

FOR THE FARMER.

Farm and Garden.

THE COTTAGE DOOR.

How sweet the rest that labor yields The humble and the poor, Where sits the patriarch of the fields Before his cottage door!
The lark is singing in the sky,
The swallows on the eaves,
And love is beaming in each eye Beneath the summer leaves!

The air amid his fragrant bowers Supplies unpurchased health, And hearts are bounding 'mid the flowers, More dear to him than wealth.
Peace, like the blessed sunlight, plays Around his humble cot,
And happy nights and cheerful days Divide his lowly lot.

And when the village Sabbath bell Rings out upon the gale, The father bows his head to tell The music of its tale—
A fresher verdure seems to fill The fair and dewy sod,
And every infant tongue is still To hear the word of God.

Oh, happy hearts! to Him who stills The ravens when they cry,
And makes the lily 'neath the hills So glorious to the eye—The trusting patriarch prays to bless His labors with increase; Such ways are "ways of pleasantness," And all such "paths are peace."

Inhumanity to Animals Punished by Providence.

Some Poet has truthfully said that—"Man's inhumanity to man Makes countless thousands mourn." Of man's inhumanity and downright cruelty to dumb animals, something equally true and still more severe might be said, and easily sustained. For, tho' there seems to be good reasons for thinking that human sentiments and dispositions towards the dumb creation are becoming deeper and stronger in those who possessed originally the germs thereof by inheritance or constitution, and are being imbibed from the prevailing current of feeling, even by those who seem to have been born with very hard hearts, yet still the conduct of a very large majority, shows that there is abundant foundation for considerably wide and sweeping charges against man, for inhumanity to animals committed to his care. Thus conduct exposes those guilty of it, to the just reprehension of the more merciful and the more excellent ones of the earth; and it is an inquiry of no little interest to determine how such persons are regarded and treated by a just and merciful Providence.

How, then, does Providence deal with those who are guilty of inhumanity and indifference to the comfort of those animals which have been committed to their care and charge? Those who carry out this inquiry as far as their own observations aided by those of others, will admit, will lead to the discovery of considerations which very few seem to have attended to or laid to heart. They will discover, for example, that this species of wrong-doing and guilt does not escape any more than any other, the just and severe retributions of a beneficent and watchful Governorship, which is really kind, even when it punishes with apparent severity.

They will find, to descend to a few details, that those who are so inhuman and indifferent to the needs and comfort of their brute animals, as to let them pick up in the fall or early part of winter, an insufficient amount of nutriment from the scanty and frost-injured grasses of their meadows and pastures, and in addition, let them be out in the cold and chilly nights of that season, have their stock become so poor—so reduced in condition—as to make it up-hill work or impossible to get them through the winter, while at the same time they obtain much less milk, or wool, or meat, or work from animals so mistreated, and those who deal with their stock more justly and humanely. Under such treatment, with a continuance of insufficient food and shelter through the winter, sheep die, calves become little stunted runts, cows give little or no milk, lambs come still-born or die in a few days, cattle become so weak that they cannot do the work that should be done in spring, and damage and losses accrue in other forms besides.

Want of sufficient food and shelter in fall, winter, and early spring, produces such results. Teams so maltreated cannot draw a plow put down to a proper depth, and thus the scanty crops, from fields plowed only three or four inches deep, contain the providential punishment throughout the whole year.

Such are some of the ways in which wrong-doing is rebuked and punished, evildoers warned and called to repentance and reformation, and the superintending watchfulness and regard for rights, justice, and mercy of the supreme Governor and Disposer of all things vindicated and made manifest before the eyes of His intelligent and responsible creatures. Alas! that so many shut their eyes that they see not these retributive providences, nor heed the lessons they were wisely and mercifully intended to teach and inculcate!

The copyright of the song of the "Old Arm Chair" was sold by its author, Miss Eliza Cook, to a London publisher for the sum of two pounds two shillings.
This song, set to music, has cleared the publisher over $200,000.

and residence of the owner, and will be marked der of its entry.

No vicious animal will be entered, unless the

INSTRUCTIONS TO JUDGES.—The Judges are tary's office, on the ground, on the first day, before 3 o'clock, P. M., at which time their names will be called, and vacancies (if any) filled.

They will report by the number on the article exhibited, and, in awarding Premiums, be governed by the printed lists furnished them by the Secretary.

They shall require such evidence from exhibitors, relative to the stock or articles on exhibition, as shall be to them entirely satisfactory.
Any deception in the statements of exhibitors, shall when discovered make a forfeiture of the premium, to which the party making it

All the articles specified in classes Nos. 10, 11 and 13 must have been manufactured in the County, in order to entitle them to premi-months prior to the Fair.

No article exhibited shall be entitled to two premiums as, for instance, the best bushel of grain, receiving the premium, shall not be included in the best acre on which a premium is offered.

The Judges of these several classes will be required to report in writing the premiums awarded by them, respectively, with such remarks relating to the merits of the animals or articles coming under their examination, as they may think proper.

Any person exhibiting an article not mentioned in the printed list, but which may be deemed meritorious by the Judges, shall be awarded a Diploma.

The Judges will not permit any one to interfere with them during their adjudication, and when any judge is interested, he shall withdraw, and the balance shall decide on the merits of the articles.

The Judges of the various classes will meet on the ground, on the second day, at 10 o'clock, dition whatever.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.—The Managers confidently assure the public that such improvements will be made upon the arrangements of the four former Fairs, as will much better secure the comfort of the animals, the safety of the articles, and the convenience of the exhibitors.
The Ebensburg Brass Band has been engaged, and will be upon the ground during the entire exhibition.

In short nothing within the means of the Society will be left undone, which might have a tendency to render the Fair useful and attractive, and bring to it a respectable attendance.
A reward of Ten Dollars will be paid by the Society for the apprehension and conviction of any person or persons found injuring, destroying, or in any manner wantonly interfering with any animal or article on exhibi-
