

ROBERTS CONFESSES ALL Owns Up to Having Stolen Ochiltree's and Lydie's Diamonds.

WOMAN CAUSED HIS ARREST He Had Become Infatuated With a Young Lady From Boston Who at Willard's and Followed Her, She Notified the Police, Who at Once Recognized Him.

Charles J. Roberts, the young hotel clerk, who was arrested in Boston several days ago, upon suspicion of having stolen a large quantity of jewelry belonging to Col. Tom Ochiltree and Mr. Philip M. Lydie, in this city, about two weeks ago, was yesterday brought back to Washington, in charge of United States Marshal Watts. He admits having stolen the gems from Col. Ochiltree's rooms, at Chamberlain's, and also the $100 diamond horseshoe pin and railroad ticket to New York, from Mr. Lydie's rooms at the Shoreham, and is locked up in the First precinct station.

Roberts is a handsome young man, about twenty-three years of age, and possessed of very presentable manners. He originally came from New York, and claims to be an actor by profession, and to have been engaged at divers times with several leading companies. How he came to be engaged as valet by Col. Ochiltree and Mr. Lydie, and his thefts from them, has already been told in The Times.

Had it not been for the fact that Roberts became deeply infatuated with a young lady who was a guest at Willard's during the time that he was a clerk there he possibly might have evaded arrest for some time at least. During his stay here Roberts met another woman from Cincinnati, with whom he lived as his wife in a house on Sixth street, Shelton town, however, about two days before the robbery, and it is not supposed that she was implicated in the affair.

Roberts' infatuation for the Eastern lady led him to follow her to this city. He made his way as far as New York on the ticket he had stolen from Mr. Lydie, and then pawned the diamond horseshoe pin with a partner in the Central Hotel, New York, for $25, which he used to continue his way to Boston. There he learned the address of the young lady and made several futile attempts to meet her. After writing her several notes and calling at her home without being successful in seeing her, she complained to the police, and when taken to custody he was at once recognized as the man wanted in Washington for the robbery stated. United States Marshal Roberts refuses to give the name of the Boston young lady, but she is understood to be a well-known society woman of the city.

Yesterday morning after Roberts' arrival he was taken to Marshal Wilson's office and from there taken by Detective Sutton to the First precinct station and locked up. He readily made a complete confession of the whole affair to Detective Sutton, and told the officer where he had disposed of the diamonds and other jewels. The most of them he said he had pawned in New York and Hartford, with the exception of a few minor articles which he still had in his possession. Detective Sutton believes that he is able to recover nearly all of the stolen property.

Roberts told the detective an interesting story of his experience in getting away after the thefts. He said that he had gone to Baltimore and remained a short time, but fearing that the night he would be attempted to leave that city by train, he walked out into the country some distance, and being weary lay down in an open building in a park some miles from Baltimore. There he was attacked by two men who shot him and fled at once, and in running to escape them he lost Col. Ochiltree's valued knife and a pocketbook containing several trinkets. He afterward learned that the place was the hunting grounds of a Baltimore club, and the watchmen had taken him for a tramp and fired at him to frighten him away.

YOUNG HOWE'S CONDITION. Everything Possible Will Be Done to Save His Leg.

Frank J. Howe, Jr., the young man who was seriously injured in a collision on his bicycle collision on Pennsylvania avenue Friday night, is reported as doing fairly well at the Emergency Hospital, though his condition is still somewhat serious. Dr. Lawrence stated last night that everything possible was being done to save the young man's leg, and if the bones, which sustained a serious compound fracture, will knit together it will not be necessary to amputate the limb. That member is now encased in a strong plaster of paris cast, and it will be several days before the position will be known. The broken fingers and arm are firmly held in splints and doing nicely. In addition to the broken bones and the cuts and bruises which Mr. Howe sustained, the shock was severe, as he had but recently recovered from a less serious bicycle accident. Yesterday afternoon he was able to be propped up in bed and talked for a short time to his friends. He was resting quietly last night, and had been relieved of much pain.

A BROKER SWINDLED. Another Victim of Miss Doland Comes to Light.

Another offense was charged yesterday afternoon at police headquarters against Miss Patricia M. Doland, the clever young woman swindler, who for several weeks past has been duping a number of prominent Washington Messrs, by representing herself as an agent for a book called "The Story of Cuba," and collecting payment without delivering the book.

