Panatela

No, Luella, dear
The Russians
Are not running
Quite so fast.
Neither is
The Dardanell
Getting anywhere
At last.
True, the allies
Are advancing
Slightly on the River Aisne.
But it seems
That everybody's Enterprises
Are in vain.

That is not
The case, Luella.
On the battle
Front today.
Merely being
Full of courage
In the matter
Doesn't pay.
All the soldiers
Have to rush them
Calmly waiting
An attack.
And you only
Have to rush them
To be dynamited
Back.

In the good old
Days, Luella,
Courage was
A great asset.
One could charge
A strong position.
Having little
To regret.
Like the fight
At Saratoga
And the one
At San Juan Hill.
Charging into
Them and yelling
Almost always
Filled the bill.

Little victories.
My desire,
Make the populace
Hurrah.
But the truth
From Armageddon
Is the battle
Is a draw.
Something else
Must be invented
For approaching
A redoubt
Or the war
Will age and wither
Mostly where
It started out.

BLIND EYE MADE GOOD.

Operation Has Peculiar Effect of Restoring Sight.

An operation for appendicitis performed on Ralph von Hacht, aged twenty-three, of Milford, Conn., has resulted in the restoring to the young man of the sight of one eye, which had been blind since his birth.

The operation was performed by Dr. Francis Campbell and members of the staff of Trinity hospital, New York. When the physicians removed Von Hacht's appendix several weeks ago they had no idea that they were going to restore his sight. It seems, however, that the appendix had been resting against one of the large nerves that form part of the system which connects with the optic nerves.

After the operation, Von Hacht for the first time in his life distinguished darkness from light with his blind eye. Soon he began to see objects with the eye. He was warned by the doctors not to exert his "blind" eye too much, but to allow it to grow stronger gradually. He said that the "blind" eye was nearly as good as the other eye.

OUR MISNAMED RUINS.

The Mesa Verde Cliff Dwellings Are Really Complete Towns.

Many visitors to the prehistoric cliff dwellings of the Mesa Verde National park, in southwestern Colorado, says a government publication, are astonished to find that what is commonly described as a dwelling is not properly a dwelling at all, but a village or city.

The celebrated Cliff Palace is not a palace. Neither is Spruce Tree House a house, nor Balcony House a house. Each of these is a complete town which once, in the dim ages before the earliest Indian tradition, was an organized community, often of considerable size.

The arrangement of houses in a cliff dwelling of the size of Cliff Palace, for example, is characteristic and intimately associated with the distribution of the social divisions of the inhabitants. The population was composed of a number of units, possibly clans, each of which had its own social organization more or less distinct from others, a condition that appears in the arrangement of rooms. The rooms occupied by a clan were not necessarily connected, although generally neighboring rooms were distinguished from one another by their uses.

Babies in Samoa.

Samoa babies can give points to Europeans apparently. According to A. S. Middleton in "Sailor and Beach-comber," they are much prettier and very intelligent. Moreover:

They can swim at three months old, talk, run and sing at a year old, and if a Samoan had a child that sucked a dummy (presumably a comforter) at six years old and wailed driving along in its pram at an advanced age, as the children of the wealthy class of England do, they would look upon it as a great curio and smother it for shame on the first starless night.

John Bull.

The nickname John Bull is said to have appeared first in a satire by Dr. John Arbuthnot called "Law Is a Bottomless Pit; or, the History of John Bull," published in 1721. Washington Irving mentions the typical figure as a "sturdy, corpulent, old fellow with a red waistcoat, leather breeches and short, oaken cudgel. Many Napoleonic caricatures show John Bull represented in this way.

Chivalry.

"Do you know," said the particularly well groomed and elaborately vivacious lady in the full bloom of her second youth, "that I have the most wonderful gardener in the world—the tenderest hearted not only of gardeners, but of men? He has always made me up a very special bouquet on my birthday and presented it to me in person. But ever since I was thirty—well, he's only given me a birthday bouquet every third year."—New York Post.

Heroes and Villains.

Men are not made heroes by the performance of an act of heroism, but must be brave before they can perform it; so they were not made villains by the commission of a crime, but were villains before they committed it.—Ruskin.

Is This So, Ladies?

"They say that a Martian year has over 600 days."
"Possibly it is in Martian years that our ladies give their ages."—Boston Transcript.
