternoon, beginning about 1 o'clock, the whole Crow nation will be assembled at Greycliff to execute a war dance for the pleasure of the Villard excursion party. The Indians are already beginning to travel leisurely toward the appointed spot. It will doubtless be a greater event among them than will ever occur among them again. As a savage war dance, even if executed for amusement's sake, may never be executed again in the peaceful valley of the Yellowstone, some of the population of Livingston may feel anxious to embrace the opportunity to see it, and we will remind them that under the new railway arrangements, in effect next week, they will be able to take the train down to Greycliff in the morning, see the dance and the Villard party at the same time, and reach home again in the evening. It will be worth seeing, or Henry Villard would not have made arrangements for its production.

THE first quarrel: Philip Fogy, Jr. (who has refused, after prolonged discussion, to get gaudy raiment and take his wife to the Derbruno's fancy ball), morosely—"I wish I had married a sensible woman." His recently-acquired sponse (to whom the said ball is for the moment much more attractive than heaven), vindictively—"She wouldn't have had you."
