

HOUSE READY TO GO HOME

Resolution to Adjourn Today Adopted With Applause.

A RUSH FOR RECOGNITION

Members Anxious to Pass Pet Measures Before the Adjournment—More War Bills Passed—Private Legislation Put Through—The Speaker Absents Himself.

The House met without a Speaker yesterday. It was called to order by Clerk McDowell, who announced that the absent Speaker had designated Mr. Payne, of New York, to temporarily fill the chair.

Immediately after the reading of the Journal Mr. Tamm, of the Ways and Means Committee, was recognized, to submit a resolution for adjournment sine die.

It directed that the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House be authorized to attend their respective Houses at 2 p. m. today. It was granted with applause on both sides of the House.

The concurrent resolution was adopted with great unanimity. There were clamors for recognition from all parts of the floor by members anxious to get favorite measures through before the end of the session.

Gen. Grosvenor got through a bill to refund to the North German Lloyd Steamship Company about $500, collected as import duties on machinery necessary for the repairs of certain ships. The vessels met with accidents while en route to this country and machinery had to be imported from the ships of the company in Europe.

The duties were paid under protest and required an act of Congress to refund it. Chairman Hull, of the Military Committee, asked unanimous consent for the passage of a bill directing that the Treasury purchase on machinery necessary for the repairs of certain ships.

He said that at the end of a six months' service the clothing account of the soldier, averaging twenty-eight coats per day, must be paid. At the event of his death before that period his pay and allowances are held liable to pay for clothing drawn.

The bill was passed. About twenty private pension bills were taken from the Speaker's table and rushed through. A Senate appropriation of $200,000 to transport to their respective homes the bodies of soldiers who die in camp or are killed in battle outside the limits of the United States, was passed.

Mr. Hepburn, of Iowa, called up the Senate resolution extending the thanks of Congress and of the American people to Lieutenant Frank H. Newcomb, of the Hudson, and Captain Daniel B. Hodgson, of the McCulloch, and directing that medals be issued to them and to their crews.

Mr. Berry wanted to amend by adding his resolution of thanks to Commodore Schley for his great victory at Santiago. The amendment was not accepted, and in response to the query of the chair, "Is there objection to the consideration of the resolution?" Mr. Berry exclaimed, "I object, sir."

Mr. Berry made several attempts to get up his Schley resolution. He succeeded in getting it read at the clerk's desk, but it was ruled out.

Numerous bills of no general or public interest were passed by unanimous consent. Mr. Hill, of Connecticut, from the Banking and Currency Committee, called up the bill to charter the international bank.

Mr. Cox, of the committee, made the point of order that the bill had never been reported by the committee. He wanted to read the minutes of the committee to sustain his assertion, but the chair ruled that committee proceedings could not be revealed or discussed on the floor.

Mr. Bailey protested against the ruling, saying it would not be tolerated. The members of the committee, however, determined that his death was an accident. A recommendation was adopted that the railroad companies entering Washington be compelled to use what is known as the "safety gate" instead of the kind now operated.

Coroner Carr convened the jury at 3 o'clock at Lee's undertaking establishment. Dr. Larkin W. Glassbrook deposed that he had seen the child, and other witnesses told how the child had started across the track at Eleventh Street and Maryland Avenue and had been struck by a shifting engine coming down the track.

The boy's mother has given him 5 cents to purchase a flag for his sister. He came from the home to the track and was waving an American flag of his own. His home at No. 22 Eleventh Street is in view of the track, and his mother, who watched him from the window, was a witness to the horrible accident. She saw the little fellow rush under the lowered gates and just escape a passing freight train.

A moment later, however, a shifting engine caught the lad and passed over him. Then Mrs. Law fainting. One witness explained that the child's grandmother had started to pick him up, but was warned just in time to escape being run over herself. Later the remains were placed in a sheet and sent to the morgue.

The jury inquired closely of Engineer Warden and other railroad employes how the gate was operated and the distance from the lowered bars to the ground. Yesterday afternoon it was reported that Mrs. Law was in a serious condition, as a result of the shock caused by the accident.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH. Verdict of the Jury on the Death of Little Eugene Law.

A jury yesterday afternoon inquired into the killing of six-year-old Eugene Law by a railroad engine Wednesday and determined that his death was an accident. A recommendation was adopted that the railroad companies entering Washington be compelled to use what is known as the "safety gate" instead of the kind now operated.

Coroner Carr convened the jury at 3 o'clock at Lee's undertaking establishment. Dr. Larkin W. THE STOCK MARKET FIRM

The Advance in Vanderbilts an Effective Influence.

Dealings in Halfway Lane, Aside From These Stocks, an Moderate Scale.

New York, July 7.—All things considered, the advance in the group of stocks classified as Vanderbilts was the most effective influence in the firmness of the general market this morning. The movement in these stocks was rather sudden, and took place on a large volume of business, particularly in the New York Central.

There was no direct explanation of the revival of activity in these stocks, which had recently been very dull, but it is believed that the demand for them from the new system of operating these lines, together with the conversion of the Michigan Central and Lake Shore stocks into New York Central 3-1/2 per cent bonds will soon be shown more clearly, particularly in the earnings of the New York Central.

Along with the large dealings in New York Central there was increased activity in the Southern, Chesapeake and Ohio, and C. C. & St. Louis. Noteworthy movements took place in American Tobacco, the United States Rubber shares, etc. It was noted, however, but it is doubtful if they were of interest to more than a limited speculative following. Aside from Vanderbilt stocks, the dealings in railway stocks were upon a very moderate scale.

Foreign houses traded very lightly in this market, selling on balance a few thousand shares of stocks.

The stock market was a little more lively and important than during the last few weeks. There was some good buying and prices went up all over the board. The reason for the change of feeling is not apparent on the surface unless it is in the rumors of European pressure on Spain to sue for peace. These stories have a persistence this week that has not been present before.

The European press is almost unanimous in its suggestion that Spain has had enough and will come only one day nearer ruin every day that she holds out. This is so evidently the absolute truth that it seems possible that even blind Spain will see it. The domestic situation and not the war with America is now, however, apparently the most serious matter in Spain. And this domestic situation seems certain to result in the overthrow of the present ministry if not of the present dynasty.

THE WHEAT MARKET WEAK. Bullish News Plentiful, But Apparently Disregarded. Chicago, July 7.—Wheat was dull and weak. The Liverpool market failed to respond to our strength of yesterday. Snow was out in an estimate of a 700,000,000 bushel wheat crop, and there was considerable long wheat carried over night, which was trying to find a market.

The bullish news was plentiful, but was apparently disregarded. Duluth made a moderate sale for export, and Minneapolis made some very good flour sales.
