THE CONTEST FOR THE SPEAKERSHIP

General Henderson and Mr. Payne Arrive Here.

The Iowa Declares Himself as Against Sectionalism.

President McKinley is Reported to Be Neutral as to Who Shall Be Chosen.

Interest in the speakership contest was renewed yesterday by the arrival of a number of members of the Republican caucus committee in session at Atlantic City, which has been considering the proposed financial legislation.

General Henderson and Mr. Payne arrived here yesterday morning. Mr. Payne has withdrawn in favor of his colleague, Mr. Sherman, he is still holding on, and talks as though he expected to be quite pretty well in the race.

General Henderson severely deprecated the idea of sectionalism entering into the speakership contest. "I do not believe in sectionalism in such cases," he said. "I am an American citizen before the American Congress. If I am not broad enough to eradicate sectionalism in dealing with matters before the Speaker should I be elected, I am not broad enough for the place. I do not think the Speaker should be a Speaker for the East or the West."

Mr. Payne was asked if both he and Mr. Sherman would go before the Republicans of the State as aspirants for the Chair, or whether the new York delegation would take the matter in hand and present but one candidate for the place. He replied that although that question had been considered, no definite conclusions had been reached, but it was very probable that an effort would be made to have the New York delegation present a solid front on this question.

"Do you expect the support of the Administration in your candidacy for the speakership?" Mr. McKinley inquired me personally that he will take no part whatever in the selection of a successor to Mr. Reed.

"What is the attitude of Senator Hanna in this matter?" "Although I have not seen Mr. Hanna in regard to this question, I have been reliably informed by members who have conversed with him on the subject that his influence will not enter into the contest. The question of the selection of a presidential elector by the House of Representatives is evidently to be left entirely with that body. This is as it should be."

In speaking of the retirement of Mr. Reed, Mr. Payne said that gentleman had not as yet made any public statement of his intention to retire from Congress. His acceptance, however, of a place as a member of the New York law firm would seem to leave no doubt as to his retirement. During the last four or five years Mr. Payne said he had often heard Mr. Reed express the desire to retire from public life and take up the practice of law. Knowing the man as he did, it was Mr. Payne's belief that the retiring Speaker has been way to influence the House in the selection of his successor.

Mr. Payne has not been idle since he decided to ask the suffrage of his fellow members in the House for the speakership. While he was in Atlantic City he saw many of his colleagues, and has corresponded with many more. Mr. Payne will leave Washington today, and when asked if he should go directly home, he said that his destination was home, but that he expected "to visit several other places first."

Representative Charles Curtis of Kansas reached Washington yesterday from Atlantic City, where he has also been attending the sessions of the House Committee on Currency Legislation. Mr. Curtis is a stalwart supporter of Representative Sherman for Speaker. He said he would leave for home the last of this week, and that when he reached there he would call at a meeting of the Kansas Republican delegation in the House for the purpose of taking action on the chairmanship of the speakership. Mr. Curtis will do his utmost to bring the seven Kansas Republican members of the House into line for Mr. Sherman. Mr. Curtis is a conspicuous member of the House Committee on Indian Affairs, of which Mr. Sherman is Chairman, and it is understood that in the event Mr. Sherman is made Speaker he will appoint Mr. Curtis to the chairmanship of the Indian Affairs Committee.

Representative Dalzell of Pittsburg, who is a receptive candidate for Speaker, is in Washington. Mr. Dalzell has yesterday that he had not announced himself as a candidate for Speaker for the reason that he was awaiting developments.

CAPTAIN CARTER'S CASE.

An Answer to His Statements to Be Prepared. Col. Thomas F. Gillette, Judge Advocate General of the Military Department of the East, and Capt. C. E. Gillette, of the Corps of Engineers, have come to Washington to prepare a statement to enable Attorney General Griggs to render his decision in regard to the legal points raised by Capt. O'Brien M. Carter, Corps of Engineers, against the enforcement of the sentence of fine and imprisonment imposed on him by an Army court-martial.

Colonel Barr was the judge advocate of the Carter court, and Captain Gillette brought the charges which resulted in Captain Carter's conviction of embezzling Government money. The papers in the case were referred to the Attorney General some months ago by the President, who wanted a legal opinion as to the correctness of the contents made by Captain Carter's conviction against the legality of the trial. Colonel Barr and Captain Gillette have been furnished with a private room in the War Department, where they will prepare an answer to Captain Carter's statements.

