Manila, July 27.-General Hall defeated General Malahar's garrison of 300 Filtder the supervision of General Lawton. Four hundred Washington troops, armed ton's mountain battery left Pasig at a o'clock in the morning and joined Captain Eltenhead, with 450 men of the Twentyfirst Infantry, 150 cavalrymen, and the Army gunboats Napidan and Oeste.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the gunboats concealed near Talim Island headed southwest, deceiving the Calambans into believing they were intending to attack Santa Cruz. Suddenly, however, they flooded the insurgents' trenches, hence there was no opposition on the part of the enemy until the cavalrymen were swimming the river. The insurgents then fired volleys at the Americans. Captain Mc-Grath and Lieutenants Bates and Swan secured a caseo, on which they ferried the cavalrymen across the river. The cavalry advanced upon the town, while the Twenty-first Infantry detachcircled the foothills to the west, preventing a retreat of the enemy on three sides. It then swung to the southeast, flanking the enemy, who retired into the town After fighting there in the streets they escaped south to Santa Tomas.

The Washington troops, under cover o the Napidan's six pounders, landed in water neck deep, and got stuck in the marshes in the south, consequently they

A hundred non-combatants in carriages drawn by bull teams, escaped to the south unmolested. The enemy removed abou twenty-five of their killed and wounded and also took with them forty Spanish prisoners. Thirty of the latter, including five women, were rescued by the Americans, and conveyed to Manila.

Calamba, which is on the lake, is a pos ttion of strategic importance, and will be permanently garrisoned.

General Lawton and his wife and son were luterested witnesses of the affair from a launch, and were under fire. Lieutenant Larsen, commanding the Napidan, discovered the Otalora, a lost insurgent gunboat, partly dismantled and concented by fish traps, covered with bamboos.

The American loss was four men killed and eleven wounded.

Today General Lawton, on board the Napidan, visited Los Banos to the south of Calamba. He found there a deserted Spanish hospital for rheumatics, with hot sponge and marble baths, which he recommends to the use of the Army. Prof. Worcester, of the American Commission, accompanied General Lawton and congratulated him on his discovery.

Cleveland, July 27.-It is impossible to truthfully reflect the conditions incident to the great street railway strike here and not recognize the fact that public sympathy is with the strikers to such an extent that it will be a long time before the officials have decided it. The sympathy that has led to the establishment of a boycott has the most effect. With the exception of the Euclid Avenue and Cedar Avenue lines the companies' routes are only occasionally patronized by a lone passenger. The Broadway and South Side Moca lines are practically "tabooed." To see a quiet. passenger in one of these cars is a novelty. The boycott is effectual out Newburg way. It was related of one prominent man that he was refused meat in a butcher shop and a drink in a saloon because he rode on a Broadway line. On the South Side an association was organized last evening to make known the names of solidated lines. MRS. PEROT IN COURT

Arrested on Landing at Liverpool With the Missing Child.

Extradition Proceedings Begun at London-Remanded for a Week and Given Liberty on Rati-Captain Blood One of Her Bondsmen - A Story of Unhappiness and Divorce.

London, July 27 .- Mrs. Letitia Ferot. who was arrested in Liverpool upon her arrival on board the steamship Cambioman today, was arraigned in the Bow Street police court this afternoon upon extradition proceedings. She was defended by Barrister Putrick Rose-Inner, who entered a plea of not guilty. The Ango-American extradition treaty, he declared, could not transfer a prisoner for what did not constitute a crime in the country from which extradition was demanded. This war purely a technical offence. It was novel, he said, to hear a charge against an inno cent mother who was divorced from a guilty husband of abducting her own child. When arrested Mrs. Perot acknowledge! that she was traveling under the name o Mrs. Pierce. She said to the detective: "I don't see how I can possibly be charged with stealing my own child." Mrs. Perot n court looked well. She was stylishly dressed in gray and wore a Leghorn hat, She led her child by the hand as she came into court. When Mrs. Perot was put into the dock the child was kept outside, but stood close to her mother, who watched her anxiously, the two exchanging affectionate smiles and glances. The little girl was evidently anxious to remain with her mother After testimony as to Mrs. Perot's arrest had been given, Mr. Hodson, of the United States Embassy, said father and mother of the child had arranged a divorce, on the understanding that the child's grandfather, who had laid this information against the mother, should have the custody of the child at his home. The grandfather objected to Captain Blood's association with the child and had sailed from New York for London yesterday to regain possession of her. Mr. Roselinnes derided the legality of such in arrangement between the father and mother of the child, and demanded that the pris-oner be released on bail. The magistrate granted the application and admitted Mrs. Perot to bail in two sureties of £100 each of the prisoner on bail and also to her retaining custody of the child. He further objected in the strongest terms to Captain Blood being accepted as a surety. The magistrate overruled the objections The magistrate overruled the objections and accepted Captain Blood and Sir Charles Euan Smith, Minister Resident of Great Britain at Bogota, as sureties, Mr. Rose-

Innes undertaking to produce the child without prejudice to the defendant's legal rights over the child. The prisoner was then remanded for a week, in the mean time being at liberty on haif.

THE TRANSVAAL SITUATION. Mr. Balfour Says the Trouble Is by

No Means Over. London, July 27 .- The Right Hon, Arthur J. Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury, in an address to the Midland Union Conservative Association today, said that, a consequence of this all of the difficulties of Great Britain in the Transvani had arisen, and upon several occasions they had nearly led to war. He earnestly hoped that England would not have to send at army there, but the present position could not be prolonged indefinitely.

If diplomacy proved ineffectual to untithe knot other means must be found. Personally, he said, he was more sanguine since the new proposals of the Transvaal were laid upon proper lines. He did not think that the Transvaal would be so short-sighted as to take back with one hand what it had given with the other, but at present it would be folly to say that the difficulties were ended.