Last Monday the young woman entered Mr. Mott's brokerage office, under the Metropolitan Hotel, and inquired the price of a ticket to Pittsburg. Mr. Mott told her that he could secure her transportation to Pittsburg for $6.50, the regular fare being something over $8, but that it would be necessary to procure a 1,000-mile ticket which would cost $20, and that upon arriving at her destination she could receive a rebate of $13.50 at a ticket broker's. She said she would be unable to do, as she did not have the $20 to pay for the entire ticket. The matter was arranged, however, by Mr. Mott going out and purchasing a 1,000-mile ticket, and accepting merely $6.50, the price of the fare to Pittsburg, on condition that immediately upon her arrival there, she turn the balance over to his correspondent in that city. This she agreed to do, and as evidence of her good faith exhibited a handsome Masonic badge, and told the ticket broker the same story that she so successfully related to her other victims, that is, that her father was a prominent thirty-third degree Mason in Dallas, and she was endeavoring to raise a $5,000 mortgage upon his plantation. She left on the train for Pittsburg that night. Mr. Mott wrote to his correspondent to receipt for the ticket, but as it was not presented, after waiting a day or two, he investigated the matter and found that the ticket which Miss Doland had signed had been sold for cash to another broker.

Mr. Mott reported the matter to the local police last night, but learned that he could enter no charge against the young woman, as the offense was simply a breach of trust, and could not be prosecuted. The book contained over 700 miles, and was worth on its face in the neighborhood of $13.

GRIDLER TO BE PROMOTED Chief of the Diplomatic Bureau for Assistant Secretary.

Friends of the Candidate Believe His Chances Are Good—Changes in the Bureaus.

It seems to be pretty well assured that Mr. Thomas W. Gridler, present chief of the diplomatic bureau, will be made Third Assistant Secretary of State. Mr. Gridler's supporters are influential and helpful. They say he is the best equipped man to be found for the place, and that his promotion would conform to the spirit of civil service.

Should he be promoted it is more than likely the present chief clerk of the bureau will be in turn promoted to be chief, and some one next in line will be made chief clerk.

There are two positions not under civil service rules which are to be filled soon, in the Naval Academy. It is understood that an examination will be required for each, but not such as is prescribed by the Civil Service Commission. The office is known as professor of mathematics, but the appointees are often assigned to other duties, sometimes in the department at Washington.

The applicants for Treasury offices, as bulletined yesterday, were not numerous. The names of the aspirants are as follows: H. B. Buckner, of New York, R. I., for Auditor for the War Department; J. D. Alston, of Carrier's Mills, Ill., for Auditor for the Navy Department; G. W. Perkins, of Gardner, Mo., for deputy auditor for the Treasury Department.

For assayer in the mint at San Francisco, H. P. Davis, of San Leandro, Cal. For collector of customs at Sitka, Alaska, J. B. Gamble, of Princeton, Ind. For appraiser of merchandise at Portland, Oreg., S. F. Pearson, of Portland.

For collector of internal revenue at New York, W. H. Baker, of New York. Several others were issued yesterday for changes in assignments of officers as follows: Surg. C. U. Gravatt, directed to appear before the examining board in this city on April 5, for examination for promotion; Civil Engineer T. G. Hester, detached from Mare Island and sent to League Island navy yard, May 6, and Civil Engineer R. K. Peary is transferred from the New York navy yard to Mare Island, Civil Engineer C. S. Wilcott is detached from League Island navy yard and transferred to the navy yard at New York.

Sims was also absent from the city, going, on Friday, to Florida to look after his orange groves.

HIGH BONUS FOR HER BUILDERS. The Wilmington's Trial Trip a Great Success.

New London, Conn., March 27.—The gunboat Wilmington's trial trip to the Government course on Long Island Sound, made a speed a trifle over fifteen knots an hour. Her requirements were thirteen knots, and the ship thus earns a bonus of $40,000 for the builders, the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company. The conditions of the trial were favorable, and it is possible that the official computations may make the speed 15.25 knots, or a bonus of $45,000.

The Wilmington is designed especially for river service. She is 250 feet 8 3/4 inches long on the waterline, and 251 feet on the deck, with a maximum beam of 40 feet. She will have a large military mast with two masts. There will be a conning tower on the mast just below the waterline, thus enabling her captain at a height of 45 feet above the water line to direct the waterline. Her berthing capacity is sufficient for many additional men besides her crew.

