

THE SHREWD BUYER

Is Economical in Obtaining the Most for His Money.

The Metzger Stock of Pianos is going fast at less than factory cost on easy payments.

Sale closes on May 28. Many may be disappointed.

One dollar saved is a dollar earned. $150 saved in the purchase of a piano is just that much money earned by you; you have it in your pocket, where it might have been in the other fellow's. Most people have to sell goods at a profit, for reasons which are obvious. In this sale of pianos we do not sell pianos at a profit, for the necessary alterations can be made in our warehouses, we have marked every instrument in the house at actual factory cost, and many more less than the cost to produce them at the factory, and as a result we sell at the cost, plus a little more than the usual amount charged for rent. We have a number of very high-priced and high-grade Cabinet Grand pianos, finished in all the light fancy woods, richly hand carved cases, that retail everywhere for $450 to $600; they will be on sale from now for $220, $245, $275 to $310.

$25 cash, $10 per month, buys them; will ship anywhere to reliable parties at these terms.

Beautiful brand new pianos, full size and scale, finished in Mahogany, English Oak and Walnut cases, for $127, $137, $147, $168 to $197.

$10 to $20 cash, $7 per month, buys them; will ship anywhere to reliable parties at these terms.

May 28 the last day; some have been disappointed already in getting certain styles, many may be in the future, and it will pay those interested to make an early call.

Store open evenings during sale.

A MODERN TRIUMPHATE

The Three Emperors in Control of the Eastern Situation.

Prince Constantine Asserts That the Turks Have Advanced Since the Armistice Was Signed.

London, May 21.—Not even yet, apparently, is the full measure of the last Greek disaster at Dedeagach been made known in Athens. The various accounts of the engagement received agree in declaring that the battle was the most sanguinary of the whole campaign. The first estimate calculated to the Times that 2,000 Greeks were killed was probably not exaggerated. It is necessary to add that fully 3,000 Turks were also killed. The reasons for the facts being concealed by the Greek government have already been indicated. It is hoped in Athens that the revolutionary spirit will now be kept down, but this danger will not be over for some days yet.

It is not expected that anything definite as to the terms of peace will be arranged before the expiration of the seven days' armistice, and it will probably be necessary to make one, if not several, extensions of time.

The Porte is now blowing hot and cold. The strength of Russian and German influence at Constantinople is the immediate cause of the fluctuation. Efforts are being made, and especially in Paris, to bring about the foreign controller of the Sultan is the czar, and not Emperor William, and the latter of the Russian Emperor to the Sultan, which secured the armistice, is quoted as proof of this. English diplomats are beginning to undervalue themselves, and to recognize that the three emperors are jointly in full control at Constantinople, so far as it is possible for any outside power to influence the Porte in its present arrogant mood.

Another consideration which has not even been begun, for the ambassadors at Constantinople telegraphed their governments for instructions only today. Speculation about the terms is, therefore, only guesswork.

FIRE UPON ADMIRALS.

French and English Naval Officers Attacked by Turks.

Paris, May 21.—A sensation was caused here today by the receipt of a dispatch from Cannes, Crete, stating that an attempt had been made, about three French naval officers.

Admiral Fottler, commanding the French squadron in Cretan waters, his flagship being the cruiser Chamer, went ashore at Cannes yesterday for the first time since his arrival there. He was accompanied by the two chief officers of the Chamer. When the trio landed they were fired upon five times by a number of Bushi Banzaks. Turkish irregular troops, but none of the three were hit.

An hour previous to the attack on Admiral Fottler, mention of which is made in a dispatch from Paris, Vice Admiral Harris, the commander of the British fleet, was subjected to a similar fusillade. Later Ottoman soldiers fired upon a British sailor.

Vice Admiral Harris subsequently sent an ultimatum to the insurgents demanding that they restore the officers of Lieut. Nelson, one of the British officers, who was robbed in the vicinity of Suda, on Wednesday. The British cruiser Cambrian has gone from Cannes to Suda Bay to enforce the ultimatum.

Both the Mussulmans and Christians are getting beyond control. The former threaten to prevent the Turkish soldiers from departing from the island. There is some brigandage among the insurgents.

VIOLATE THE ARMISTICE.

Prince Constantine Says That the Turks Have Advanced.

Athens, May 21.—Crown Prince Constantine has telegraphed to the government that sections of the Turkish army have advanced lately 800 yards beyond the positions they occupied at the conclusion of the armistice. Their movements have been toward the villages of Daisa and Topanalis, on the left, and Divri and Kephakivris, on the right.

