MR. DINGLEY'S VIEWS.

He Summs Up the Maine Election—Other Political Notes.

Mr. Dingley made the following statement yesterday with reference to the Maine election: "The nearly full returns of the vote in Maine for governor show that only 55,969 votes were cast, against 122,200 in 1894 and 137,600 in 1894, and that the Republicans have 25,000 plurality and 22,800 majority, against 30,000 plurality and 26,825 majority in 1894.

"The reduction of the plurality in larger proportion than that of the majority is due to the fact that nearly all the Populists who voted for a separate gubernatorial candidate in 1894 and 1895 this year went over to the Democrats, thus nearly maintaining the Democratic vote of 1894, when otherwise it would have fallen off 15 per cent.

"While the Republican plurality and majority this year has fallen from 25,000 in 1894 and 1895, when it was abnormally swelled and the Democratic vote exceptionally small, yet our plurality now is 79 per cent larger than it ever was except in the years 1894 and 1895.

"The small vote this year is due to the fact that it is an off year, when no one is assaulting the President, and many thought it unnecessary to duplicate votes in order to support him.

"So general was this feeling that no speaking campaign was indulged in, and the result is that the vote is light and the plurality, although unusually large for the year, appears reduced in comparison with the abnormal majorities of 1894 and 1895.

"The Republicans of Maine are earnest supporters of President McKinley and the Republican policy, which has proved such a success; and whenever either is assailed they roll up a vote and give majorities which will surpass even the exceptional results of 1894 and 1895.

"Indeed, so far as actual results are concerned, it would be impossible to surpass those of this year, inasmuch as we have elected a Republican governor and all four Republican representatives from 2,500 to 7,000 plurality each; county officers in every county; every State senator, and 133 out of the 151 members of the house of representatives, and this legislature will in January elect a Republican United States senator."

According to Chairman Babcock of the Republican Congressional Committee, who is returning from New England, the prospects for a Republican victory in the Fall elections are exceedingly bright. Mr. Babcock, with an eye single to the glory of his party, also reports that business is good throughout the East and that the credit is generally given to the beneficial effects of Republican legislation and the Dingley tariff bill.

"The business men whom Mr. Babcock interviewed declared that in case a free silver House of Representatives was elected they would curtail their business and look for a "crash."

The Fall campaign in New Jersey is beginning to show signs of vigorous activity. There are to be elected a governor, eight congressmen, seven members of the State Senate and a full house of assembly of sixty-seven members, aside from various county officers. The Democratic and Republican camps are both in a fever of activity. The Democrats have chosen their ticket, and would-be candidates in both parties are plentiful. Candidates for the gubernatorial nomination. Several names are prominent, including those of the late Governor Woodrow Wilson, who is expected to be a candidate, and also of Governor Woodrow Wilson, who is expected to be a candidate, and also of Governor Woodrow Wilson, who is expected to be a candidate.

THE BRIDGEPORT MYSTERY

Authorities Locate the Laundry Mark in the Case.

MANY IDENTIFY THE HEAD

Various Callers at the Morgue and Others Who Have Read the Descriptions Believe They Have Solved the Question—Capt. Arnold Has a Clew Which, It is Said, is a Likely One.

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 15.—The mark "G. S." on the clothing wrapped about a part of the woman found in the Yale Mill Pond was found this afternoon on the linen worn by Henry Gullford, the young sailing master of James H. Parish's steam yacht Ceres, and son of Dr. Nancy Alice Gullford, the woman physician who disappeared from Bridgeport a few hours after the finding of the body.

It was also found on the underclothing of Dr. Henry F. Gill, the woman's husband, in the prison at Weatherfield, where the New Haven physician is serving a sentence of three and one-half years on the charge of having attempted an abortion on a young country girl from Cheshire, in New Haven, last February.

Capt. Arnold, it is said, has found that a man, who, he believes, had a hand in the crime, hired a buggy from a livery stable on Sunday night and another from another livery stable on Monday night, and Capt. Arnold, so the report goes, is waiting until he gets a little more evidence before he asks for arrest.

That the criminals came from an eastern neighborhood town seems to be the idea of the police. They are working on New Haven clues. Nothing was heard today about Henry Burston, the young Bridgeport meat wagon driver who popped up in Mattawan, N. Y., yesterday afternoon with a young woman, who, it is believed, is innocent, despite the circumstantial evidence against him.

A Middleboro, Mass., man called at the morgue tonight and, he is said, identified the head of that of Marion Grace Perkins, who left Middleboro two weeks ago, supposedly with Charles Bowline. A week before that she went to visit her mother in Onset, Mass. A week later she left her friend to go home. She and Bowline took a train at Trenton.

