PARK STREET : DRUGGISTS.

In Memoriam.

Died at the cabin of his parents on Pine creek, Bear Gulch, Montana, on the morning of Dec. 17th, at the age of 2 years 3 months and 27 days, Charles Murphy Carson, eldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Carson. The deceased died from injuries received on Saturday, Dec. 15th, by a pot of scalding water being upset upon him. His parents are heart-broken, and his death has made their home and hearts very desolate. There is no sunlight and joy in the Pine creek cabin now. He was so affectionate, so kind, so loving, so considerate in his artless infant manner of the sorrows and troubles of others that he instinctively won the hearts of all who knew him. He bore his frightful sufferings so manfully and nobly, and a few minutes before death, as if struggling in death to give a last fond token of his affection to his weeping and sorrowing parents, he pressed out his little lips to papa and mamma to give the last of many fond kisses on earth. He loved to call the pine boughs loaded with snow "winter flowers," and on Monday when the myriads of trees on Pine creek were decorated by the falling snow with one vast infinitude of these white flowers his little body was carried by loving hands to its resting place on Pine creek in Bear Gulch.

Farewell dear little angel of thy parents' home and lives, and altho' we shall mourn thee long and miss thy winning smile, thy loving kiss, sweet words and stammered phrases sweet, the patter of thy little feet, yet we fondly look forward to that day when we shall meet and claim thee again.
By His Parents.

Terrible Affray at G. H. Carver & Co.'s Store.

At about five o'clock last evening, as one of the boys was lighting the lamps in the establishment in question, young Spot Cash entered by the front door, and began a terrific assault on old Uncle Credit System, who was sitting quietly behind the stove, sucking cider through a straw and ruminating over the many failures he had caused and bright prospects he had blasted during the past year. The old sucker would now and then glance around at the large stock, musing as to how long it would last and how many times it could be replenished under his rule, and as he looked up to make a final estimate, he saw young S. Cash making for him, with blood in his off eye, and a let-me-climb-his-frame-glare in his near one. Uncle Credit dodged, but he wasn't previous enough, for Spot C. lit into him quicker than an old lead mule could snap an oat sack. The old System is well advanced in years, but hard to handle nevertheless, and it was not until young Cash had kicked him through under the stove, jammed his head into a show case and squirted both his eyes full of tobacco juice, that old Credit began to weaken, and Spot, with a final effort, dragged him to the back door and left boot prints on the seat of his jeans, invited him out. Then walking back through the store, Spot Cash announced to the men, as they crawled out from behind barrels, counters and other elevated positions they had invited themselves to accept while the blizzard was in progress: Gentlemen, I have jumped this claim and taken possession of this shack, and Credit System is fired for keeps, and on and after January 1st, 1884, goods must and shall be sold only in my name, and I guarantee that both customers and proprietors shall derive more real benefit under my rule than could possibly be attained under that of the retired C. System, Esq. I extend to the public a general invitation to call and see me and be convinced that I can save them money, either on large or large purchases."

Larry Welch, of Marysville, received $3,000 from Thomas Cruse in payment for a mine. In one week from that time Welch was minus his money, but had had lots of fun. He scattered his gold like a prince and allowed others to rob him of it.

A Butte man named McDonald complains that he was beaten and robbed by three men. Later in the night McDonald became involved in a dispute with outside parties regarding the alleged robbery and tried to shoot one of them. He too now languishes in jail.

CINNABAR!

GALLATIN COUNTY, M. T.,

Is Situated at the Terminus of the National Park Branch of the N. P. R.R. seven miles north of the Mammoth Hot Springs, one mile from the National Park line on the west bank of the Yellowstone River. A Warrant-tee Title has been obtained in favor of the Northern Pacific Railroad and other Capitalists, who will spare no pains in opening it to Speedy Settlement. On and after December 15th books will be open to those wishing to obtain Title to Lots. No one wishing to invest in Town Property can afford to loose the present opportunity, owing to the liberal policy of the Company relative to Price and Terms of Payment.

The Surrounding Country abounds in COAL equal to the Bituminous Coal of Pennsylvania, making this an excellent point for Smelting Works, for the Bear Gulch and Clark's Fork Mines, where smelting ore is inexhaustible. East of CINNABAR is a vast Grazing country, affording excellent facilities for Stock Raising. The Lands lying north and south along the Yellowstone Valley are exceedingly fertile, mountain streams affording ample water for all irrigating purposes, making it a desirable country for those wishing to engage in Agricultural Pursuits.