The government has protested to the powers against this flagrant breach of the armistice.

The Turks have also pillaged a private estate near Suda, seizing the furniture and burning the dwellings. A number of women were violated. An Englishman, who commanded the Greek army that was operating the province of Epirus, is returning to this city, whither he has been recalled by the government. He arrived at Agrinum yesterday. A mob accompanied him to the town hall, shouting threats to kill him. An Englishman and a priest appealed to the crowd's sense of justice, and with great difficulty persuaded them to disperse.

McKINLEY'S PLANS FOR CUBA

Rumors of Another Message Defining His Position.

PATRIOTS TO BUY LIBERTY

The President May Forestall Congressional Action by Recommending the Purchase of Cuba by Cuba—Said to Have Prepared and Withheld a Message.

A message may be sent to Congress by the President at any time recommending the Cuban plan of the Administration looking to the purchase of the island by the United States, heretofore described fully in The Times. Everything that is said officially and semi-officially at the White House points directly to this Cuban scheme as the one which will be carried out by the Administration.

The most reliable information obtainable of the meeting of the Cabinet yesterday is that the independence of Cuba, to be purchased by the Cubans, was the theme of much of the Cuban discussion. The President is said to have canvassed very seriously also the desirability of an immediate message to Congress on the subject.

This message would reach Congress before the House is able to take action on the Morgan resolution, and would in this way forestall Congress. Mr. McKinley is said to be very strongly of the idea that it is the prerogative of the Executive to take the initiative in the matter.

The President, to carry out this plan, need not violate his desire to wait for word from Mr. Calhoun. This, if it is not already received, may be in his hands at any time.

There is a very well authenticated story at the White House that ten days ago the President wrote a budding message, intended for Congress, requesting immediate action on Cuba's behalf. This was after he received word of the worst of the advice from the United States consuls in Cuba, and during the week that The Times was publishing its news of the most terrible Spanish atrocities on the island, and editorially urging him to act.

The President was so enraged at the news that he at first decided not to wait for any further advice, collaboration or counsel.

The message was not sent because he did not want certain cabinet members of the Cabinet and certain Boston people and others having large property interests in the island advised delay, and told the commercial end of the story to him. It was then that he to the President was developed the scheme to which the Administration now seems wedded—the purchase of Cuba by Cuba.

It seems probable that Mr. McKinley personally believes in the integrity of the Cuban people. The forthcoming message, it is stated, will very much resemble the one that was not sent, except in the very essential feature that it puts a price on Cuban independence.

Aside from the Cabinet meeting yesterday the White House furnished no news of importance. The crowd of visitors was small and there was not that seeming of hurry apparent in those that they exhibited a month ago. A semi-official contribution of the story printed in The Times, that the President's health has been seriously impaired by his heavy work since his inauguration, was given out yesterday. It was said that the strain had been exacting its toll on him, and that he is very glad the greatest rush is over.

Senator Platt was an early caller yesterday. He introduced Mr. George E. Wilbur, Jr., of Brooklyn, as a candidate for consul at San Domingo.

Another consular applicant yesterday was Mr. Horsesy Patton, of Chicago, accompanied by Senator Culbren. He is well liked and wishes to go to Hong Kong or some other port consulate.

Senator Spooner was at the White House yesterday with Mrs. Davis and Senator and Mrs. Greer, of Milwaukee.

Other callers yesterday were ex-Representative Farquhar, Senator Carter and Montana friends, Senator Wilson, Senator Elkins and Judge Day.

Mr. John Vinton Dalgren, of New York, is steadily improving for a South American mission.

DROWNED IN THE RIVER.

Seven-Year-Old George Kidwell Fell From the Sea Wall.

George Kidwell, the seven-year-old son of John E. Kidwell, the engineer at the Cato Falls, living at No. 1257 Union street southwest, fell off the wharf at the foot of Sixth street about 12 o'clock yesterday, and was drowned.

The little fellow was playing with some other boys on the seawall, and went too near the edge, lost his balance, and fell overboard.

His head caught between two piles, which prevented the body from rising, and it was not recovered until about 6 o'clock. When the lifeless body was found, and recovered by William Jones and S. Levy. The remains were taken to the home of the boy's parents and the coroner notified.

NEWS FROM ALEXANDRIA

The Arrangements for Celebrating Confederate Memorial Day.