The man who called at the morgue was excited. A peck-mark over the right eye of the head convinced him that it was that of the Perkins girl. Then he noticed that two teeth were missing, and that there was a small scar on the forehead. He said he would take his oath that the dead woman was Miss Perkins.

MRS. GULFORD IN NEW YORK. She Has Been in Wellburg, Near Elmira, Recently.

Elmira, N. Y., Sept. 15.—Mrs. Nancy Gullford, whose name has been mentioned in connection with the Bridgeport murder mystery, was in Wellburg, a village six miles from here, yesterday, and is said to have left that place. She is said to have been visiting her brother. Her daughter is there now.

The police here, but as the Bridgeport authorities stated that she is not wanted, they made no attempt to arrest her.

ANOTHER IDENTIFICATION. The Holyoke, Mass., Police Talk the Victim Was Miss Driscoll.

Holyoke, Mass., Sept. 15.—The police officials here are positive that the victim of the Bridgeport murder case was Miss Kate Driscoll, a domestic, twenty-three years old, who had been employed in Holyoke for a year past and who left for her former home in Bridgeport last Saturday.

Mrs. Driscoll was about to become a mother, and to her mistress she confided a week ago that a Thompsonville, Conn., young man was the author of her trouble.

MAY BE MRS. FRENCH. A Brockton Woman Believes She Has Solved the Mystery.

Brockton, Mass., Sept. 15.—Miss S. Ruge, of Avon, near this city, believes from the published descriptions and portrait that the young woman whose disappearance has been the subject of the mystery may be Mrs. French, formerly Miss Bancroft, a daughter of Aaron Bancroft, a banker in Brooklyn, N. Y. After her marriage she settled in Rochester, Mass., where Mrs. Ruge met her.

Mrs. Botkins's Lawyer Makes a Speech "In Sight for Her." San Francisco, Sept. 15.—From Gov. Budd's actions and questions in the Botkin extradition case today, it looks as though he would refuse to extradite the alleged prisoner to Delaware.

He thought the application for extradition should have been preceded by the complaint. In the application the past tense was used and the governor declared that to make it a legal complaint the present tense should have been used.

OBITUARY NOTES. Dr. Samuel Elliot. Beverly Farms, Mass., Sept. 15.—Dr. Samuel Elliot, the historical writer and educator, died on Monday at this place. He was born in Boston, on December 22, 1821; was graduated from Harvard in 1853 and was first professor of history and political science at Trinity College, and then president, from 1870 to 1874.

Mrs. Jane E. Leland. Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 15.—Mrs. Jane E. Leland, one of the oldest and best-known residents of Saratoga Springs, died at her home yesterday, after a long illness, aged about seventy years. She was the widow of the late Major William W. Leland, who at one time was proprietor of the Grand Union Hotel, Saratoga. Mrs. Leland is survived by a daughter, the widow of the late Judge Daniels, of Buffalo.

Richard L. Busted. New York, Sept. 15.—Richard L. Busted, who was prominent in political and legal circles at the close of the Civil War, died on Wednesday. Judge Busted, as he was called, was seventy years old. He had been a Methodist preacher, a United States district judge, a criminal lawyer, a soldier in the Civil War, a newspaper writer, a politician, and a stump speaker.

MR. PORTER DEFEATED.

State Senator Lounsbury Nominated by Connecticut Republicans. New Haven, Conn., Sept. 15.—John Addison Porter, secretary to President McKinley, was again defeated in the Republican State convention today by his chief rival, State Senator George E. Lounsbury. The convention was one of the bitterest ever held in the State. The machine, which is made up mostly of members of the State central committee, was denounced by the Porter speakers, and the other side sharply retorted.

The vote for governor went Lounsbury, 257; Porter, 120. James D. Dowell received 15 votes, and Gen. S. E. Morwin 1. The Porter vote was a surprise to the Porter supporters. Yesterday the Porter lieutenant, after looking over the field, gave out the opinion that he had votes enough to nominate, but it is evident that the other fellows out-generated them. Some politicians say that the bad feeling that was noticeable in the campaign and conversation will injure the party considerably at the polls.

THE OTHER MEN NOMINATED on the State ticket were Lyman A. Mills, of Middlefield, lieutenant governor; Huber Clarke, of Willimantic, secretary of State; C. S. Merckle, New Haven, treasurer; Thomson, Vernon, attorney general; Charles Phelps, Vernon, attorney general.

THE PERMANENT chairman of the convention was Congressman E. J. Hill, Lieut. Gov. James D. Duwell is defeated for the gubernatorial nomination and also for re-nomination as lieutenant governor. The candidate for treasurer is city treasurer of New Haven.

NOMINEE Lounsbury lives in Ridgefield, a shoe manufacturer in Norwalk. He was graduated from Yale in 1883 and from the Berkeley Divinity School at Middletown, three years later. He preached only two years. He was elected a senator in 1886 and 1887. He is a brother of ex-Gov. Phineas Lounsbury.

