REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

FOR SENATOR GENERAL: Col. DAVID STANTON, of Beaver. FOR SURVIVOR GENERAL: Col. ROBERT B. BEATH, of Schuylkill.

THE Boston Advertiser says: "Garvey is the plasterer of the Ring and A. Oakey Hall is the whitewasher."

THE Prussian occupation in France bears heavily upon the defeated, chagrined peasantry of the latter nation, and riots with the German soldiery are of almost daily occurrence.

THE St. Louis Times is opposed to a military man as a Democratic candidate for President, and opposed to General Hancock, especially, as the "hangman of Mrs. Surratt."

In purchasing the Colonely of the 9th regiment, Jim Fisk mistook his vocation. He thought he could train the militia, because he could the Erie train. He ought to be on a rail road.

THE Indianapolis Journal offers to pay $1,000 for a copy of any speech in which Ex-Senator Hendricks, during the war, took decided grounds in favor of the suppression of the rebellion.

THE Austin State Journal says that "in Texas one of the chief labors of the Republican State Administration has been to ascertain and provide for the debt which the Democracy, when in power, incurred but did not pay."

CHARGES have been made by the Tammany Democrats that Republican members of the New York Legislature have been in the habit of receiving large sums of money annually for support given by them to legislative measures of Democrats.

SENATOR POMEROY, of Kansas, affirms that President Grant will be re-nominated and elected. The West will nominate him and the divisions among the Democracy will give him an easy triumph. In all of which the Senator's "head is level."

At last, after tantalizing rumors and reports, comes the announcement that Commissioner Pleasanton has been relieved of the portfolio of the Internal Revenue Department, and the Deputy Commissioner Douglas assigned to the office until such time as Congress shall assemble.

A TERRIBLE hail storm passed over Albion, Wisconsin, on July 21. Hail stones two and a-half inches in diameter fell, and the ground, in places, was sufficiently covered to run a sleigh. The corn and tobacco crops in that vicinity were completely ruined. The damage is estimated at $250,000.

THE New York Globe (independent) says the exposures of the Times, unless refuted, will bring disaster on the Democratic party. The Germans of the party are already in open rebellion, and say they will no longer support the Democratic ticket. This defection if continued, will alone bring defeat.

WITH a feeling somewhat like despair, the Augusta (Ga.) Constitutionalist remarks that it will certainly require a Democratic President (meaning by this, however, merely a Democratic candidate for the Presidency), of most exemplary purity of character to counteract the evil deeds of Tammany.

SOME one has figured out the cost of Tammany rule in New York, and finds that the sum for the past year is no less than $19,000,000, and for the past five years $335,000,000. With the Democratic party in power in the National Government the cost, at this rate, would amount to the sum of three billions.

A FEARFUL riot occurred at Dublin on Sunday a-week on account of Fenianism. High hopes seem to have been entertained relative to the influence that might be brought to bear on the royal party, visiting in Ireland in behalf of the imprisoned Fenians. A meeting which was held near where the royal party were staying precipitated the riot, in which fifty or more persons were wounded.

The Late Elections.

Elections have been held in North Carolina and Kentucky—the former on Thursday, the 31 day of August, and the latter on Monday, the 7th day of August—terminating in a favorable result for the Republican party.

In North Carolina, the contest was in reference to a Constitutional Convention. The Democrats having a majority in the last Legislature, passed a law, submitting to the people the question of calling a convention to amend the Constitution of the State, notwithstanding the Constitution adopted in 1868 expressly forbids the calling of a convention for its alteration or amendment for a period of ten years, and then only with the consent of the legislature. Contrary to the well laid plans of the party in power, the Republicans have carried the State and defeated the convention scheme by from 10,000 to 20,000 majority. In this, no doubt, they were aided by many Democrats, who regarded the question as revolutionary, and fraught with mischief—that it would again reopen the troubles in the State, unsettle the wise provisions of the fundamental law, and again invoke the interference of the Federal authorities. To avoid all this, the popular verdict just given is eminently wise and proper.

In Kentucky, the election was for Governor and other State officers, which resulted in favor of the Democratic candidates, as usual, but by a greatly reduced majority. In 1868, the Democracy carried the State by 76,000 majority. This year, the returns received thus far indicate that their majority will be only about 30,000—being a Republican gain of nearly 50,000. A little more earnest and determined work, and Kentucky will take her place in the GRANT line in 1872. The "new departure" is working well; only let us have a little more of it; it suits us exactly.

It may not be inappropriate to remark, that the vote in North Carolina indicates that the people of that State are better content with the "carpet-baggers," and "carpet-baggers' constitution," than they are with the Democratic Ku-Klux and their hellish midnight murders and assassinations. In Kentucky, too, the people are awakening to the horrors of the Ku-Klux anarchy that has pervaded that State so extensively of late. The outrages so prevalent in these two States, as well as in other Southern States, and the recent denouement riot in New York, are opening the eyes of the people everywhere to the lawless and revolutionary tendencies of the Democratic leaders, and the Democratic organization. The only safety to our free institutions and the life and property of our citizens, depends upon the success and continuance in power of the Republican party. Let the people remember these truths.

Another Railway Disaster.

