Armstrong County's Candidate for Congress

Nathan L. Strong

Seldom has the announcement in the legislative halls. Too much attention has been given to such thoughts as the following, viz, that a Congressman should have at least two terms, that if one county elects the Congressman this term, another of the counties in the District should elect the Congressman for the next term, etc. True it is that there are many Congressmen who should be elected term after term, because of their recognized usefulness, their extraordinary ability, their forensic powers, or other reasons. But, because there have been such men as these, that is no reason why, simply because a Congressman has had one term, he should be returned to the position. Other men are capable, other men have ability, other men, through their breadth of knowledge in affairs in general, may be better than the ones now occupying these positions. Surely, such a thought should not deter any one from voting for the candidate, whether he be a former Congressman, the present Congressman, or an aspirant for the honor in the new, who best embodies those characteristics, those ideals which should be controlling in the selection of the proper man for the place. Mr. Strong's well known powers in debate or in argument, his ability to speak not only fluently but with power and to the point on subjects of general import, his business training, his legal acumen and knowledge, all of these faculties combine to make him in a particular and peculiar way wonderfully well fitted to properly represent the 27th District and to be an extremely useful member of Congress. In Armstrong County where, for the past fifteen years, Mr. Strong has been engaged in the development of one of the great as an expert, and a man whose natural resources of the county, his candidacy has met with such popularity, because of the fact that he has had so much to do with the bringing of wealth and prosperity to the people and with the rapid advances made by the county in recent years, that long before nomination day it will be very unpopular for any citizen to be either openly or secretly against his nomination. — Political Adv. When Thomas Bertrand, of Beaver Falls, visited his chicken coop he discovered that thieves had broken in and stolen a rooster and two hens. On the floor, partly hidden in straw, he found a gold-filled hunting case watch which the thieves evidently had dropped. A local jeweler valued the watch at $15.

Two steel coal boats, each containing 30,000 bushels of coal, and one wooden barge containing 5000 bushels were cut adrift and went over Dam No. 4 and sank in the Monongahela river near Charleroi, when the tow-boat Sallor was blown against a bridge pier. The loss is estimated at $35,000.

Seven of the twelve new mills recently erected at the plant of the Standard Tinplate company in East Canonsburg were put in operation, giving employment to about 500 men. Five other mills will be put in operation soon, giving the company a total of twenty-two mills, affording employment to about 2000 men.

Man's Limitations.
Man has done wonders since he came before the public. He has navigated the ocean, he has penetrated the mysteries of the starry heavens, he has harnessed the lightning and made it light the great cities of the world.

But he can't find a spool of thread in his wife's workbasket; he can't discover her pocket in a dress hanging in the closet; he cannot hang out clothes and get them on the line the right end up. He cannot hold clothespins in his mouth while he is doing it either. He cannot be polite to somebody he hates. In short, he cannot do a hundred things that women do almost instinctively.

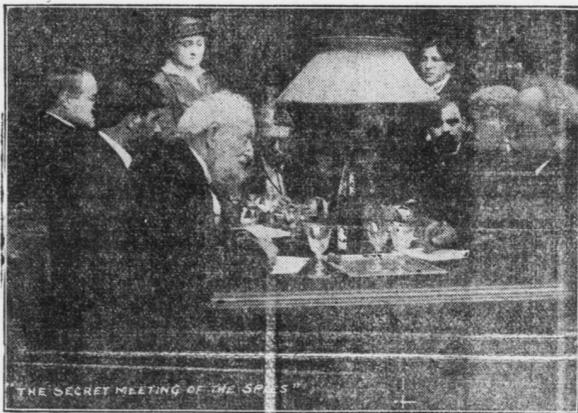

Wilbur P. Graff A Candidate

We take pleasure in making the announcement that Wilbur P. Graff has decided definitely to enter the political arena as an aspirant for the office of State Senator. We do not know anyone who would make a better representative for this Senatorial District. Mr. Graff is one of the best business men in this section of the State, having native ability and long years experience in the most active business life. He has been connected with the First National Bank of this place ever since his graduation from Lafayette College twenty-five years ago. He has been cashier of the institution for upwards of thirteen years and previous to that Assistant Cashier. He is largely interested in farming and knows the needs of the farmer and is ever interested in all that concerns the welfare of the Community, the County, the State and Nation.

Mr. Graff will support all legislation that tends to the moral and material interests of the district.

He is one of our best citizens and stands right on all moral questions. — Blairsville Enterprise. (Political Adv.)
