ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

On Wednesday morning an inmate in the house of ill fame of Em. Davis, on Second South street, took laudanum. Her name is given as Lizze Henzberg. The report has it that she received a dispatch in the morning from her sister, stating that her mother had died, and that the fact of her being in a house of prostitution had broken her mother's heart and caused her death. The story goes that on receiving this word she sent out a boy for laudanum, and when he returned she locked the door of her room, and took some of it. Others in the house learning of her having procured the laudanum, went to her room, and finding it locked, broke open the door and prevented her taking the whole amount, which she is said to have been about to do. A doctor was immediately called in, since which time every effort has been made to preserve her life, but so far without any prospect of recovery. At 1:30 o'clock this morning, she was still alive, but was liable to breathe her last at any moment. She had been sick for some time and under the treatment of a physician, and it is possible, was somewhat dependent.

Only a Flesh Wound.

The man, John Borlase, shot at Sandy on Tuesday night, and who was reported to be fatally injured, turns out to be but slightly harmed. The wound is but a flesh one, and there is no danger whatever. He goes home this morning, the wound being so trifling that it is deemed unnecessary to keep him at the hospital longer.

FORTY-SIXTH CONGRESS.

LAST SESSION.

SENATE.

Washington, 22.—Edmunds objected that there was no quorum, but Morgan's resolution was taken up, declaring the President of the Senate not constitutionally authorized to count the electoral votes, so as to determine what votes shall be received and counted and what rejected.

After a long speech, Morgan made a long speech. The electoral count resolution was not acted upon. Booth, from the committee on public lands, reported favorably on the House bill for the relief of settlers on restored railroad lands, and it passed.

Booth introduced a bill to incorporate the Maritime Canal Company of Nicaragua. Referred to the committee on commerce.

After an executive session, a number of private bills passed. Adjourned until January 5th.

HOUSE.

Washington, 22.—After prayer by the chaplain, the Speaker, as is usual, directed the clerk to read the journal of yesterday, whereupon Bowman rose to a question of privilege relative to the disgraceful proceedings which had occurred in the House yesterday.

The Speaker said the chair would prefer the gentleman should wait till the journal should have been read. Bowman (republican) said it was to read the rule of the House stated that members should not be held a prisoner or be subject to the censure of the House for anything said in debate, if further debate or business had intervened. He desired to know whether the reading of the journal cost of the cost used as such intervening business as would shut off further proceedings by the House for the gross violation of its dignity.

The Speaker said the reading of the journal would take from the House none of its privileges. Immediately after the reading of the journal, McLaue, as a question affecting the dignity of the House, called attention to the scene of yesterday which took place on the floor yesterday, and which he characterized as offensive, derogatory and discreditable to the House as a parliamentary body.

He called upon both the offending members, before any other business was entered, to relieve themselves of that offense by ample apology. No response having been made by either member immediately, he called attention to the scene of yesterday which took place on the floor yesterday, and which he characterized as offensive, derogatory and discreditable to the House as a parliamentary body.

Harris, of Virginia, suggested that perhaps both the offending members were now willing to make an apology, and if so, they ought to have an opportunity at once. Haskell suggested that other members had been guilty of conduct equally worthy of censure.

McLaue insisted on his question of privilege, and offered a resolution requiring the two offending members to apologize to the House. In the course of McLaue's remarks, he recognized that most of the members present yesterday were partly responsible for the scene of yesterday.

To that remark, Wood, of New York, took exception, and said he had interferred in the discussion of yesterday and endeavored to confine it to the pending bill. He also characterized the scene as the most shameful exhibition that ever had taken place on the floor.

McLaue, in that concluding his remarks, said he would yield to the gentleman from Iowa (Weaver) if he were now willing to make an apology. Haskell, of Kansas, objected to the proceeding and declared that in his opinion the House should rather make an apology to the country for having suffered an adjournment to take place yesterday without action, and that they to cast off the shoulders the disgrace that belonged there, and to single out members as scape goats for their own sins.