A Fatal Boiler Explosion. Chatham, Ontario, March 27.—A threshing engine boiler exploded on a farm near here today, killing Engineer James McGavin and fatally injuring John Moustou, his assistant.

A HIGHER FEE WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED, $5 a Month Covers Cost of Treatment and Medicines.

It is a common practice with a certain class of doctors to keep a constant billing along in order that the fees shall be piled up on the shoulders of the unfortunate patient. This is not true of

Dr. YOUNG AMERICA'S MOST EMINENT Specialist in Chronic and Special Diseases.

His system of telling the patient in advance that the fee will be but $5 a month for his professional services, and that the fee will be added for all medicines required to cure a cure, is but just and equitable. Dr. Young's new scientific methods are now recognized by medical men the world over for their efficiency. Dr. Young is beyond all doubt

RIVAL TEAMS PRACTICE The "McGuire's" and "Farrell's" Have a Preliminary Game.

Manager Schmelz was the umpire, but did not finish his job After the First Inning.

The teams that will decide the championship of the local league club tomorrow afternoon lined up for a preliminary try-out at National Park yesterday morning. Manager Schmelz essayed the umpire's position, and he had his troubles. Gus and after the first inning that if "Doc" Nick" Young were to force him to accept a position on his staff he would insist on a clause in the contract that would allow him to carry a Winchester, a dirk, and a bundle of dynamite for protection against protesting players.

"I am somewhat of a free-trader in some things," said Gus, "but I'll be blanked if I don't believe in 'protection' against a lot of ball players who call you all the names in the dictionary, and many not in the book, if you happen to run away from their noxious whiffs, they demand a pickpocket and the nerve to order one out of the field. They said I was decent, 'green goods,' a Babe and things unmentionable. If I could have fined them I would have made it cost them a million dollars a minute. And I would have collected the money, too, out of their backs."

Such is the rivalry between the two teams that in practice they dared to rip the manager-up the back and annihilate him by his decisions pro or con. The men continued round the practice yesterday, team playing the only department from the work inaugurated last Monday.

For tomorrow's game the players will line up in the following positions and batting order: "Farrell's"—"McGuire's".

Left fielder, J. M. McCreary, $300. Right fielder, J. M. McCreary, $300. First base, J. M. McCreary, $300. Second base, J. M. McCreary, $300. Third base, J. M. McCreary, $300. Shortstop, J. M. McCreary, $300. Pitcher, J. M. McCreary, $300.

Fisher Pounded Doyle. New York, March 27.—Harry Fisher, of Brooklyn, gave one Doyle, of Chicago, a terrible beating in their twenty-round bout at the Polo Athletic Club tonight. Doyle stood an awful grueling, but had to succumb to Fisher's fierce onslaught in the seventeenth round. In that round Fisher pounded him all around the ring, and he was so clearly a beaten man that the referee mercifully stopped the contest, and awarded it to Fisher.

O'Brien Gave the Decision. New York, March 27.—The attraction at the Broadway Athletic Club this evening was a twenty-round bout at catch weights between Dick O'Brien, of Boston, and Paddy Partell, of Kansas City. The referee stopped the bout at the end of two minutes and thirty-seven seconds in the seventh round, and gave the decision to O'Brien.

Decision for the Negative in the Georgetown University Debate. The debating society at Georgetown University Law Department, last night, at No. 206 E street northwest, gave their second public debate before a large and interested audience.

The question debated was "Resolved, That foreign immigration should be free and unrestricted." It was defended by Messrs. Martin T. Conroy, New York, '98; Lemuel B. Via, Virginia, '98, and was argued negatively by Messrs. Charles M. Kelley, Maryland, '97, and Charles M. Doran, Virginia, '98.

The judges, Messrs. Timothy C. Carroll, O. W. Catchings, and George C. Metcalf, and gave their decision in favor of the negative, for the more logical and clearer manner in which that side handled the question.

Mr. Charles M. Kelley's argument was especially liked by the audience, and elicited much favorable comment, as did also the work of Mr. Conroy, of New York. The next public debate will occur Saturday, April 24.

