CITY COUNCIL.

Proceedings at the City Council of Tuesday evening, August 31st, 1880, Mayor Little presiding:

A petition was presented by Wm. Jennings, R. T. Burton, James Sharp and John R. Park, representing a committee on behalf of the chancellor and board of regents of the University of Deseret, setting forth that at the last meeting of the Legislature of this territory the sum of $10,000 for each year for 1880 and 1881, was appropriated to the University of Deseret for the purpose of purchasing suitable grounds, and for erecting buildings thereon for University purposes; and that in view of the necessary expense in erecting buildings that will meet the requirements of the institution, and be of a design worthy of the territory and of the city, the sum thus provided would not be adequate for both purposes.

The petitioners therefore asked the Council to consider the propriety of donating to the University of Deseret the sum of $10,000 for each year for 1880 and 1881, to be used for the purpose of purchasing suitable grounds, and for erecting buildings thereon for University purposes; and that in view of the necessary expense in erecting buildings that will meet the requirements of the institution, and be of a design worthy of the territory and of the city, the sum thus provided would not be adequate for both purposes.

A petition was read signed by James Scheindiner representing that he had complied with the requirements of the Council in attending to the seals on Washington Square for the month of August, but that on account of the lack of accommodations for teachers, etc., the fees he had received for the business were insufficient to remunerate him for the amount of service performed. During the month he had weighed 125 loads and received $15, and as he was dependent solely upon this resource for a living the petitioner asked the Council to appropriate sufficient to increase his salary to $40 per month, until such time as the improvement required upon the square for the proper accommodation of the public, was completed.

The committee on streets and alleys, to whom was referred the petition of Kasper & Moritz, who asked permission to conduct water from a well on Spring in pipes through the streets to their brewery in the tenth ward, reported that they had investigated the subject and recommended the granting of their petition. Report adopted.

Alderman Raleigh moved that the wooden culverts now used for conveying water across the streets, be replaced by culverts made of stone or asphalt, as fast as the old ones decay. It was ordered that the wooden culverts be replaced as soon as they are found to be in need of repair, and that no more hydrant cast-iron culverts be allowed to be put in.

The committee on water works submitted a report upon the petitions of Samuel Paul and eight others, and John Clark and fourteen others, both of which petitions asked an extension of the water mains and represented that the inhabitants of the respective localities wherein the petitions resided, would advance to the city the total sum of $1,000 to ward the project, the amount subscribed to be returned to the petitioners on future water rates. The committee recommended, in consideration of the amount subscribed and the number of citizens likely to be benefited by these extensions, that sufficient pipe therefore be purchased and laid without unnecessary delay.

The report was adopted and the superintendent of waterworks instructed to purchase the pipe and cause it to be laid, as recommended. The following bills for the month ending August 31st, 1880, were presented and allowed: Expense bill of the department, $139.35; assistant watermaster, $85; janitor of City Hall and assistant janitor, $60; medical attendance on city property, etc., $30; collecting dog tax, $30.

An appropriation of $1,000 was made to pay corporation notes of May 24th, 1880, given to T. W. Elliker for eight months, but settled by mutual agreement August 27th. The committee appointed at the last meeting of the Council to prepare a resolution expressive of the sentiments of the Council in relation to the expected visit of President Hayes and party and tendering them the freedom and hospitality of the city, rendered their report, accompanied by a preamble and resolution, which was read to the Council, adopted, and referred to the committee on entertainment, to be properly entered for presentation to his excellency, the President.

Upon adjournment, the Council went into session as a board of equalization.

PROTECTING GAME.

How Four Violators of the Fish Law Were Bagged.

A Few Timely Suggestions. SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 31, 1880. Editors Herald:

On the morning of the 29th inst., as Mr. F. Medhurst and myself were just entering the Weber Cañon, we espied a man in the river, which at the mouth of the cañon is quite deep, and being under the impression that he was perhaps using a landing net for the capture of one of the large trout which are sometimes caught there, we watched him intently.