As the Maine Central Railway train was entering Bangor on the night of August 10th, the bridge across the Hamden road gave way, causing a general smash-up and killing one person outright and injuring thirty others more or less seriously. The engine and a portion of the mail and express car had got across the bridge when the structure went down. The balance of the train, consisting of a smoking car, three passenger cars and one Pullman car, was turned into the streets of the city. The smoking car was plunged a distance of twenty feet into the streets, followed by two of the passenger cars, and all three were completely torn to pieces. The third passenger car was plunged down an abyss, striking upon the forward end and crushing it in. While the rear was suspended at an angle of 45 degrees by the broken timbers and abutments, the Pullman Palace Car remained upon the track, being but slightly damaged by contact with the preceding car. Though none of its passengers were in any way injured, Wm. Percival, brakeman, was killed while standing at his post on the front platform. This passenger car train being behind time, was running at a great rate of speed to make up lost time. Loss of life would have been fearful but for the small number of passengers. Many passengers were dug out unharmed from the mass of debris to which the train had been reduced. The cause of the accident is due to the decayed condition of the bridge. The whole community is discussing the accident and its causes, and will demand a most searching investigation of the circumstance. Up to midnight the injured were doing well. Thomas Gallagher, boiler maker, of East Boston, died from his injuries. When the accident became known the citizens hurried to the scene of the disaster and rendered to the injured every possible assistance.

Compliments to Gen. M'Callister.

One of the comrades-in-arms of Gen. M'Callister before he resigned his commission rather than fight for the freedom of the slave, sends us the following somewhat pertinent inquiries and suggestions, which are respectfully submitted to the Democratic candidate for Auditor General, now traversing Pennsylvania and advertising for the votes of the "Lincoln hirelings":

"Will you be kind enough to ask the following questions of Colonel Wm. M'Callister, as he is traveling through the country begging the votes of the soldiers, on the ground that he served during the war in the Pennsylvania Reserves:

"Did you, Colonel M'Callister, vote for the soldier, S. T. Owen, for Recorder of Deeds of Philadelphia?"

"Did you vote for General John F. Harttraft for Auditor General?"

"Did you vote for General John W. Geary for Governor?"

"Did you vote for U. S. Grant?"

"All these soldiers ran against well-known Copperheads—men who opposed the war; men who, when you were in the field, with 'the elbow-touch when death's brief pang was quickest,' styled you and the rest of the soldiers of the Union army 'Lincoln hirelings and murderers'—who said we had no right to murder our dear Southern brethren; who said we had no right to coerce the South; who said we 'had no right to save the nation's life'?"

"If the 'post of honor was the private station' in 1864, why do you ask the votes of the soldiers who said, by their acts, that the post of honor was where death's brief pang was quickest?"

"This plea of 'Because I was a soldier in the Union army' is a good plea from men who have stuck to their colors, but a very poor plea for one who has joined the enemy he fought as well as you did for three years."

"A soldier who was with you in the old reserves, and believes in the great principles for which he fought—the Union, the Constitution, and equal rights for all men everywhere—asks these questions and makes these suggestions."—Press.

Pennsylvania Laws, 1871.

AN ACT extending the sheriff's interpleader not to attachments issued under the act, entitled "An Act relative to fraudulent debtors."

SECTION I. Be it enacted, etc. That section nine of an act, entitled "An Act extending the liability of executors and administrators of estates in certain courts," approved the tenth day of April, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and forty-eight, and also section first of an act, entitled "An Act extending the interpleader act of Philadelphia city and county to the several counties of this Commonwealth," approved the tenth day of March, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and fifty-eight, be extended and applied to any claim which has been or shall be made by any person or persons joining the parties against whom process has issued to any goods or chattels taken, or entitled to be taken, by or under attachment issued under the act, entitled "An Act relative to fraudulent debtors," approved the seventh day of March, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine, and to the provisions of the said act, which shall have power at chambers to hear and determine any rule to show cause, and to make such order as shall appear to be proper and just under the circumstances of the case. Approved Jan. 13, 1871.

A SUPPLEMENT to an act, entitled "An Act providing for the election of district attorneys," allowing district attorneys to hold office in the counties of Luzerne and Wyoming, approved the tenth day of April, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine, shall not be construed so as to prohibit the district attorney of any county from holding any office or commission in the militia of the State. Approved Jan. 30, 1871.

AN ACT Supplementary to the acts relating to lateral railroads.

SECTION I. Be it enacted, etc. That in all proceedings on pending, or which may hereafter be instituted to procure the right to construct lateral railroads, or for the acquisition of wharves or landings, or for either of said purposes, the appeal to court from the report of the viewers shall extend not only to the assessment of damages but to the question of the location of the proposed lateral railroad, what of the proposed landing or wharf is to be taken, and shall also extend to the question whether such landing or wharf is necessary to the owner thereof, for his own use or purposes; and if the jury shall so find, the same shall not be taken from him. Approved February 17, 1871.

A DEMOCRATIC OPINION.—The Mobile Register, to which we must accord the virtue of frankness irrespective of its political opinions, thus characterizes the New Departure Programme:

"It is not 'doctrinal' in all this, we have never encountered that article, nor whole political life. Just look at it. You departurists are dead against the amendments. So are we. You say you won't oppose them by violence. So do we. You hold that they are in so far actual parts of the Constitution as to be beyond the reach of present. So do we. Now where do we differ? In this, that neither now nor hereafter, before or after the election, will we cease to believe and declare that these amendments are the joint products of force and fraud, to be unceasingly warded upon, and interpreted by direct attack, and not by the palliative of 'construction'; while you departurists propose to hush up the whole matter, or if you speak it only to make the radicals believe that acquiescence in them, as parts of the Constitution, is for all time. Now either the 'Departurists' cheat the radicals or it cheats the friends of a restored, purified Constitution, and we really have not yet made up our mind which. The 'departure' has all the earmarks of adodge. It is not straightforward; it requires too much explanation; it is looked in tongue, and has none of the yes-and-ay simplicity of a direct and truthful proposition."

In 1861 the Democratic party was in power, and the Democratic President said, that he had no power to coerce a State, or suppress a rebellion against the Union. The Republican party took the reins of government and found power to suppress the rebellion, and coerce a State. And now this same Democratic party wants to climb upon and occupy the same platform with the Republican party.