Has the Wheel Come to Stay? You would think so if you go up Fourteenth street early any morning and see the crowds of ladies and gentlemen coming and going to and from the Fowler Riding Academy, 1111 and 1113 Fourteenth street. The enterprising firm no doubt have the most complete equipped Riding School in the city. Another feature of this firm's large business is the large number of high-grade wheels on the rental list. To ride a Fowler is really one of the greatest pleasures one can indulge. The attendants are polite, and the treatment accorded all assures the firm great success.

GEORGETOWN WON AGAIN Gallaudet Tallied a Run and Escaped a Shut-Out.

FAST TRIO OF PITCHERS In Walsh, Bach, and Clancy the Blue and Gray Are Strong on the Rubber—Davis' Double Play Unassisted—Gallaudets Were Out-classed by Their Opponents.

Georgetown, 34. Gallaudet, 1. As the score indicates, the game of baseball played on Georgetown Field yesterday afternoon by the Georgetown and Gallaudet Varsity teams was too one-sided to be even a half-way interesting, as the monotony of the even game was only relieved by the snappy all-around fielding and batting of Georgetown.

The Gallaudets took most woefully the great essential of the game, to make a successful effort on the field, and that is team work. It seemed to be a darning, hit and miss, and every man for himself, speaking now mostly of the infield. When the Georgetown hitters did put a ball within reach the basemen, or whoever got a chance at it, picked it up, and threw it some distance.

Capt. McCarthy's men seemed to revel in the weather, bareheaded though they were, and no hit seemed too hard for them to handle and no throw too swift. Their play was in striking contrast to that of the visitors, and was made more every opportunity offered to make as much out of the play as possible, although it was scarcely fast enough even for practice, and they played as hard at the end of the last as at the beginning of the first inning.

They were fast on the base lines, and during, too, and showed their hits with most needed and throw in some for good measure. Georgetown is to be congratulated upon the strength of its team this year, strong in every department, and in Walsh, Bach and Clancy it has a trio of pitchers the equal of which it would be hard to find.

In yesterday's game, each was given a chance to twirl and the seven innings were divided between them. Big George Mahoney, who has done much to help the pitchers get in shape, hunched around the pitcher's bench and directed their work. On account of the chilly weather the attendance was only fairly large and what there was of it, had little or no chance to enliven and only remained to see the result of the excellent groundwork laid out by Coach Joe Kelly.

There were two plays in the measure, worked the spectators up to applause and these were the double plays, assisted by Davis, of Gallaudet, and by Lamb to Dawson, of Georgetown. With a runner on first, the next batter lined a high one over first which landed near the driveway off right field, but Lamb, by a good sprint, got under it, and by a remarkable throw to Dawson at first completed the double before the runner realized what had happened. But the runner said nothing.

McCarthy played nearly a perfect fielding game, having only one error, while the visitors piled up nine yellow ones. While Georgetown piled up twenty-nine hits and scored only four runs, the pitcher's work was not so good. The pitcher's work was not so good. The pitcher's work was not so good.

THE COLUMBIAN'S LAST SMOKE. The Columbia Athletic Club gave its last smoker of the season last evening, and it was undoubtedly the most successful one ever given by the organization. The house was filled to the doors.

The feature of the evening was the breaking of the District indoor pole vaulting record by Fred Franck. He broke his own record of ten feet flat, clearing the bar at five feet one inch. This performance was received with vociferous applause, and it was apparent that Franck could have gone even higher if he had desired.

A novelty in the shape of collar and elbow wrestling followed, and Hooker secured two falls to Underwood's one. Prof. Crossly, Ross and Edwards then gave an extremely clever gymnastic specialty. Messrs. Bartlett and Moore gave a spirited exhibition of broadsword work, and then an interesting three-round sparring bout between Prof. Carter and Mr. Wall followed.

Springboard work and vaulting the horse was the next thing on the program, being participated in by Prof. Crossly, Ross, Edwards, Humphrey, Anthony and Cabrera. Another sparring bout between Ambrose and Jones was well received.

The wrestling bout between Jesse Lee and Mr. Schenck was exceedingly clever, neither man being able to secure a fall. Work on the parallel bars and trick barred jumping was cleverly executed. A wrestling bout between Heox and Markey was fully contested. Mackay winning by one fall.

Astrin and Bond indulged in a spirited wrestling bout, Astrin winning by two falls. A spirited three-round sparring contest between Messrs. Moore and Wimsatt concluded the program.