AMBYAL JÁNOŠ

Taken in the morning, either pure or diluted with hot or cold water, it produces a copious evacuation without leaving behind it any irritating or enervating effect.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

The German Ambassador entertained a distinguished company at dinner last night in honor of Dr. and Mrs. von Rotterberg. The visitors, whose stay in Washington is one continuous ovation, will be the guests of Miss Wynne at dinner this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Munn and family will sail today from New York to Southampton on the American Line steamship St. Louis. Mr. George Westinghouse is booked for the same passage, and another passenger from Washington is Dr. E. A. Schwabach, who goes to attend the International Congress for Tuberculosis at Berlin.

Senator and Mrs. Jones, of Arkansas, and their son, James K. Jones, Jr., were among the passengers who sailed yesterday from New York on the North German Lloyd line for Southampton. The length of stay and programme of travel will depend entirely upon the health of Senator Jones, who is improving every day.

Former Secretary and Mrs. Sherman are both so far recovered from illness as to look forward with pleasure to their departure next week for their home in Mansfield, Ohio.

The Sewing Society, Army and Navy Relief, D. A. R., will meet this morning at 10 o'clock and on all Wednesdays in May at the same hour at the residence of Mrs. McKean, 1229 New Hampshire Avenue.

Secretary and Mrs. Gage are among the May guests at the Virginia Hot Springs.

Mrs. Tadel, Mrs. de Wolfant, and the Misses Tadel will be at home this afternoon after 4 o'clock.

Colonel and Mrs. Baker and the Misses Ethel and Katherine Baker will sail for Europe today to travel abroad until the Paris Exposition.

The many friends of Miss Mary E. Hammond, of the Pension Bureau, will be pleased to learn that she is convalescing from a serious attack of meningitis.

Senator and Miss Frye are guests of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Grace at their home at Great Neck, L. I.

Cable advice states that the Vicereine of India, formerly Miss Mary Letzer, of this city, has been announced as being ill, is simply on her deathbed, and is under the influence. The Viceroyn and his family and official staff are now established for the summer at the Government palace at Simla "in the Hills."

The Army and Navy Chapter, D. A. R., will give their annual ball on the City this evening. As the entertainment is for a patriotic and charitable cause and the programme is made up of genuine talent there is every reason to expect that it will be both a financial and artistic success.

SEEN AND HEARD IN THE HOTELS. A large part of the Virginia Congressional delegation arrived in the city yesterday, among them being Senators Daniel and Martin and Representatives Hay, Rixey, and Egan. The party are all at the Metropolitan except Representative Egan, who is staying at the Colonial.

Henry Watterson, Jr., is in the city preparing for an examination for a commission that he has been offered in the Regular Army. He is at the Ebbitt. Young Watterson served through the war as an enlisted man with a Kentucky regiment, and the life lived him so much of the things he decided to make the army his profession. Colonel Watterson asked for no commission for his son during the war, though he probably could have secured one, but he would not have been so pleased with the record that he has consented to the young man's endeavoring to secure a Regular Army commission. And the commission has been given him by the President, subject to the examination. Another of Colonel Watterson's sons also served through the war as an enlisted man.

C. H. Broker, a business man, of Asheville, N. C., is in the city on his way North. He is the National Hotel. In speaking of Billmore, the great Vanderbilt property near Asheville, last night, he said: "There has been a story in the newspapers recently to the effect that Mr. Vanderbilt has determined to abandon the place because of a lack of water. I happen to know that there is no truth in the rumor, or very little, at any rate. There has been some trouble with the water supply, but it is not so serious a matter that he will abandon the place and the millions that he has expended in beautifying and perfecting it. As a matter of fact, he is making plans and arrangements for years to come. He recently engaged a famous Kentucky hog breeder to raise for him the finest kind of hogs in America. This man is now in Europe picking out the best breeds for experimenting in breeding with the best American hogs."