A few moments revealed the true state of affairs, however, and at a glance we saw that he had three companions, and as we approached them we discovered that they were engaged in the nefarious business of spearing fish. The four men had formed in a line, each with a spear in his hand. While thus abreast they commanded the whole width of the beautiful stream, and nothing but their lack of skill of course gave any fish a chance of life.

After watching them intently, so that there could be no mistake, and purposely noting their actions, and plainly seeing them strike at fish with their barpoon-like spears, we drove quickly on with a view to catching some of the party. We soon found that we had the whole party in sight. Driving slowly along so as to avert their suspicion, which, however, seemed to be rather aroused to some extent, we halted after having covered perhaps a hundred yards. After a little consultation we decided to return and make the capture, and let the results take care of themselves.

As there were a few birds flying around we shouldered our guns and walked down upon the enemy. Hailing the men we talked very pleasantly, and asked them quite a number of questions, which they answered promptly, but with some evasion. We could see at once that they felt uneasy, and soon we brought matters to a focus by informing them that as representatives of the Fish Game and Fish Protective Society it was our duty to secure them in their arrest, or to take such action in their matter as the circumstances, when we understood them, might seem to justify.

To be brief, we finally convinced them that the best thing they could do would be to surrender themselves peacefully to us, giving their names and residences, so that we could find them whenever the society or the officers of the company should need them. This seemed to be a fair proposition and they consented to give their names, but here another difficulty arose; we had no writing instrument in the party. Having some rifle cartridges with us, we whittled a bullet down to a point and on the margin of the HERALD we took their names. The poor cases looked miserable enough to satisfy anybody at this juncture, as they had just emerged from the stream, and were wet up to their necks. To add to their discomfort, a cool wind was blowing and with the excitement of the situation it certainly seemed as if they were not enjoying themselves to say the least. Any sentimentality which was suggested by their sorry plight was soon dispelled when we found that all our chances of catching fish had been destroyed by the spearing of the fish.

Such a case is not a common one, and if the sportsmen do not now and hereafter exercise unceasing vigilance in the protection of the fish game, we will soon have none to protect. Some men scoff at the idea of game and fish being destroyed, and contend that there will always be plenty. To such unreasonable ones I will state one fact which I defy them to dispute. This fall not one rabbit can be found, where there are one hundred could be seen almost at a glance. I refer now to the scene of the great rabbit slaughter on the Sand Ridge. It will be remembered that about 4,000 rabbits were killed during the months of October and November of last year. In passing over the same ground a day or two since a party of four saw three rabbits only. You can't keep the same ground open for the month.

Now is the time for sportsmen to decide whether they will stand by the efforts of the Protective Society or not, and it occurs to me that it would be a good idea for the society to open a subscription list, and to have the office of the secretary, and the other two at Carter's and Housner's gun stores, or some other suitable place, so that honorable sportsmen who feel that it is their duty to prosecute these offenders may sign the roll and contribute the sum of 25c, and upwards so as to make provision general on the part of the sportsmen, whose moral and financial aid will be brought to bear against these illegal proceedings, and the effect must be felt.

By the bye, the stream in Farley's Cañon is said to be heavily charged with salmon. This is against the law and should be stopped. Charles Merrill, one of the owners of the mills, admits that it is wrong, but other parties interested seem to make light of the matter, and thus it continues. This should be attended to or the fish will soon be destroyed.

The matter in regard to the Fish and Game society, and their action will be watched with interest. I should judge from the remarks of sportsmen, the laws directly bearing upon these subjects are as follows:

SECTION 2196.—Every person who at any time takes or catches any fish, except with a hook and line and shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor. Sec. 2198.—Every person who puts into the waters of this territory any poisonous or explosive substance, or anything which is injurious to fish, or that renders the water unfit for household purposes, is guilty of a misdemeanor. Sec. 17.—Except in cases where a different punishment is prescribed by this code, every offense declared to be a misdemeanor is punishable by imprisonment in a county jail not exceeding six months, or by fine not exceeding $300, or by both.
