

RIGHTEOUS CAUSE OF CUBA

Seeming Conflicts Between International and Moral Laws.

DR. KENT'S PATRIOTIC VIEW

Difficult to Reconcile the Fact That a People Have the Right of Rebellion With Laws Making It a Crime to Aid the Oppressed in Their Struggle for Freedom.

Rev. Alex. Kent, of the People's Church, spoke yesterday morning on "International Law and Moral Law," with special reference to their bearings on the duty of this country toward Spain and Cuba.

He thought it generally conceded by all but Spaniards that the present revolt in Cuba, and the determination of her people to have complete independence, have ample warrant in the wrongs and injustices which for nearly three-quarters of a century have been done to her under Spanish rule.

The cause of Cuba, then, he said, is as righteous as deserving of the sympathy and support of liberty-loving nations.

He thought it generally conceded by all but Spaniards that the present revolt in Cuba, and the determination of her people to have complete independence, have ample warrant in the wrongs and injustices which for nearly three-quarters of a century have been done to her under Spanish rule.

This, he affirmed, seemed to be admitted by all but Spanish writers.

Dr. McKim's Address to the Graduates of King's Seminary.

Rev. Dr. Randolph H. McKim, of the Episcopal Church, yesterday afternoon delivered the baccalaureate sermon to the graduates of King's Theological Seminary, Meridian Hill, at St. Luke's Church, colored, corner of Fifteenth and Madison streets northwest.

Rev. O. W. Walker, pastor of the church, introduced the service, and Rev. William V. Turner, warden of the seminary, read the prayer.

Dr. McKim, under the title of "Personal Experience the Source of Ministerial Power," made an earnest address to the young men upon the high duties and sacred nature of the calling into which they are about to enter.

He closed as he did last year, with the words: "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see you here."

Dr. McKim then went on to speak of the mission of the modern prophets, the ministers of the word, and the church needs today, in his conflict with infidelity and agnosticism.

He said that while it was right in the sight of the Lord, he had done a much for the power and prosperity of the nation.

He said that while it was right in the sight of the Lord, he had done a much for the power and prosperity of the nation.

He said that while it was right in the sight of the Lord, he had done a much for the power and prosperity of the nation.

NEARBY FORMER PASTOR

The President Attends Foundry Church.

CHRISTIAN WORK NEEDED

Baccalaureate Sermons by Well-Known Members of the Clergy. Bishop Hurst's Tribute to the English Language—Sermons From Many Pulpits.

President McKinley attended Foundry M. E. Church yesterday and listened to the sermon of Dr. John Lanahan, of Baltimore.

Dr. Lanahan was the pastor of Foundry when Mr. McKinley, then a member of Congress, attended that church. They became very good friends at that time, and the President took the occasion of his old pastor's visit yesterday to listen to another of his sermons.

Dr. Lanahan is eighty-four years old and has given up active service, but occasionally preaches at one of his old parishes. He is well remembered and much esteemed by many of the old members of the Foundry congregation, and his visit yesterday was received with much pleasure and became at the end of the service quite an ovation.

The President, on the other hand, was not expected at Foundry, and slipped in and took an inconspicuous pew, and at the close of the service departed again without being recognized, except by a few of the congregation.

Dr. Lanahan's text was from Proverbs: "Go not into the way of the wicked; turn from it and pass away." His sermon was on the enforcement of sin, the strength of temptation, and the need that there is to keep out of the way of sin.

The old friends of Dr. Lanahan congratulated him warmly on the strength and impressiveness of his sermon. It was said to be a fine reminder of his well-known work at Foundry in former years.

Dr. Lanahan did not meet his old pastor, Dr. McKim, who was at the close of the service. Later he called at the home of the pastor of Foundry, Dr. Clark, and joined the church, but Dr. Lanahan had left for his home in Baltimore.

Chief Webster advised the men that as the alleged offense had been committed in Fairfax county, they had better take their prisoner to the authorities of that county. The men started back to Fairfax with Crisman. While detained at police headquarters, the young man stated that he could prove his innocence if given an opportunity. He said his family lived at Falls Church, and that his father was engaged in the real estate business in Washington.

SUNDAY BEHIND BARS

Broker Chapman Attends Religious Services in the Prison.

TALKS WITH A TIMES MAN

Makes an Allusion to His "Fellow-Convicts"—Doesn't Want Unusual Privileges in Jail, but Would Like to Secure a Consulate for a Friend—Donates Roses.

Mr. Elverson B. Chapman spent his first Sunday of incarceration in jail in much the same manner as his week days, save that he attended the religious services which are conducted in the rotunda of the jail every Sunday, and he was an interested and appreciative listener to the concerted music of the colored singers during their service, from 12 to 1:15 p. m.

When a Times man called at the jail at 1 o'clock, Mr. Chapman was engaged with Gen. Curtis, of New York, but sent word that he would be pleased to talk with him in a few minutes. Upon the departure of Gen. Curtis The Times representative was cordially received, with a handshake in the main corridor. The prisoner was attired in a brown sack suit, wore a dark blue yachting cap, and appeared a little pale from want of his usual exercise.

"I am very busy," said Mr. Chapman, "trying to catch up with my correspondence and other business, but will be glad to talk with you for a few minutes before going upstairs."