"Washington is making the Potomac River a pest," said A. M. Everton, of Alexandria, at the Hotel Johnson last night. "There are hundreds of thousands of dead fish floating down the river past Alexandria all day long, that are thrown overboard by the fishing boats that fail to dispose of their catches. The fish are a menace to the health not only of Alexandria but of Washington as well. Boat loads of fish are brought up the river and after standing three or four days at the wharves, or perhaps much longer, are finally dumped overboard in a condition of partial putrefaction. This horrible refuse takes at least three days to reach Occoquan, advancing and receding with the tides and it becomes worse and worse as it grows older. Some arrangement should be made to have the entire surplus of fish burned at some convenient point down the river, and if measures are not taken an outbreak of disease is likely to result."

John C. Underwood, of Kentucky, prominent in Confederate and Veteran Association affairs, is at the Riggs House. He has charge of a large part of the work in connection with the coming reunion at Charleston, S. C., and has been engaged on his plans for several weeks. Mr. Underwood was one of the victims of the Hotel Windsor fire, and lost nearly all his papers.

MEDICAL DISCUSSIONS.

Annual Meeting of the American Gastro-Enterological Association. The second annual meeting of the American Gastro-Enterological Association convened in the Shoreham at 9 o'clock yesterday, with a session of the council composed of Drs. Mott, Allen, and Eberhart. At 10 o'clock the business meeting of the association was held at which several important papers on medical subjects were read. The afternoon session was held at 2:30. The papers read on diseases of the stomach were: "A Case of Dilatation of the Stomach Due to Laceration of the Pylorus," by Dr. J. Kuntzmann, of New York; "Experiments on Gastric Digestion," by Dr. Fenton B. Turk, of Chicago; "The State of the Gastric Secretions in Organic Diseases of the Stomach," by Dr. Frank H. Murdoch, of Pittsburg; "Gastric Ulcer Associated With Anæmia," by Dr. Lewis Brinton, of Philadelphia; "Pyloric Spasm," by Dr. J. Kuntzmann, of New York; "A Method of Administering Hydrochloric Acid," by Dr. Charles D. Aaron, of Detroit.

At 6 o'clock the session adjourned followed by a business meeting, at which questions concerning the organization of the society were discussed. The following officers were elected for 1900: President, Dr. Max Einhorn, of New York; vice-presidents, Drs. John C. Hemmeler, of Baltimore, and W. D. Booker, secretary and treasurer, Dr. Charles D. Aaron, of Detroit. The meetings of the society are held once a year, in Washington.

THE SOLDIER DEAD BURIED.

Impressive Military Funeral Services at Arlington. The bodies of 253 soldiers who died in Cuba and Porto Rico, were interred with imposing military honors at Arlington yesterday.

The funeral was conducted by Colonel Guenther, commanding the Fourth Artillery, stationed at Washington Barracks. Two companies of this regiment, marching as infantry, constituted the firing party and the band of the regiment played the "Dead March" from Saul, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and the "Miserere." The firing party was under command of Lieutenant Hayes. Colonel Guenther was accompanied by his regimental and battery officers. General Miles and staff attended and the War Department was represented by the Acting Secretary of War.

The religious ceremonies were performed by the Rev. Charles W. Freedland, post chaplain at Fort Monmouth, and Father McGee, of St. Patrick's Church, Washington. When the caskets were lowered into the long lines of graves, a bugler sounded taps.

The bodies buried yesterday were brought up by the funeral transport Crook on her second voyage. The ceremonies at Arlington were exactly the same as those observed at the interment of the dead brought north by the Crook on her first voyage a month ago.

Among the bodies interred yesterday was that of William J. McLeod, sergeant Major of the Fifth Immunes, who, at the time of his enlistment, was a well-known newspaper man in Washington.

The bodies of the following named officers were interred in the officers' section at Arlington: Lieut. Arthur K. Barnett, Twenty-third Kansas Infantry; Lieut. Michael J. O'Brien, Fifth Infantry; Lieut. William C. Neary, Fourth Infantry, and Capt. Gregory Barrett, Tenth Infantry.

Soldiers on a Railroad Train. Chicago, May 2.—Howell L. Morgan, of Bayonne, N. J., en route from Port Valdez, Alaska, to his home, accompanied by his two young sons, shot himself in a Grand Trunk train at St. Lawrence, Ind., last evening. Morgan was fifty-seven years old and it is supposed he was crazed because of money losses in the Klondike. His widow and sister reside at Bayonne.