A Negro Shook by Lightning. Corbett's Will—A Pottery Company Chartered.

Alexandria, Va., May 21.—About 3 o'clock this afternoon this city was visited by a severe hailstorm, which was accompanied by thunder and vivid flashes of lightning. A stroke of lightning ran on the electric wire into the office of the Mercantile Building Association, on Fairfax street, and an old colored man, who had sought shelter in the office, was prostrated from the shock.

Preparations for the celebration of Confederate Memorial Day, on Monday, have been completed. The organizations named will appear in the parade in the following order: Police, Friendship Drum Corps, R. E. Lee Camp, C. V., G. William Ramsey, commander; M. D. Corse Camp, S. C., J. Aubrey Bowie, commander. Third Regiment, Drum Corps, Alexandria Light Infantry, Capt. Albert Byrum, Alexandria Light Infantry Junior, Paul Fisher, Uniformed Rank Knights of Pythias, Capt. E. R. Boyer, Children of the Confederacy, Miss Kate Usher, president, Friendship Fire Company, M. H. Harlow, president, Columbus Fire Company, Noble Smith, commander.

Col. William A. Snoot, chief marshal, will have as aides Major R. W. Hunter, Dr. W. M. Smith, E. C. Graham, L. M. Barkley, and George Usher.

After marching through the principal streets, the commands will assemble around the Confederate Monument, on Washington street, where the memorial exercises will be opened with an anthem by the choir, "Gloria in Excelsis." After a hymn by the choir, prayer will be offered by Rev. J. T. Williams, pastor, Messrs. S. F. Field, T. H. Netherland, B. K. Field, and J. F. Rodgers, music by Friendship Drum Corps, oration by Rev. John McGill, of Falls Church, music by Third Regiment, Drum Corps, singing of flowers.

The law will then return, and march to Christ Church, and, surrounding the mound, the children will sing "Nearer, My God, to Thee," followed by the quartet reading "Abide With Me." After music by the Friendship Drum Corps, the mound will be strewn with flowers, and a volley will be fired by the Light Infantry. The exercises will be concluded with " taps."

The terms of the will of the late F. E. Corbett were made known today. The executors named are Messrs. A. W. Armstrong, F. W. Larkner and W. C. Wilcox. MARLOWE AS "ROMOLA."

Barron's Play is an Exquisite Bit of Poetic Literature.

Julia Marlowe places the public under especial obligation to her by the production of such plays as "Romola," given last night at the National. Particularly does she obligate that discriminating class of intelligent playgoers whose genuine honesty of purpose and an elevated taste in the selection and presentation of standard and classic plays.

"Romola" is a dramatization of George Eliot's novel of that name by Elwyn Barron. It is a lofty and exalted play, and thought possesses all the poetic and classic beauty which those who know the seductive attainments of the writer had reason to expect. It does not disclose the dramatic vigor and ripeness which the judicious critic has so often contended is absent in other plays. But it is worth while. From curtain to curtain is a mosaic of classic English, and at distant intervals there are situations which raise the audience almost solemnly in the excitement of the dramatic moment.

The play is rather a "Trio" than a "Duo," for not only is the dual character of the Greek made the basis of the story, but Mr. Barron, in the character, is the central figure of every scene and basis solemnly in the excitement of the dramatic moment.

Though beautiful and enjoyable, Miss Marlowe is for the most part in the shadow; she is given "a quite perfect comfort" in an epilogue which is quite superfluous, so far as the story goes, or any help it gives the drama. But the audience was thankful for it, for it is a pleasant surprise, and a welcome one.

The production is a dramatic and pictorial expression in an artistic success of marked merit. Besides the stars, a piece of acting deserving the highest praise of the most conservative was the performance of Mr. G. W. Anson as Baldassar.

F. Carter is named as attorney in this city, where the principal office is located.

A horse belonging to Mr. George Kaas was so badly injured by some unknown person last night, that the animal had to be killed today. The injuries were inflicted while the horse was in the stable.

Buckler Stock Company Deserted by Their Manager.

BUNCO GAME TWICE PLAYED

No Performance at the Grand Last Night Owing to the Manager's Disappearance—Players Stranded Without Funds—A Benefit Performance Arranged.

For a second time Mr. George Buckler has brought to Washington a large company of actors and has left them in the lurch, without a penny, after keeping them here two or three weeks with false pretenses and promises.