THE PLATFORM indorses the national and State political positions, asks that the settlement of questions as to our territorial acquisitions be left to the Administration. It declares for the single gold standard as a national policy.

OHIO DEMOCRATS NOMINATE HIM for Congress by Acclamation. Springfield, Ohio, Sept. 15.—The Seventh district Democratic convention nominated John L. Zimmerman, of this city, for Congress today by acclamation, after a fight had been made in Miami County. The vote of Miami was passed and other counties voted: Clark-Zimmerman, 64; Madison-Zimmerman, 27; Pickaway-Zimmerman, 27; Fayette-Davis, 2.

At this point, on motion of Senator Legg, Zimmerman was nominated by acclamation. Resolutions were adopted praising the soldiers and navy, denouncing the War Department for mismanagement of camps, and advocating the liberal pensioning of the soldiers of the past and present wars, and denouncing the creation of public offices for the payment of political debts.

COLORADO REPUBLICANS. They Name Senator Wolcott's Brother for Governor.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 15.—The Republican State convention was presided over by Senator E. O. Wolcott, and as a result of its deliberations, the Hon. Henry Wolcott, brother of the senator, was placed in nomination for governor. An attempt was made to secure the indorsement of Simon Guggenheim, the candidate of the Broad, or anti-Teller wing of the silver Republican party, but it failed. A straight ticket was put in the field.

In his speech upon taking the chair, Senator Wolcott paid particular attention to his political enemies. He declared that William McKinley has always been a bimetalist at heart and is now, and that the silver question is sure to be settled by some international agreement if the Republican party remains in power. The convention was the largest in several years, and the enthusiasm was marked.

Dr. Henry's Blood Tea is a guaranteed cure for malarial troubles which people have to contend with at this time of the year.

A TRIPLE TRAGEDY.

The Wages of Sin Were Death for These Gully Lovers. Louisville, Ky., Sept. 15.—Guiltily love caused a triple tragedy in the Enterprise Hotel here at 7 o'clock this morning.

Joseph Villiers and Nellie McCuffin, both of this city, and the man's eighteen-month-old baby were found dead in a room in the hotel. The man and woman were both shot in the right temple, and the baby had also taken poison. The three came to the hotel at 8 o'clock last night, and were assigned to the room. At 7 o'clock this morning three shots were heard. No one was able to locate where they came from.

An hour later a porter was sent to call the three for breakfast. The door was locked and he could get no answer. Night Clerk Coats went to the room, broke in the transom, and looked over. He saw the three bodies lying on the blood-stained bed. The woman was lying across the man, and the body of the baby was on the pillow.

Three notes were found which told the story. Two were written by the woman and one by Villiers. Those written by the woman said she had quarreled with her lover and determined both should die. The other note, written by the man, said he was resigned to his fate. It gave directions to his mother for the disposition of his body.

The supposition is that the poison did not work fast enough and the woman took a 12-caliber pistol and shot the man through the temple. He fell back on the bed and then she put a bullet through her brain in the same place. The baby died from the poison, which was given in a nursing bottle. The woman had given the poison in sherry wine, a half empty bottle of which was found on a table.

THE WOMAN'S child was by his deceased wife.

AN INTERRUPTED TEST. Firing Tube Burst and the Experiment Schooner Freeman Sunk.

New Bedford, Mass., Sept. 15.—During a test of the Cunningham naval torpedo in this harbor this morning by a survey board from Newport, the firing tube in the experiment schooner Freeman burst, and the vessel was sunk by the explosion.

No one was seriously hurt, and the cause of the explosion is not known, but it is thought the tampion at the mouth of the firing tube failed to work. The schooner is too deep in the water to permit an examination today.

RIOT IN ST. LOUIS. Several Persons Wounded, One of Them Fatally.

St. Louis, Sept. 15.—Trouble which has been brewing for several days as a result of the linemen's strike culminated in a bloody riot this morning. A squad of non-union men employed by the Kinloch Telephone Company attempted to string wires. They were met by a party of strikers, who objected, and a deadly fusillade was exchanged. Patrick Kane, who was called a non-union man, was shot several times and cannot live. Other men whose names have not been learned were also wounded.

A MYSTERIOUS MURDER. Farmer Boothby Called to His Door and Shot Dead. Portland, Me., Sept. 15.—Ivory Boothby, a farmer of North Saco, fifty years old, was called to his door last night and shot. His dead body was found on the doorstep this morning by his brothers. Boothby left no family. The murderer is not known, nor can any motive for the crime be ascertained.

The other collection was loaned by Major O'Brien. It shows the different kinds of arms used by the American and Spanish forces. The exhibition attracts a good deal of attention.
