Reason For Muddy Water

City water patrons have probably noticed that the water coming from their taps and hydrants has been rather muddy for the past several days. This condition is due to the fact that the power company has turned the water out of its pipe line and it is now coming down Battle Creek canyon. The spring water is being commingled with the water from the melting snows, causing the muddy condition. The water is taken out of the pipe line that the company may mend the many leaks that have been a source of complaint from the city and farmers for the past year. It will be out about one more week. The bringing the spring water down the open canyon serves to show the benefit that the power company's plant is to the city in enabling it to deliver the spring water to the city in an absolutely pure condition.

Pushing Construction On Orem Road

Big Track Laying Machine and a Force of Japs to Build a Mile of Track Per Day.

Thursday a big bunch of Japs and Mexicans arrived in Pleasant Grove and commenced work on extending the Interurban track towards Provo. The crew has a big track laying machine with which they can lay about one mile of track per day when used to its maximum capacity. As the grade is now completed, this means that the track should be into the county seat within the next two weeks. When the Provo river is reached there will be a brief halt for the erection of a bridge. But as the cement abutments are already in and the big iron girders are at American Fork ready to be put on, the bridge will cause but a brief delay.

Teams are busy grading out for the depot which will be on the south side of the street, next to Alex Thornton's residence. Some switches have already been put in. Teams are grading for a Y at Lindon which will be the end of the division for a month or more, and as soon as the track is ballasted from American Fork to Lindon, the regular passenger service will be extended to this point. The road will be electrified soon as it reaches Provo.

Promising Fruit Outlook

Heavy Frosts Have Injured Crop In South—Locally, Crop Never Was Heavier.

W. H. Homer, Jr. Secretary of the Fruit Growers' Association, was in Pleasant Grove Thursday. He was most enthusiastic over the fruit outlook and stated that his association had already contracted over 100 acres of peaches at prices in advance over last season. He said that never in Utah's history was the crop so heavy, and at the same time reports indicate that the Texas and Georgia peaches would be way under their general average because of heavy frosts. Parties recently from Michigan say that just as the peaches were coming into bloom the muddy roads were frozen hard enough to hold up a wagon.

There will have to be considerable thing done this year unless we get posts, and the danger is that the cherries may be slightly undersized because of the unusual heavy setting proportional with the number of blossoms. The association is in a most prosperous condition. It has over 600 growers in it and will this year handle over 50 per cent of the fruit crop of the state. The local branch has just received a big shipment of arsenate of lead for spraying purposes.

Grow Celery on Wholesale Plan

John E. Clark is conducting experiments with local farmers. If successful will probably mean more intense farming and greatly increase the revenue from the rich land lying below the fruit lands. Benjamin W. Brown, under Mr. Clark's direction, between Pleasant Grove and American Fork, is preparing a tract of twelve acres which will be planted to celery. It will receive the most modern treatment and when fully developed, will be shipped in car load lots to Chicago and other eastern markets. This same land last year produced some most excellent celery and there are thousands of acres of just such land lying close by. Lord Dees, one of the owners of the D. and R. G., last fall pronounced the Utah celery the best in earth, and expressed wonder that it was not being grown here for the eastern market where it would command a fancy price.

Mr. Clark is also having twelve acres of cabbage planted on the Wm Fool farm which will also be shipped away in car load lots.

He has planted twelve acres of onions on the Thomas Gleason farm, northwest of town, and is growing four acres of parsnips and an acre of table beets.

There is something in the clear skies, irrigation and fertile soil of Utah Valley that gives these vegetables a flavor impossible to obtain in the rainy sections of the east and which makes them bring higher prices than the eastern garden truck.

A man with five or ten acres planted in the above crops is able to make more than the farmer does from forty to fifty acres planted with ordinary crops.

Timpanoogas Town

On the Bench Beginning to Put On Airs and Do Things.

Unless the other towns in Utah county wake up, they may find themselves playing second fiddle to a new town just coming into existence on Provo Bench in the midst of the fruit district of the state.

The new town will be christened "Timpanoogas." It is proposed to erect a city hall, the new interurban road, with modern conveniences of city. A company will sell city lots, buildings and put in coal and fuel sheds. All ready a commercial in existence and taking business matters and going after things that the community needs. The club has appointed committees