Last night the Grand Opera House was dark. The performance of the Buckler Stock Company at that theater did not take place. The immediate cause of the closing of the house was the strike of the stage hands and orchestra, who would not work without their pay in advance. Before that and after that there is a long story of alleged misrepresentation and false pretenses by Mr. Buckler, both in Washington and many other cities, extending back over at least two years.

The history of this venture of Mr. Buckler's, in brief, is as follows: A month ago he advertised in the New York dramatic papers for first-class people for a stock company to come to Washington in the Mirror was as follows:

"WANTED—For Grand Opera House Stock Company of Washington, well-known people in all lines of business for summer stock season. None but recognized artists need apply. Address, naming companies you have been associated with, George Buckler, Manager and Proprietor. First-class wardrobe indispensable."

About twenty men and women were engaged by him.

They all paid their expenses, borrowed money from their friends in many cases for railway fares, and reaching the city with nothing. The rehearsal began on the 10th of May. Mr. Buckler engaged posters and had printing and other work of various kinds done, most, if not all, of which was unpaid for. No record of any money spent by him on the venture during the last two weeks, except for the orchestra and stage hands, can be found.

Last Monday night the company opened. The audience was a fairly large one, though it is thought that a great many passes were issued, and that the amount received may not have been large.

Last night Mr. Buckler's venture was at an end. He had no money, and the orchestra and stage people refused to go ahead with their work on his promise. The whole company was gathered at the door of the theater at 7:30, and finding the lights not lit, suspected what had happened. They found Mr. Buckler seated at his desk waiting for them. He simply told them that he had no money and had nothing to say.

He went back into the theater, disappearing by the stage door, and has not been seen since.

Mr. Buckler has earned for himself a reputation for games of this nature on theatrical people, in Washington and elsewhere. The Buckler Stock Company of last summer was organized and carried forward for ten days in a manner exactly like this, the only difference being that at that time he had a few dollars and paid some of the actors part of their salaries.

All during last winter this gentleman is said to have been making his rounds through the South. In Atlanta, in Louisville and Petersburg he advertised for people to form stock companies, and secured actors from all over the country, who spent their money for railway fares and other expenses, and then he disappeared with their salaries unpaid and their bills.

CHANGED HER MIND

Then Changed Her Body.

"Some people fail to arrive at correct conclusions because they are too hasty, and I have to watch myself on that very point," said a lady. "I said to a friend the other day that I didn't fancy the grain coffee, Postum, although nearly all my friends use it. We tried it once but it didn't taste as good as I had been told it would, so we didn't serve it any more."

"My friend asked pleasantly, whether we ever had trouble with our coffee or tea and was told that now and then the coffee was 'sloppy' or burned and occasionally the tea was unfit to drink, but then you know, I said, we know coffee and tea can be made good, so it is some failure with the coffee if they come to the table unit. 'Ah, there's the point,' my friend exclaimed. 'Now we have been using Postum steadily for about a year and we know its magnificent qualities as a nourishing beverage, but mind you, I have seen it served at my table once or twice almost unfit to drink, and we got one package last summer that was overcooked at the factory and was not good, but which the grocer replaced; these incidents do not change the fact that Postum is a delicious, healthy and nourishing beverage, as proven day after day in our family.'

"You should not hastily condemn a new thing upon one imperfect trial as you deprive yourself of benefits which a fair test would make yours." These comments made an impression, and acting on her advice I bought up the package of Postum, brewed some myself for breakfast the next morning, and it really was as delicious to my taste as a high grade coffee. Noticed, that morning, that the heavy, disagreeable feeling (usual after breakfast with coffee) was absent. This set me thinking and wondering if it was true, after all, that coffee did slightly poison my liver and stomach and make me feel so. I concluded to quit coffee and tea a while, anyhow, and try Postum, and am glad to say that for that, or some other reason, I never felt better in my life than I have since the change."

"Just as good" as Postum Cereal are words used to defraud the public.

Mr. Richard Burmeister gave a pupils' recital at the Grand Opera House, and they played them with marked skill. The recital was entirely creditable to Mr. Burmeister and was a happy introduction of his teaching results to Washington.

Marched Ordered From Honduras. The Marched ordered from Honduras to Puerto Corcuera, Honduras, by the Navy Department. This set me thinking and wondering if it was true, after all, that coffee did slightly poison my liver and stomach and make me feel so. I concluded to quit coffee and tea a while, anyhow, and try Postum, and am glad to say that for that, or some other reason, I never felt better in my life than I have since the change."
