THE EASTERN newspapers are devoting a good deal of space editorially telling what the Utah Commission is doing and should do. The Commission seems to be composed of gentlemen who, if they are not above accepting newspaper advice, at least can make an attempt to get along without it.

The Cincinnati Gazette says: "Cleveland can now 'hello' to Akron, Canton and Massillon, and be heard." This latter is an interesting announcement, and shows that in Ohio they have the telephone operating in a much higher state of perfection than in Salt Lake. The distance from Cleveland to Akron is thirty-seven miles, to Canton sixty-seven, and to Massillon seventy-five. The "hello" can be heard there seventy-five miles but here the "hello" may consider himself fortunate if he can make himself heard at the central office. The probabilities of being heard elsewhere are decidedly against him a good portion of the time and especially at the particular moment when he would like to be heard in other quarters of the city. But if he cannot make himself heard he usually finds no difficulty in hearing other people's conversations, and much giggling and jollity, in which he can possibly have not the slightest interest. However, the Gazette's item is suggestive of greater possibilities and probabilities for this valuable invention, which the world has had for so short a time, but which it could not well do without, even if it can be utilized only about every third or fourth time that it is called for. Improvements are needed in the instrument, and they will doubtless be made, as also, it is hoped, will be some improvements in its management, if not elsewhere, at least here.

VOTERS IN THE TERRITORIES.

A careful calculation of the proportion of males of voting age in the population of the several States in the Union, shows about one in five though in the west the percentage is higher. This latter is due to the fact that the mining, stock raising and other important industries of the west attract males chiefly. If men have wives and families they leave them behind for a few years, until they have made a "raise," and the lawlessness of the frontier has been overcome. In Arizona, more than half the population is males over 21 years of age, the figures being, population, 40,440; over 21 years old, 20,308. Arizona is perhaps more lawless and less civilized than any other of the territories, which accounts for the small number of young people. Dakota, which can hardly be considered a border territory any longer, had in 1880, 135,177 people, of whom 51,603 were of voting age. An interesting circumstance in connection with Dakota's manly population was that on the census day the foreign born and native voters were very nearly equal in number, the former being 25,486 and the latter 25,476. Idaho, another of the frontier territories, had 14,795 males of voting age in a population numbering only 32,610, while more than half of Montana's people were males over 21 years old, as follows: Population, 39,159; of voting age, 21,544. New Mexico has long been settled, and by a people who have known no other home, hence it shows a smaller percentage of voters. The total population was 119,567, and those of voting age only 24,076. Utah also shows long settlement and the presence of families, her males over 21 numbering but 32,733 in a population of 143,963. Washington territory returned 37,660 males—over 21 in a total of 75,116, and Wyoming 10,170 in a total of 20,789. The next census will show a considerable reduction of the percentage of male voters in all of the territories save perhaps New Mexico, and possibly Utah. In neither of these last western territories is there likely to be an influx of males without families.

ANOTHER ORDER.

The crude legislation, known as the Edmunds law, could not do otherwise than give rise to numerous important questions in its administration. Several of these have gone before the commission, and below we publish another, together with the answer, found in the order made by the commission.

Wm. A. C. Bryan, registration officer for the county of Juab, having submitted to this Commission the following question for our decision:

If, in any case, a man has violated the laws of the United States, prohibiting bigamy or polygamy and is not at the time he may apply to be registered as a voter, actually living with two or more wives, should he, or should he not, be deemed a legal applicant for registration.

The Commission after due consideration make the following order:

That any person, male or female, who, in violation of the act of Congress, approved July 1st, 1862, (sec. 5352, Revised Statutes, United States,) or who, in violation of section 1 of the act of Congress, approved March 22, 1882, entitled "An act to amend section 5352 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, in relation to bigamy, and for other purposes," has entered into any of the relationships described in section 8 of said last named act, is not a legal voter, and cannot be registered.

And the secretary of this Commission is directed to communicate this order to Mr. Bryan; and all other registration officers will take due notice of this order.

Note.—The following is section 8 of said act:

That no polygamist, bigamist, or any person cohabiting with more than one woman, and no woman cohabiting with any of the persons described as aforesaid in this section, in any territory or other place over which the United States have exclusive jurisdiction, shall be entitled to vote at any election held in any such territory or other place, or be eligible for election or appointment to or be entitled to hold any office or place of public trust honor or emolument in, under or for any such territory or place, under the United States.

It now seems the Commission will be under the necessity of modifying somewhat the oath it prescribed for those desiring registration. It will be remembered that the oath excluded from registration only polygamists, bigamists, violators of the laws prohibiting bigamy and polygamy, and persons cohabiting with more than one woman "in the marriage relation." The Commissioners now order that no person who has entered into any of the relationships described in section 8 can be registered, and one of those "relationships" is that of a man cohabiting with more than one woman whether in or out of the marriage relation. The wording of the oath to conform to the reading of the law in this respect, may not exclude many votes from the polls, but it will be accepted as a determination to apply the law in the interest of morality rather than against a religious class.

BAY CITY, Mich., Feb. 3, 1882.

I think it my duty to send you a recommendation for the benefit of any person wishing to know whether Hop Bitters are good or not. I know they are good for general debility and indigestion; strengthen the nervous system and make new life. I recommend my patients to use them.

The Last Run.

This evening the last run for the time being is made in the blast furnace in this city. It will be remembered that the furnace was first lighted and charged on the 19th of August. The first run was made on the 21st; since that time to the present two runs per day have been made. Altogether about sixty tons of pigiron of fine quality have been made. The experiments have been perfectly satisfactory, and the furnace has now been blown out for the purpose of making improvements. Before the furnace is started up again steam power will be employed for blasting purpose, and it is hoped the works will be in full operation before the winter season sets in. In the event, however, that anything should intervene to prevent this matter being consummated, it will necessarily be deferred until spring. But the rolling mills will be erected and kept in operation during the winter months. In a few days Mr. Jones, the lessee, will go east, and during his absence the furnace will remain cold. He will be gone several weeks.—Ogden Herald.
