

How JOHN JACOB ASTOR BECAME RICH.—A writer in Harper's Magazine, speaking of the late John Jacob Astor, thus speaks of the manner in which he acquired his great wealth:

"It was neither furs nor teas that gave him $20,000,000. When he arrived in New York, it contained only 25,000 inhabitants. In 1800, when he began to have money to invest, the city had begun to double in population, and had advanced nearly a mile up the island. Astor foresaw its future growth, and bought all the lands and lots just beyond the verge of the city that he could get. One little anecdote will show the wisdom of this proceeding. He sold a lot in the vicinity of Wall street, in 1810, for $8,000, which was supposed to be somewhat under its value. The purchaser, after the papers were signed, seemed disposed to chuckle over his bargain. 'Why, Mr. Astor,' said he, 'this lot will be worth $12,000.'—'Very true,' replied Astor, 'but now you shall see what I will do with this money. With $8,000 I will buy eighty lots above Canal street. By the time your lot will be worth $12,000, my eighty lots will be worth $80,000,' which proved to be the fact. In the course of time, the island was dotted all over with Astor lands to such an extent that the whole income from his estate for fifty years could be invested in new houses, without buying any more land."

DIDN'T WANT A SUBSTITUTE.—Mr. Pilkinson, a small farmer in Pennsylvania, was some time ago drafted for the service of his country. His wife, though she possesses but a small stock of general information, is one of the best of conjugal partners, and was much troubled at the thought of parting with her husband. As she was engaged in scrubbing off her doorsteps, a rough looking stranger came up and thus addressed her:

"I hear, madam, that your husband has been drafted."

"Yes, sir, he has," answered Mrs. Pilkinson, "though, dear knows, there's few couldn't be better spared from their families."

"Well, madam, I have come to offer myself as a substitute for him."

"A what?" asked Mrs. Pilkinson, with some excitement.

"I am willing to take his place," said the stranger.

"You take the place of my husband, you wretch. I'll teach you to insult a distressed woman that way, you vagabond!" cried Mrs. Pilkinson, as she discharged the dirty soapuds in the face of the discomfited and astonished substitute, who took to his heels just in time to escape having his head broken by the bucket.

A NEW FIRE EXTINGUISHER.—Galignani's Messenger says that an apothecary at Nantes has just discovered, by the merest accident, that ammonia will put out fires. He happened to have about seventy litres of benzine in his cellar, and his boy, in going down carelessly with a light, had set fire to it. Assistance was speedily at hand, and pail after pail of water was poured into the cellar, without producing any effect, when the apothecary himself took up a pail which was standing neglected in a corner, and emptied the contents into the cellar. To his astonishment, the fire was quenched as if by magic, and upon examination he found that the pail, which belonged to his laboratory, had contained a quantity of liquid ammonia. The result is easy to explain on scientific principles, for ammonia, which consists of 82 parts of nitrogen and 18 of hydrogen, is easily decomposed by heat; and the nitrogen thus set free in the midst of a conflagration must infallibly put out the flames.

DO YOU WANT TO INVEST?—Here is a good bit at the flaming advertisements of oil stock companies now filling the newspapers in every direction:

"Capital Stock, $1,000,000,000! Antipodal Petroleum Company! Shares, par value, $10,000 each—price 25 cents. The well is bored entirely through the earth, extending from Oil Creek, Pennsylvania, to the Hoang Ho in the Celestial Empire, and has consequently a double outlet. An immense blowpipe will be inserted in the Chinese outlet, to promote an unbroken flow of oil from the western well, which it is supposed will be equal to a hundred barrels of refined Petroleum per minute."

"Gointown Strong, Prest."

"PARTICULAR PHITS, Seey."

What is the difference between Jenkins and Jenkins' dog's tail? Why, Jenkins keeps a carriage, and his dog's tail keeps a waggin'!

purchased from your agent, Mr. Adam R.
Bar, in Lancaster City, on July 20th, 1858, has been subjected to a very severe test,
which it withstood in a most satisfactory manner. This safe, containing all my books, together with valuable papers belonging to myself and some to my neighbors and friends and representing a value of over Twenty Thousand Dollars, ($20,000) was in my Mill which was destroyed on the night of the 27th of July, 1860, and passed through the fiery ordeal unscathed. The safe was on the second floor and fell to the basement of the Mill, and was subjected for six hours to an intense heat among the ruins, which was greatly increased by the combustion of a large quantity of grain confined within the brick walls. After the fire the safe was opened and the books and papers taken out in a state of perfect preservation, the paper not even being discolored.
This fact was, however, to many bystanders a better recommendation of your Safes than could be expressed in any other words from me.
Yours Respectfully,
[Sgd] SAMUEL RANCK.
